- (a) notes that:
 - (i) the Chinese Ambassador to Australia, Madam Fu Ying, stated in December 2005 that China does not have sufficient uranium for both its weapons and civilian energy programs,
 - (ii) Australian yellowcake needs to go to conversion, enrichment and processing facilities before being allocated to declared civilian nuclear power stations,
 - (iii) most of the conversion, enrichment and processing facilities are not declared facilities and are therefore not covered by International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) safeguards, and
 - (iv) those facilities that are declared are only declared at the discretion of the Chinese Government, and therefore are voluntary and can at any time be removed from IAEA safeguards;
- (b) recognises therefore that by exporting uranium to China, Australia will be supporting, either directly or indirectly, the Chinese nuclear weapons program in contravention of the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty; and
- (c) opposes and condemns the export of uranium to China.

*417 Senator Milne: To move—That the Senate—

- (a) notes:

 - (ii) that India conducted nuclear tests in 1998, prompting the Australian Government to sever defence links with India,
 - (iii) that India resumed missile testing in 2001, using an intermediate range ballistic missile capable of carrying a nuclear warhead,
 - (iv) that India has still not become a party to either the Comprehensive Test Ban Treaty nor the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty, and
 - (v) India has a well-developed, active and secret program to outfit its uranium enrichment program and circumvent other countries’ technology export control efforts, according to a recently-released report by the United States of America-based Institute of Science and International Security; and

BUSINESS FOR FUTURE CONSIDERATION

Next day of sitting (10 May 2006)

Business of the Senate—Notices of Motion

Notice given 27 March 2006

1 Senator Bartlett: To move—That—

- (a) the Senate notes that:
 - (i) for much of the 20th century, respective Australian state and territory legislation established government control over the lives of many Indigenous Australians,
 - (ii) in relation to financial affairs, state and territory governments:
 - (A) controlled the employment, earnings and entitlements of many Indigenous people,
 - (B) did not always provide written evidence of dealings on their monies,
 - (C) were legally responsible for the trust accounts into which private monies were placed, and
 - (D) did not always pay Indigenous people the full amount of earnings to which they were legally entitled,
 - (iii) research to date shows that in some cases significant sums have yet to be repaid, and
 - (iv) publicly available evidence also shows that some Indigenous Australians suffered physical, sexual and financial abuse at the hands of employers and officials designated to protect their interests; and
- (b) the following matters be referred to the Legal and Constitutional References Committee for inquiry and report by the last sitting day of 2006:
 - (i) the approximate number of Indigenous workers in each state and territory whose paid labour was controlled by government,
 - (ii) the financial arrangements regarding their wages, such as the cash component of the wage; what procedures were implemented to ensure the wage was paid; what proportion of the wage was withheld under government control; what were the constraints on workers accessing their savings; how could workers verify dealings on their monies; and when were they given free control of their accounts,
 - (iii) what effective security did governments initiate to safeguard Indigenous wards from physical, sexual and employment abuses; how did governments respond to reported abuses; and were the best interests of wards prioritised in government employment policies,

