- (2) remembers those Australians who have lost their lives in terrorism incidents, both abroad and on our shores, and their families who are forever impacted; and
- (3) thanks the men and women of our law enforcement and national security agencies who work every day to keep Australians safe from the threat of terrorism.

4 NATIONAL HOMELESSNESS WEEK

Mr Burns, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) notes that:
 - (a) the week of 1 to 7 August 2022 is National Homelessness Week, with the theme of 'To end homelessness we need a plan';
 - (b) National Homelessness Week aims to raise awareness of the impact of homelessness in Australia via national and local community events, including providing information on the importance of housing as a solution and educating communities on how they can make a difference;
 - (c) sadly, there were 116,427 people homeless on census night in 2016; and
 - (d) access to secure and affordable housing has significant social, economic and personal benefits; and
- (2) acknowledges that the Government has committed to a reform agenda to address the challenges of homelessness including:
 - (a) establishing a $10 billion Housing Australia Future Fund which will:
 - (i) build 30,000 social and affordable housing properties in its first five years;
 - (ii) provide $200 million for the repair, maintenance and improvements of housing in remote Indigenous communities;

- (iii) fund $100 million for crisis and transitional housing options for women and children fleeing domestic and family violence and older women on low incomes who are at risk of homelessness; and
- (iv) build more housing and fund specialist services for veterans who are experiencing homelessness or at-risk homelessness;
- (b) introducing the National Housing Supply and Affordability Council to ensure the Commonwealth plays a leadership role in increasing housing supply and improving housing affordability; and
- (c) developing a new national housing and homelessness plan with the support and assistance of key stakeholders.

5 NATIONAL BROADBAND NETWORK

Mr Stevens, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) notes that:
 - (a) after six years under the previous Labor Government only 51,000 premises were connected to the national broadband network (NBN) at a cost of $6 billion;
 - (b) today, after nine years under a Coalition Government, there are over 12 million premises ready to connect to the NBN; and
 - (c) Australians were only able to work from home during the COVID-19 pandemic due to the Coalition Government's rollout of the NBN;
- (2) acknowledges that upgrades to the NBN were able to be made only because the Coalition Government adopted a policy of building the NBN quickly using the least cost technology;
- (3) further notes that the Government has backflipped on their previous policy of fibre to every premises and adopted the Coalition's upgrade policy but cannot identify how it will be funded; and
- (4) calls on the Government to explain how they will fund their NBN policy and whether this will include an added cost to Australians.

6 CASHLESS DEBIT CARD

Mr Hill, pursuant to notice, moved—That the House:

- (1) welcomes the Government's commitment to abolish the previous Government's cruel cashless debit card scheme, an insidious form of privatised welfare;
- (2) notes that the previous Government wasted over $170 million on its cruel privatised cashless debit card rather than on services that local communities need, despite there being no key performance indicators, evidence or evaluation conducted to support their scheme as the Auditor-General found in two independent reports to Parliament in 2018 and 2022;
- (3) condemns the previous Government for its plans to make its cashless card permanent and extend it to all social security recipients including pensioners;
- (4) further welcomes the impending liberation of thousands of Australians who were forced onto this cruel scheme in trial sites, and expresses relief that all social security recipients including pensioners will now avoid this fate;
- (5) calls on the Liberal Party of Australia and The Nationals to apologise for the harm done to thousands of Australians forced onto this cruel card;
- (6) welcomes the Government's commitment to return self-determination to Aboriginal communities, while noting that Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people were disproportionately targeted by the former Government in what amounted to a racist scheme;

- (7) declares that the Government, not private corporations, should run the social security system and Centrelink for the benefit of social security recipients, including pensioners who worked hard and paid taxes all their lives; and
- (8) affirms the Government's principles for income management—which are that any income management should be voluntary, non-privatised, supported by evidence and subject to ongoing evaluation.

