Senator Cash asked:

I note that in the document under the section “Target” it states that: Some portfolios have already reached the target, some are close to reaching the target, and others are encountering significant challenges in meeting the target. Please provide a list of those portfolios who have reached the target, are close to reaching the target and those who are encountering significant challenges in meeting the target. For those who are encountering significant challenges in meeting the target, what is the Office for Women doing to assist them in reaching the target?

The Gender Balance on Australian Government Boards Report 2011-2012 was released on 15 November 2012 and is available via the Office for Women website www.fahcsia.gov.au/our-responsibilities/women/overview
