

SUBMISSION

- your experiences of extreme weather events and the changing climate
- YES I HAVE WITNESSED Wx EVENTS - They happen regularly - so what ?

- the preparedness of a sector you work in for extreme weather events and climate trends, e.g. electricity, water, transport, telecommunications, health, construction and property, agriculture or forestry:

I understand the forestry industry has been prevented, by Greens Politicians, from preparing for bush fires by use of burn offs. I understand Qld was not prepared for the 100 year flood in terms of insurance that resulted in a levy on everyday Australians country wide.

- the resources needed by emergency services to prevent and respond to extreme weather events

" PREVENT ??? That is a big call - I am not sure we as a race have developed to the point we can control the weather. Respond - yes they are well prepared and have responded to each and every so called 'event' admirably to date - they are to be congratulated.

- the impacts of climate trends on your local area :

the only impact is the decline in business confidence and morale of the Australian people caused by the incessant wolf calls of the AGW Alarmist Religious Leaders

A quote I read recently in relation to this topic "I wonder if the lack of global warming over the past decade has also been due to global warming. At least we know whatever is going on is causing a very significant reduction in global IQ."

At the end of the day I and the great majority of the population reject the AGW Hypothesis and the dubious (arguably falsified) scene upon which it is based.

I wish , in the strongest terms, that you and our Government cease and desist perpetuating that which has been demonstrated time and time again to be at best an exaggeration and in truth an outright deception.

AGW may have started as a legitimate concern but has been hijacked by the politicians and environmental movement to further their own careers and misguided causes.

AGW is a myth and a political agenda disguised as environmentalism.

Please STOP your alarmism and start governing for the people and by the people.
