

I'm not going to go into everything I can possibly tell you about marijuana, because that would take me too long. But I will tell you this;

Alcohol and Tobacco cause hundreds of thousands of deaths every year, Marijuana has no recorded deaths in it's entire history.

Alcohol makes people violent, egoistic, unable to walk, talk and think properly. Marijuana makes people calm, humble, and when used properly, can make you extremely focused, and creative. (Education is required from a young age about responsible use)

The medicinal benefits are there for the world to see, just do some research. And use Colorado as the prime example of what happens when Marijuana is legal. Less crime! We could use that over here! And you will also earn tax money, rather than letting it go into the hands of criminals.

And yes, it should be legal in all forms and for all purposes. It's a plant, not a drug. Drugs kill people. This plant has never killed anybody. Time to wake up Australia!

Cheers!
