Senator Moore asked:

How will the marriage education vouchers policy be administered?

Answer:

The relationship voucher trial will provide 100,000 $200 vouchers to assist couples to access marriage and relationship education, and marriage and relationship counselling, including components of parenting education, conflict resolution, or financial management education. The trial will be for 12 months and begin in July 2014. The department is currently working on further details of this policy and how it will be administered.