- (iv) how were intercepted wages and savings safeguarded from fraud by employers, government agents and mission personnel; were governments warned that workers' wages or savings were at risk of fraud or loss; and how did governments respond to recommendations for tighter security of workers' funds,
- (v) did governments impose levies and taxes on Indigenous monies under their control in addition to federal income tax; what was the quantum, purpose and duration of such levies; were Indigenous people informed of these levies; and were the levies properly applied,
- (vi) to what extent did governments control the distribution to Indigenous beneficiaries of maternity allowances, child endowment, pensions, workers compensation, inheritances and estates; were these entitlements distributed in full to all beneficiaries; did governments delegate distribution of maternity allowances, child endowment and pensions to other parties such as protectors, pastoralists or missions; what procedures did governments put in place to ensure these delegates passed on the full entitlement to beneficiaries; and what is the incidence of any misappropriation of these entitlements,
- (vii) what trust funds did governments establish from Indigenous earnings, savings and entitlements; how were these funds secured against losses by fraud, negligence or misappropriation; what was the extent of investment of trust funds and to whose profit; to what extent did investment programs disadvantage trust beneficiaries; did governments receive warnings or advice regarding misuse of trust funds; and how did they respond,
- (viii) what investigations have states and territories undertaken into official management of Indigenous monies during the 20th century; what commitment have the states and territories made to disclose this evidence to the individuals or descendants who were denied written record of dealings on their own monies; what is the extent of current databases and what resources are applied to make full discovery of financial management of private monies available to individuals and descendants; what funding has been applied to compile databases as a resource to contest legal action by aggrieved parties; and whether all financial records should be controlled by a qualified neutral body to ensure security of the data and equity of access,
- (ix) what commitments are state and territory governments making to quantify wages, savings and entitlements missing or misappropriated under official management, and to compensate the persons or descendants of all those who endured financial loss and/or physical or sexual abuses; and what is the responsibility of governments to repay or compensate those who suffered physically or financially under 'protection' regimes,
- (x) what mechanisms have been implemented in other jurisdictions with similar histories of Indigenous protection strategies to redress injustices suffered by wards, and

- (xi) whether there is a need to 'set the record straight' through a national forum to publicly air the complexity and the consequences of mandatory controls over Indigenous labour and finances during most of the 20th century.

1148 Senator Allison: To ask the Minister for Communications, Information Technology and the Arts—

- (1) Can the Minister clarify a recent statement that the Government will ensure services to customers in areas of ‘market failure’ after full privatisation of Telstra.
- (2) Are ‘areas of market failure’ determined by the Government to be in: (a) rural; (b) remote; or (c) metropolitan, areas.
- (3) What is the Government’s definition of ‘market failure’.
- (4) To what extent and how does the Government consider that the privatisation of the Telstra environment will facilitate competition in areas of ‘market failure’.
- (5) Has the Government accepted that areas of ‘market failure’, however defined, are never likely to attract competition.
- (6) Does the Government agree that the commitment to ensure services to customers in areas of ‘market failure’ provides a perverse incentive for Telstra to: (a) withhold or diminish services in these areas; and (b) impede efforts by competitors to set up service provision in these areas.
- (7) What is the extent of ‘market failure’ that has been caused by Telstra’s prevention of other businesses from setting up services.
- (8) How will the Government deal with the well-documented cases of Telstra pushing small competitors out of business when they try to establish competing businesses, particularly in regional areas in, for example, Crookwell, Bungendore and Albury-Wodonga.
- (9) How will the Government deal with excessive regulatory gaming by Telstra, whereby it effectively delays or prevents access by competitors to declared services.
- (10) What is the Government’s estimation of the effect of the proposed additional regulation on: (a) Telstra’s annual profits; and (b) Telstra’s share price.
- (11) Does the Government have a conflict of interest in protecting the shareholders from the cost of additional regulation and ensuring consumers receive the benefits of modern telecommunications infrastructure and services; if so, to what extent.
- (12) How will the Government reconcile the mutually exclusive objective of providing for effective regulation of telecommunications and maximising Telstra’s share price.
- (13) How will the Government ensure that the operational separation model for Telstra creates an incentive for Telstra to treat its retail arm and its competitors equitably.
- (14) How will the Government ensure that Telstra does not operate its retail arm at a loss by charging high wholesale prices to itself and competitors.
- (15) Will the Government give the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission (ACCC) divestiture powers in case operational separation fails.
- (16) What were the reasons for structural separation of Telstra not being considered in the package.

- (17) Does the Government agree that the fact that Telstra is vertically integrated is the single most important factor in Australia being ranked 21st in broadband penetration in the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) Communications Outlook, 2005.
- (18) How does Australia compare with other OECD countries in terms of the rate of penetration of broadband, as opposed to the current rate of uptake.
- (19) Does the Government acknowledge that Australia's rate of uptake is relatively high because it starts from a very low base compared with other OECD countries.
- (20) How does the Government's definition of 'broadband' differ from other countries in the OECD.
- (21) What will the Government do about the obvious weakness of the anti-competitive conduct regime in the Trade Practices Act as demonstrated by the ACCCs experience with the Telstra broadband pricing competition notice.
- (22) What will the Government do to make it easier for Telstra's competitors to get access to reasonably-priced backhaul.
- (23) How will the Government ensure that people in regional areas where there is no competition receive better broadband services as standards improve in metropolitan areas.
- (24) What safeguards will the Government put in place to ensure that money put aside for regional areas will: (a) not simply fall back into Telstra's hands so as to cement its monopoly in regional areas; and (b) be applied equitably and not directed to Coalition or marginal electorates.