- (2) notes that:
 - (a) to date, Indonesia has recorded hundreds of thousands of FMD cases during the uncontrolled outbreak of this disease;
 - (b) an outbreak of FMD in Australia would inflict catastrophic damage on Australia's $80 billion livestock industry, decimate the agriculture sector, significantly hurt the Australian economy, and increase the everyday cost of food;
 - (c) since FMD was detected in Bali on 5 July 2022, it took more than three weeks of indecision and delay for the Government to introduce disinfectant footbaths at international Australian airports; and
 - (d) the Government has failed to respond quickly and decisively to this biosecurity threat, and has failed in its responsibility to introduce critical biosecurity protections to keep Australia safe from FMD; and
- (3) calls on the Government to immediately:
 - (a) offer a 3D X-ray screening program with Indonesia, so that organic and plant matter in luggage can be effectively identified;
 - (b) enforce a ban on all passengers from Indonesia bringing any food products into Australia; and
 - (c) confirm the current biosecurity risk level and at what point, predicated on scientific data, the international border with Indonesia would need to be temporarily closed, in order to protect Australia from the threat of FMD.

- (3) commends the Government's commitment to closing the gender pay gap, including:
 - (a) establishing an independent Women's Economic Security Taskforce to help inform budget investments in advancing economic equality;
 - (b) making gender pay equity an object of the Fair Work Act 2009;
 - (c) requiring large companies to publish their gender pay gaps; and
 - (d) backing a real pay rise for aged care workers, who are overwhelmingly women, and look to provide backing for similar industries; and

6 MATTER OF PRIVILEGE RAISED BY MR BANDT—STATEMENT BY SPEAKER

The Speaker made the following statement:

I inform the House that more than two weeks ago, and while the House was not sitting, the Honourable Member for Melbourne raised a matter of privilege with me, under standing order 52.

In his correspondence the Member for Melbourne provided information and his reasons for requesting the urgent referral to the Committee of Privileges and Members' Interests, as a matter of privilege or contempt, whether the Member for Cook had deliberately misled the House by action or omission, in causing himself when he was Prime Minister, to be sworn in to multiple portfolios as an additional minister without informing the House.

I have responded to the Member for Melbourne about the matters he raised, and I now also report to the House.

Deliberately misleading the House is one of the matters that can be found to be a contempt. While claims that Members have deliberately misled the House have been raised as matters of privilege or contempt on several occasions, no Speaker has ever referred such a matter, or given precedence to allow such a matter to be referred as of right, to the Committee of Privileges and Members' Interests.

To establish that contempt has been committed through action or omission, it would need to be shown that:

- (1) a definite action or omission had in fact been misleading;
- (2) the member knew at the time the action or omission was incorrect; and
- (3) the misleading had been deliberate.

The matter of deliberately misleading the House is a serious one and rightly there should be prima facie evidence that the House has been misled, and the misleading has been deliberate, in order for the Speaker to act under standing order 52 or 51.

I have told the Member for Melbourne that on the information available to me, it does not seem that a prima facie case has been made out in terms of the detail that Speakers have always required in relation to such allegations. It then follows that in accordance with the practice of the House, I did not refer the matter to the Committee of Privileges and Members' Interests.

Nevertheless, I understand the concerns of the Member, and other Members, about the matters he raised. While in accordance with the practice of the House, precedence as of right to a motion for this matter to be referred to the Committee of Privileges and Members' Interests cannot be given, it is still open to the House itself to determine a course of action in relation to this matter.

3 FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE

The order of the day having been read for the resumption of the debate on the motion of Mr McCormack—That this House:

- (1) recognises that Australia faces a foot and mouth disease (FMD) biosecurity crisis on its borders;
- (2) notes that:
 - (a) to date, Indonesia has recorded hundreds of thousands of FMD cases during the uncontrolled outbreak of this disease;
 - (b) an outbreak of FMD in Australia would inflict catastrophic damage on Australia's $80 billion livestock industry, decimate the agriculture sector, significantly hurt the Australian economy, and increase the everyday cost of food;
 - (c) since FMD was detected in Bali on 5 July 2022, it took more than three weeks of indecision and delay for the Government to introduce disinfectant footbaths at international Australian airports; and
 - (d) the Government has failed to respond quickly and decisively to this biosecurity threat, and has failed in its responsibility to introduce critical biosecurity protections to keep Australia safe from FMD; and
- (3) calls on the Government to:
 - (a) immediately offer a 3D X-ray screening program with Indonesia, so that organic and plant matter in luggage can be effectively identified;
 - (b) immediately enforce a ban on all passengers from Indonesia bringing any food products into Australia; and
 - (c) immediately confirm the current biosecurity risk level and at what point, predicated on scientific data, the international border with Indonesia would need to be temporarily closed, in order to protect Australia from the threat of FMD—

Debate resumed.

