On the motion of Mr Reith (Minister for Employment, Workplace Relations and Small Business) amendments Nos 1, 3 and 5 were agreed to, after debate.

On the motion of Mr Reith, amendments Nos 2 and 7 were disagreed to, after debate.

Mr Reith presented reasons, which were circulated, and are as follows:

Reasons of the House of Representatives for disagreeing to the amendments of the Senate

Senate Amendment No. 2

This amendment amends the definition of an 'equal opportunity for women in the workplace program' so that a program will be required to be designed to ensure that employers not only contribute to, but also promote, the achievement of equal opportunity for women.

This amendment is unnecessary, for the following reasons. The provision in the bill requiring programs to 'contribute to' the achievement of equal opportunity is broad enough to encompass both substantive measures and promotional activities. Indeed, the achievement of equal employment opportunity would, in most cases, require employers to take promotional activities of some kind. 'Promotion' in the broader context is provided for in the proposed principal objects of the Act, which will include that the Act promote the principle that employment for women should be dealt with on the basis of merit and that the Act promote the elimination of discrimination and the provision of equal opportunity for women. Accordingly, the House of Representatives does not accept this amendment.

Senate Amendment No. 7

This amendment introduces a range of amendments to the Sex Discrimination Act 1984 and the Human Rights and Equal Opportunity Commission Act 1986. These amendments form a package intended to implement a number of recommendations of the Human Rights and Equal Opportunity Commission's National Pregnancy and Work Inquiry Report, Pregnant and Productive.

Discrimination against pregnant or potentially pregnant employees is a matter of great concern. The Attorney-General asked the Human Rights and Equal Opportunity Commission to undertake the National Pregnancy and Work Inquiry. The report from that Inquiry, Pregnant and Productive, is a comprehensive document setting out a large number of recommendations. Many of these recommendations are complex; all require careful and coordinated consideration.

The amendments proposed by this Senate amendment should be considered together with the other recommendations of the report. The Government is in the process of considering the report and formulating a response which will deal comprehensively with the recommendations made. Accordingly, the House of Representatives does not accept this amendment.

On the motion of Mr Reith, the reasons were adopted.

On the motion of Mr Reith, amendments Nos 4 and 6 were disagreed to and Government amendments Nos 1 and 2 were made in place thereof respectively, after debate.

Paper

Mr Reith presented a supplementary explanatory memorandum to the Bill.

Mr Reith moved—That in the message returning the Bill to the Senate, the Senate be requested to reconsider the Bill in respect of the amendments made by the House of Representatives to the Bill.