- (5) Will the Minister also ensure that appropriate staff screening, selection, recruitment, training and supervision measures are in place when determining whether an organisation is a fit and proper recipient of funds (either new or ongoing) under the CSTDA, especially in institutions where disabled persons have been alleged or found to be the victims of physical, sexual and emotional abuse, as with the HOSJG.
- (6) Overall, and with respect to the answer to question on notice no. 1459, will the Minister display an appropriate level of ministerial responsibility by responding to these questions in a substantive manner rather than with blunt, dismissive and uncaring responses as previously received.

- *1681 Senator Stott Despoja: To ask the Minister representing the Minister for Health and Ageing—With reference to the recently-announced pregnancy support counselling package and the National Pregnancy Support Telephone Helpline:
- (1) When will the regulations for the new Medicare item number be introduced in the Parliament.
 - (2) Through what mechanism will the helpline be implemented; for example, will it require legislation or regulation; if so, when will the legislation or regulations be introduced.
 - (3) Will the helpline be providing a counselling service, a referral service, or both.
 - (4) If the helpline will be providing counselling, will this be available for women who wish to continue with their pregnancies and/or women who wish to terminate their pregnancies and/or women who are uncertain about whether they wish to continue or terminate their pregnancies.
 - (5) The Medicare Benefits Schedule (MBS) items will be available to women who have had a pregnancy in the preceding 12 months: will women who have:
 - (a) had a baby in the preceding 12 months be provided with information and support through the helpline; if not: (i) why not, (ii) what services will be available to them, and (iii) how and at what point will it be made clear that this service does not provide support for women who have had babies in the preceding 12 months; and
 - (b) had an abortion in the preceding 12 months be provided with information and support through the helpline; if not: (i) why not, (ii) what services will be available to them, and (iii) how and at what point will it be made clear that this service does not provide support for women who have had an abortion in the preceding 12 months.
 - (6) If the helpline will be providing a referral service, will this be available to women who wish to continue with their pregnancies and/or women who wish to terminate their pregnancies and/or women who are uncertain about whether they wish to continue or terminate their pregnancies; if so, why; if not, why not.
 - (7) The Government's media release states 'The Helpline will provide information on a full range of services and organisations available to support pregnant women':
 - (a) what does the Government mean by the phrase 'services and organisations available to support pregnant women'; and
 - (b) does this include services for women who wish to terminate their pregnancies, that is, will the helpline refer women to pregnancies termination services; if not: (i) what support and information will be provided by the helpline to women who want to terminate their pregnancies, (ii) how will women who want to terminate their pregnancies be informed that the helpline does not refer to abortion services, (iii) at what point in any call to the helpline will women be informed that the helpline does not refer to abortion services, (iv) will the 'targeted communication activities' to inform women of the helpline make it clear that the helpline does not support women seeking abortion or refer to abortion services; if not, why not, and