4 LOW-PAID WORKERS

Ms Chesters, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) notes that:
 - (a) the Fair Work Commission has delivered a 5.2 per cent rise in the minimum wage, slightly above headline inflation;
 - (b) its decision means an extra $40 a week for full-time workers on the minimum wage or low-paid awards; and
 - (c) many low-paid workers are young, female, in casual employment, and are far more likely to find themselves experiencing financial hardship, and many of them are on the frontline delivering essential services during the COVID-19 pandemic;
- (2) acknowledges that:
 - (a) the Government put forward its own submission to the Fair Work Commission advocating for an immediate wage increase for Australia's low-paid workers;
 - (b) for nearly a decade, low wages were a deliberate design feature of the former Government; and
 - (c) high and rising inflation, and weak wages growth are reducing real wages across the economy and creating cost-of-living pressures for Australia's low-paid workers; and
- (3) congratulates the:
 - (a) Government's action as Australia's low-paid workers will be better off because the Government fought to get them a pay rise; and
 - (b) Government on its position that it does not want to see Australian workers go backwards.

8 TRADE AGREEMENTS

Mr Hogan, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) notes that:
 - (a) under the previous Government, Australia finalised 11 trade agreements; and
 - (b) the previous Government's ambitious trade agenda lifted the share of Australia's trade covered by free trade agreements from 27 per cent under Labor in 2013 to almost 80 per cent by 2022;
- (2) acknowledges that expanding and diversifying market access has delivered significant benefits to our nation's economy, particularly businesses, industries and communities in regional and rural Australia; and
- (3) calls on the Government to:
 - (a) ensure that the benefits from trade can continue by immediately acting to ensure that the Australia–UK Free Trade Agreement and the Australia–India Economic Cooperation and Trade Agreement are entered into force this year; and

10 GAS PRICES

Ms Landry, by leave, for Ms Price, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) notes:
 - (a) the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission's July 2022 gas inquiry interim report, which forecasts that demand for gas for electricity generation will grow by 70 per cent next year and that gas supplies will remain tight;
 - (b) the implication of this forecast is that gas prices will remain elevated for at least another 12 to 18 months and, by extension, electricity wholesale prices will remain two to three hundred per cent higher than their average under the previous Government for the foreseeable future;
 - (c) that there is now no prospect of the Government delivering on its promise, made in December 2021 and repeated throughout the 2022 federal election campaign, that it would reduce household power bills by $275 by 2025; and

- (d) the silence from the Prime Minister and the Minister for Climate Change and Energy on these issues, and the Minister for Resources' refusal to call on southern state governments to develop new gas resources; and

 - (b) the report found that:
 - (i) since 2016, more than 200 species of flora and fauna have been listed as threatened matters of national environmental significance;
 - (ii) Australia has seen the extinction of more species of mammal than any other continent, and has one of the highest rates of species decline in the developed world;
 - (iii) marine heatwaves have caused mass coral bleaching on the Great Barrier Reef in 2016, 2017, and 2020;
 - (iv) the 2019-2020 summer bush fires burnt 80 per cent of the Greater Blue Mountains area, almost 60 per cent of our Gondwana rainforests, and more than 40 per cent of the Stirling Range National Park;
 - (v) at least 19 Australian ecosystems are showing signs of collapse or near collapse; and
 - (vi) waterways, beaches, and shorelines are in generally poor condition in areas near urban centres; and
 - (c) over the last decade, the former governments of Prime Ministers Abbott, Turnbull and Morrison presided over Australia's escalating environmental crisis by:
 - (i) failing to respond to Professor Graeme Samuel's independent review of the Environment Protection and Biodiversity Conservation Act 1999 (EPBC Act);
 - (ii) refusing to acknowledge and respond to the failure of their own threatened species strategy to meet its targets with respect to the most at-risk species;
 - (iii) delivering 95 per cent of environmental approval decisions late and outside statutory timeframes in 2018-2019;
 - (iv) issuing environmental decisions that contained errors or were non-compliant in 79 per cent of approvals; and

