I support migration. I do not support multiculturalism. Multiculturalism, devalues the Australian culture. This can be seen for example with the Muslim call for Shariah law. This would in effect create a dual legal system in our country, whereas one of our key values in Australian culture is that everyone is treated equally before the law. One law for everyone.

If migrants choose to come to Australia, it is typically because they believe that our country has something to offer which they did not have in their country of origin. Maintaining the Australian culture and requiring migrants to adhere to our existing culture are important to the ongoing cohesion and prosperity of our nation.

Yours sincerely,