- (v) what other services will be available to support women who want to terminate their pregnancies before and after a decision to terminate.
- (8) If the helpline will be referring women to other support and counselling services:
- (a) what is meant by the 'broad philosophy within which any organisation or service provider operates';
 - (b) will the broad philosophy include whether the service supports or refers women who wish to have an abortion;
 - (c) how will the Government determine the 'broad philosophy within which any organisation or service provider operates';
 - (d) will the referral to another service include a clear statement of whether the services provides a referral to an abortion clinic; if not, why not;
 - (e) how and at what point in the conversation will women calling the helpline be informed of the philosophical outlook of a service they are being referred to;
 - (f) how will the Government determine which services the helpline will refer women to;
 - (g) will the helpline only refer to services in receipt of Government funding;
 - (h) will the helpline have the Government imprimatur on it; if so, what are the legitimate expectations and level of trust that women can have of a service endorsed by the Government;
 - (i) will the services that women will be referred to by the helpline have the Government imprimatur on them; if so, does this mean that the Government is endorsing these services;
 - (j) what recourse will women have if they are deceived, misled or subjected to malpractice by services to which they are referred by the helpline (i.e. where can complaints be lodged, who will respond to such complaints and in what time frame); and
 - (k) what will be the consequences for services that women are referred to by the helpline that deceive or mislead women or otherwise provide a service which is not consistent with good practice in counselling.
- (9) Will the helpline give women factual information about abortion; if so: (a) how will the factual nature be determined; (b) will it be determined by the World Health Organization (WHO) or relevant professional medical and health bodies (the Australian Medical Association, for instance).
- (10) Will the helpline be permitted to provide information contradicted by organisations like the WHO or relevant professional medical and health bodies; if so, why; if not, what will be the consequences for the contracted service if they do.
- (11) What sort of undertakings and monitoring will the Government be doing to ensure women are being delivered an honest, unbiased service by the helpline.
- (12) What recourse will women have if they are given deceiving or misleading information about the risks of termination by services to which they are referred by the helpline (i.e. where can complaints be lodged, who will respond to such complaints and in what time frame).

- (13) The media release states that the contract for the successful tenderer to provide the helpline will include regular reporting against 'agreed outcomes':
 - (a) will an agreed outcome be to reduce the number of abortions in Australia; if so: (i) how is this consistent with the service being non-directive, and (ii) what will be the consequence for services that fail to deliver it; and
 - (b) will an agreed outcome be to reduce the number of unplanned pregnancies; if not, why not.
- (14) According to the information available so far, to qualify for the MBS rebate general practitioners (GPs) may provide the counselling or refer clients to an allied health professional to receive counselling:
 - (a) will GPs and allied health professionals be required to declare their philosophical outlook with regard to abortion, including whether they will refer women to an abortion service; if not, how will the Government ensure that women are receiving an unbiased service; and
 - (b) how will GPs know who to refer to.
- (15) Why have qualified GPs, psychologists and other professionals, who just happen to work for abortion clinics, been excluded from the MBS rebate.
- (16) Why has the Government excluded these professionals, but not pregnancy counsellors who are linked to anti-choice organisations.
- (17) What role will the Minister play in determining the successful tenderer for the helpline.
- (18) What is the timeline for the tender process.
- (19) Who will decide who will sit on the advisory council for the: (a) helpline operator tender process; and (b) development of the training modules tender process.
- (20) (a) What criteria will be used to determine what professional bodies will be represented on the advisory councils; and (b) who will decide these criteria.
- (21) How often will the performance of the successful tenderer be evaluated.
- (22) Given that post-natal depression affects one in seven women giving birth in Australia, including pregnancies which were planned, why is the availability of the MBS pregnancy counselling item post pregnancy restricted to women who have had an unintended pregnancy in the preceding 12 months.
- (23) Is the Government going to introduce an MBS pregnancy counselling item which will be available to support all women post pregnancy.
- (24) Will the MBS item counselling be available to women regardless of whether they continue with their pregnancies or not.
- (25) The Government's questions and answers document on the pregnancy support measures says that the helpline is for women who wish to explore their options in the face of unintended pregnancy or where they are uncertain about continuing with the pregnancy and that callers in other circumstances will be referred to more appropriate services: does this mean that women with a planned pregnancy will not be able to use this helpline to access support; if not, will the Government be providing funding for pregnancy support counselling for these women.

