

Protocol for the division of work between the Family Court of Australia and the Federal Magistrates Court

If any one of the following criteria applies, then the application for final orders ordinarily should be filed and/or heard in the Family Court of Australia ("FCoA"), if judicial resources permit, otherwise the matter should be filed and/or heard in the Federal Magistrate Court ("FMC").

1. International child abduction.
2. International relocation
3. Disputes as to whether a case should be heard in Australia.
4. Special medical procedures (of the type such as gender reassignment and sterilisation).
5. Contravention and related applications in parenting cases relating to orders which have been made in FCoA proceedings; which have reached a final stage of hearing or a judicial determination and which have been made within 12 months prior to filing.
6. Serious allegations of sexual abuse of a child warranting transfer to the Magellan list or similar list where applicable, and serious allegations of physical abuse of a child or serious controlling family violence warranting the attention of a superior court.
7. Complex questions of jurisdiction or law.
8. Status of marriage or leave to adopt.
9. If the matter proceeds to a final hearing, it is likely it would take in excess of four days of hearing time.

Transfers and uplift power

1. Either court on its own motion can transfer a matter to the other court.
2. Parties can apply to the FCoA to have a matter heard in the FCoA or removed from the FCoA.
3. There be no right of appeal from a decision as to transfer.
4. There be an adhoc committee of one judge and one federal magistrate in each registry to provide guidance and assistance towards ensuring consistent application of the new guidelines for division of work between the two courts.
5. The Chief Justice and the Chief Federal Magistrate may consult from time to time with a view to uplifting matters appropriate for hearing in the Family Court.

Senate Legal & Constitutional Affairs Committee
Supplementary Budget Estimates 2009-2010
19-20 October 2009

Tabled Document No 2

By: Family Court

Date: 19/10/2009 12:00