- (1) notes that:
 - (a) the 2020 Defence Strategic Update makes clear that Australia's strategic environment has deteriorated rapidly;
 - (b) as a result of decisions taken by the former Government, substantial progress has been made in transforming the Australian Defence Force into a more capable, agile, and potent force able to shape, deter, and respond; and
 - (c) the Australia–United Kingdom–United States (AUKUS) security pact:
 - (i) is the biggest development to our national security since the signing of the Australia–New Zealand–United States (ANZUS) treaty 70 years ago;
 - (ii) will maintain stability across the region and keep Australians secure through the acquisition of capabilities, including nuclear submarines, which will be crucial to Australian naval and defence power in the 21st century; and
 - (iii) goes beyond submarines and critical defence capabilities, it is about nation-building; and
- (2) calls on the Government to:
 - (a) ensure that spending on defence remains at two per cent of gross domestic product, or higher;
 - (b) guarantee that there will be no cuts to spending on defence, or defence projects as a result of the Government's promised 'Force Posture review'; and

 - (b) Australia has been enriched by the presence of one of the world's largest populations of Holocaust survivors per capita, and their descendants, in contributing to our vibrant multicultural society; and
 - (c) a landmark study released this year by the Gandel Foundation and Deakin University showed that nearly one quarter of Australians have little or no knowledge of the Holocaust;
- (2) acknowledges the importance of Holocaust remembrance in honouring the memory of the victims and survivors of the Holocaust, and promoting tolerance, inclusivity and combating antisemitism and other forms of bigotry and prejudice;
- (3) endorses the work of:

- (4) calls on all states and territories to follow the lead of Victoria and New South Wales and make Holocaust education a mandatory aspect of their school curriculum; and

(5) condemns:

 - (g) the Prime Minister and other Ministers when asked about these matters have repeatedly dismissed the questions and claimed that ‘there is nothing to see here’; and
- (2) therefore calls upon the Prime Minister to either:
- (a) live up to his rhetoric and take steps to actively enforce his ministerial code, including seeking formal advice from the Secretary of the Department of Prime Minister and Cabinet in relation to each of the Ministers reported to hold shares or to hold managed funds which hold shares in circumstances which give rise to a conflict of interest; or
 - (b) admit that this Prime Minister is in fact failing to enforce his ministerial code and in turn is failing this critical test of whether his government is demonstrating the higher standards of integrity and accountability that he has claimed to uphold.

Debate ensued.

The order of the day having been read for the resumption of the debate on the question—That the bill be now read a second time—And on the amendment moved thereto by Mr Taylor, viz.—That all words after “That” be omitted with a view to substituting the following words:

“whilst not declining to give the bill a second reading, the House notes:

- (1) with this policy the Government has failed to:
 - (a) establish clear criteria and metrics of success for the policy;
 - (b) ensure the expenditure was temporary, proportionate, and linked to tangible productivity gains;
 - (c) quantify any benefit of the policy to EV uptake, to emissions reduction, or to the budget bottom line;
 - (d) tangibly address the biggest constraint on EV uptake, which is supply and infrastructure; and
 - (e) consult with business and civil society on policy design;
- (2) the Coalition supports increased uptake of low and zero emissions vehicles and our focus was on enabling consumer choice when it comes to new vehicle and fuel technologies;
- (3) the Coalition is focused on partnering with industry to support the uptake of new vehicle technologies and create the necessary enabling environment to support uptake which includes helping to support the infrastructure roll-out and ensuring that our electricity grid is ready; and
- (4) calls on the Government to invest the substantial medium term cost of the measure in supporting practical EV infrastructure and cost of living relief for hard working Australians”—