- (26) Will the Government be providing funding to support GPs and allied health professionals to undertake the training module that will be developed in relation to pregnancy counselling and advice, as it did for the Better Outcomes in Mental Health Care Program.
- (27) Why will it not be mandatory for GPs to have completed the training module that will be developed in relation to pregnancy counselling and advice before they are able to access the MBS pregnancy counselling item as was required for the Medicare items for the GP counselling.
- (28) Given that the proposed helpline closely resembles one proposed by Senator Santoro in 2005, can you please advise which of Senator Santoro's following proposals will be included in the Government's hotline:
- (a) details of support and support organisations available to women during pregnancy;
 - (b) details of support and support organisations for women with a new baby;
 - (c) details of government financial benefits available to women who have a new baby and ongoing support for single mothers;
 - (d) medical information about pregnancy and foetal development, childbirth and abortion, including information about the risks associated with abortion, both long-term and short-term, physical and psychological; if so, will this information be approved by the AMA, WHO, or National Health and Medical Research Council;
 - (e) medical information about the risks involved with a pregnancy and childbirth; and
 - (f) information on options other than abortion; if so, will the helpline also give out information on the abortion option and provide referrals to abortion service providers.
- (29) The goals of Senator Santoro's proposal included collecting:
- (a) demographic information on women who have abortions, such as statistics on age and marital status;
 - (b) statistics on the gestational age at which pregnancies are terminated;
 - (c) the ground for abortions taking place (that is, for reason of physical or mental health of women having abortions, or because of suspected medical condition of the foetus);
 - (d) statistics on methods used to terminate the pregnancy;
 - (e) statistics on post-operative complications experienced by women who have abortions;
 - (f) information on the number of abortions which take place in metropolitan and country hospitals, public and private facilities, and on whether the woman undergoing the abortion is a metropolitan or country resident; and
 - (g) statistics on the category, that is, where, of doctor performing the termination.

Can the department confirm:

- (i) whether any of this information will be collected about women terminating their pregnancies, and

- (ii) the reporting requirements for counsellors operating under the Government's proposed pregnancy counselling helpline (for example, will they play a role in confirming the legality of a woman's reasons for terminating; will they report on the names of doctors the woman has seen about this or other pregnancies and the nature of their advice and referral patterns; and will they report on the woman's experience with an abortion service provider).

- (2) The Senate reaffirms its resolution of 20 June 1996, relating to procedures to be followed by committees in cases of unauthorised disclosure of committee proceedings.
- (3) The Senate provides the following guidelines to be observed by committees in applying that resolution, and declares that the Senate will observe the guidelines in determining whether to refer a matter to the Committee of Privileges:
 1. Unless there are particular circumstances involving actual or potential substantial interference with the work of a committee or of the Senate, the following kinds of unauthorised disclosure should not be raised as matters of privilege:
 - (a) disclosure of a committee report in the time between the substantial conclusion of the committee's deliberations on the report and its presentation to the Senate;
 - (b) disclosure of other documents prepared by a committee and not published by the committee, where the committee would have published them, or could appropriately have published them, in any event, or where they contain only research or publicly-available material, or where their disclosure is otherwise inconsequential;
 - (c) disclosure of documents and evidence submitted to a committee and not published by the committee, where the committee would have published them, or could appropriately have published them, in any event;
 - (d) disclosure of private deliberations of a committee where the freedom of the committee to deliberate is unlikely to be significantly affected.
 2. The following kinds of unauthorised disclosure are those for which the contempt jurisdiction of the Senate should primarily be reserved, and which should therefore be raised as matters of privilege:
 - (a) disclosure of documents or evidence submitted to a committee where the committee has deliberately decided to treat the documents or evidence as in camera material, for the protection of witnesses or others, or because disclosure would otherwise be harmful to the public interest;

- (b) disclosure of documents prepared by a committee where that involves disclosure of material of the kind specified in paragraph (a);
 - (c) disclosure of private deliberations of a committee where that involves disclosure of that kind of material, or significantly impedes the committee's freedom to deliberate.
3. An unauthorised disclosure not falling into the categories in guidelines 1 and 2 should not be raised as a matter of privilege unless it involves actual or potential substantial interference with the work of a committee or of the Senate.
 4. When considering any unauthorised disclosure of material in the possession of a committee, the committee should consider whether there was any substantive reason for not publishing that material.
- (4) Before deciding to raise a matter of privilege involving possible unauthorised disclosure of committee proceedings, any committee may seek the guidance of the Committee of Privileges as to whether a matter should be pursued. If the committee decides that such a matter should be raised, it must consult with the Committee of Privileges before taking the matter further.
 - (5) When applying this resolution a committee shall have regard to the matters set out in paragraphs 3.43 to 3.59 of the 122nd Report of the Committee of Privileges, June 2005.

A GUIDE TO THE NOTICE PAPER

The Notice Paper is issued each sitting day and contains details of current business before the Senate. Its structure is based on four main types of business, as follows:

Matters of privilege take precedence over all other business and are listed at the beginning of the Notice Paper when they arise. They consist of notices of motion which the President has determined warrant such precedence and any orders relating to uncompleted debates on such motions.

Business of the Senate has precedence over government and general business for the day on which it is listed. It includes disallowance motions, orders of the day for the presentation of committee reports, motions to refer matters to standing committees, motions for leave of absence for a senator and motions concerning the qualification of a senator.

Government business is business initiated by a minister. It takes precedence over general business except for a period of 2½ hours each week set aside on Thursdays for general business.

General business is all other business initiated by senators who are not ministers. It takes precedence over government business only as described above.

Within each of these categories, business consists of notices of motion and orders of the day:

Notices of motion are statements of intention that senators intend to move particular motions on the days indicated. They are entered on the Notice Paper in the order given and may be given jointly by two or more senators. Notices of motion are usually considered before orders of the day.

Orders of the day are items of business which the Senate has ordered to be considered on particular days, usually arising from adjourned debates on matters (including legislation) or requirements to present committee reports.

On days other than Thursdays, the Notice Paper records in full current items of business of the Senate and government business, but includes only new items of general business from the previous sitting day. On Thursdays, business relating to the consideration of government documents, committee reports and government responses to committee reports is also published.

Other sections in the Notice Paper are as follows:

Orders of the day relating to committee reports and government responses follows government business and lists orders of the day for adjourned debates on motions to consider or adopt committee reports and government responses which have been presented during the week. These orders may be considered for one hour on Thursdays at the conclusion of general business. New items appear in the following day's Notice Paper. The section is printed in full on Thursdays.

Orders of the day relating to government documents appears in general business and lists orders of the day for adjourned debates on motions to take note of government documents. Such orders arise from consideration of the government documents presented on a particular day and include consideration of any documents not reached on the day. They are also listed for consideration for one hour on Thursdays during the consideration of general business. New items appear in the following day's Notice Paper. The section is printed in full on Thursdays.

Business for future consideration lists any notice of motion or order of the day to be considered on a specific day in the future; for example, a committee report ordered to be presented on a specific date, or a notice of motion given for a day other than the next day of sitting.

Bills referred to committees lists all bills or provisions of bills currently being considered by committees.

Questions on notice includes the text of new questions on notice and lists the numbers of unanswered questions.

Orders of the Senate includes orders of short-term duration such as orders for production of documents and those relating to days of sitting for a period of sittings.

Contingent notices of motion are statements of intention by senators that, contingent on a specified occurrence, they may move a motion, usually to suspend standing orders. They are grouped by subject.

Temporary chairs of committees is a daily list of all senators appointed to take the chair in the absence of the President or Deputy President.

Categories of committees is a daily list, categorised by type, of Senate and joint committees. Details of each committee appear in the committee section.

Committees lists all of Senate and joint committees, including membership, current inquiries and reports presented on or since the previous sitting day.

Senate appointments to statutory authorities lists the statutory authorities on which the Senate is represented and details of representation.

Ministerial representation lists Senate ministers and the portfolios they represent.

The ‘full’ Notice Paper

On the first day of each period of sittings a full Notice Paper is printed listing all outstanding business before the Senate, including the full text of all unresolved notices of motion and unanswered questions on notice. This edition is a complete reference to unresolved business from earlier in the session and is useful to keep. All business before the Senate is published daily in the full online version of the Notice Paper, available on ParlInfo and on the Senate’s Internet site at aph.gov.au/senate.

Inquiries concerning the Notice Paper or business listed in it may be directed to the Senate Table Office on (02) 6277 3018.