And on the amendment moved thereto by Mr Katter, viz.—That all words after “whilst” be omitted with a view to substituting the following words:

“the House notes:

- (1) this bill seeks to encourage a greater take up of electric cars by making them more affordable by, under certain conditions, exempting them from fringe benefits tax; and
- (2) that to achieve real and effective affordability and self-sustainability the bill should include detailed measures to provide:
 - (a) Australian manufacture by Australian majority owned companies of electric vehicles and buses, and their component parts including battery production;

- (b) framework to require, by 2035, all vehicles in metropolitan areas purchased by local, state, territory and federal governments to be electric vehicles manufactured in Australia from Australian made component parts; and

- (1) notes that despite a promise to reduce household energy bills by $275, electricity prices have skyrocketed under this Government and are forecast to rise by another 50 per cent in 2023;
- (2) notes energy reliability issues in the National Electricity Market under this Government, forcing unprecedented interventions, and the Australian Energy Market Operator’s forecast for further reliability issues over the next decade;
- (3) notes the impact of the above-mentioned energy prices and reliability issues on Australian households, small businesses and industries at a time when they can least afford it;
- (4) notes this Government’s failure in policy, particularly the lack of new gas supply and premature closures of baseload generators without adequate replacement, risking too hasty a rollout of renewables and new transmission;
- (5) notes the concerns of regional communities that they will be steamrolled over by this Government’s target of 82 per cent renewables by 2030 which will require the installation of 40 seven-megawatt wind turbines every month, more than 22,000, 500-watt solar panels every day and up to 28,000 kilometres of new poles and wires infrastructure;
- (6) notes the need for appropriate environmental consideration and approvals for all new projects, including care for bird life and sea life;

- (7) notes the importance of product stewardship and the need for improved solutions for waste management and landfill, including in identified onshore and offshore renewable energy zones;
- (8) notes the importance of maximising local procurement which will deliver job opportunities and community initiatives from regional energy infrastructure projects, especially in light of much of the content for offshore wind projects being imported;
- (9) notes the importance of transparency around each financial security deal approved by the Minister; and
- (10) criticises the Minister for failing to appreciate the importance of attaining a social licence for major renewable and related infrastructure projects and notes that this sets renewables up for failure, not success”.

* Tellers

And so it was resolved in the affirmative.

Ms Rishworth presented reasons, which were circulated, and are as follows:

Reasons of the House of Representatives for disagreeing to the amendments of the Senate

The proposed amendments were based on a separate Private Member's Bill introduced into the Senate on 3 August 2022 by Senator Dean Smith.

The Senate's 28 September 2022 amendments to the Bill do not concern the Commonwealth Seniors Health Card income limits.

The appropriate place to consider these amendments is in the context of a separate Bill, the Social Services Legislation Amendment (Workforce Incentives) Bill 2022.

Rejecting the amendments will have no effect on Commonwealth Seniors Health Card income limits or proposed eligibility, and will allow this Bill to be passed to enable more senior Australians to benefit from the Commonwealth Seniors Healthcare Card.

To prevent further delay, the House of Representatives does not accept these amendments.

On the motion of Ms Rishworth, the reasons were adopted.

“whilst not declining to give the bill a second reading, the House:

- (1) notes that this bill does nothing to address broader challenges for access to child care in Australia, namely:
 - (a) child care service gaps in regional Australia; and
 - (b) early childhood education and care workforce shortages which are preventing families from accessing the care they need;
- (2) notes that the Government's child care package, which costs $4.5 billion, does not add one additional child care place;
- (3) notes that child care providers have already increased fees since the Government came to office and the additional demand placed on child care services as a result of this bill will put further inflationary pressure on fees;

- (4) calls on the Government to ensure that the promised savings for families will not be eroded by higher fees due to the additional demand for child care services as a result of this bill; and
- (5) notes that the bill commits to higher ongoing structural spending and calls on the Government to manage its spending commitments to improve the budget while standing by their promise to deliver legislated targeted income tax relief”—

"whilst not declining to give the bill a second reading, the House:

- (1) notes that despite a promise to reduce household energy bills by $275, electricity prices have skyrocketed under this Government and are forecast to rise by another 50 per cent in 2023;
- (2) notes energy reliability issues in the National Electricity Market under this Government, forcing unprecedented interventions, and the Australian Energy Market Operator's forecast for further reliability issues over the next decade;
- (3) notes the impact of the above-mentioned energy prices and reliability issues on Australian households, small businesses and industries at a time when they can least afford it;
- (4) notes this Government's failure in policy, particularly the lack of new gas supply and premature closures of baseload generators without adequate replacement, risking too hasty a rollout of renewables and new transmission;
- (5) notes the concerns of regional communities that they will be steamrolled over by this Government's target of 82 per cent renewables by 2030 which will require the installation of 40 seven-megawatt wind turbines every month, more than 22,000, 500-watt solar panels every day and up to 28,000 kilometres of new poles and wires infrastructure;
- (6) notes the need for appropriate environmental consideration and approvals for all new projects, including care for bird life and sea life;
- (7) notes the importance of product stewardship and the need for improved solutions for waste management and landfill, including in identified onshore and offshore renewable energy zones;

- (8) notes the importance of maximising local procurement which will deliver job opportunities and community initiatives from regional energy infrastructure projects, especially in light of much of the content for offshore wind projects being imported;
- (9) notes the importance of transparency around each financial security deal approved by the Minister; and
- (10) criticises the Minister for failing to appreciate the importance of attaining a social licence for major renewable and related infrastructure projects and notes that this sets renewables up for failure, not success”—

SUPPLEMENT TO VOTES AND PROCEEDINGS

No. 19

FEDERATION CHAMBER

MINUTES OF PROCEEDINGS

MONDAY, 7 NOVEMBER 2022

1 The Federation Chamber met at 10.30 am.

2 MEMBERS' CONSTITUENCY STATEMENTS

Members' constituency statements were made.

3 GLOBAL METHANE PLEDGE

Mr Hamilton, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) notes that:
 - (a) the Government has signed Australia up to the Global Methane Pledge despite promising the Australian public that it would not sign the pledge during the 2022 election;
 - (b) this is a broken election promise;
 - (c) the Global Methane Pledge includes a target to reduce methane emissions by 30 per cent on 2020 levels by 2030;
 - (d) 48 per cent of Australia's annual methane emissions come from the agricultural sector, where no affordable, practical and large-scale way exists to reduce it other than culling herd sizes;
 - (e) in the previous Government, the Coalition invested over $18 million to monitor and reduce fugitive methane emissions in the energy and resources sector, and help farmers reduce emissions from livestock; and
 - (f) this pledge, in effect, creates a cap on the size of Australia's livestock industry;
- (2) further notes that:
 - (a) international research shows the target cannot be realised without taking behavioural and technical measures in the livestock agriculture sector, and recommends people change their diets resulting in lower meat and dairy consumption, leading to a capping or reduction of the national livestock herd;
 - (b) this will increase the price of a steak at your favourite restaurant or butcher, or a white coffee at your favourite cafe, at a time when small businesses are already struggling with mounting cost-of-doing-business pressures; and
 - (c) this pledge equally calls to reduce methane emissions from the gas sector—a critical fuel source that complements the increasing share of renewables in our electricity grid—which adds pressure to production and generation and is an invitation for the type of chaos we are seeing in Europe at the moment; and
- (3) calls on the Government to:
 - (a) install financial protections for Australia's agricultural sector which will be impacted by the Global Methane Pledge;
 - (b) provide assurances to Australia's agricultural sector that there will be no new taxes and regulation to deliver the Government's methane emissions reduction target; and

- (c) provide assurances the national livestock herd will not be capped or reduced as a consequence of the Government's methane emissions reduction target.

Debate ensued.

The time allotted for the debate having expired, the debate was interrupted, and the resumption of the debate made an order of the day for a later hour this day.

4 INFRASTRUCTURE FUNDING

Mr Perrett, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) acknowledges the Government's $9.6 billion of funding in the 2022-23 October budget for the infrastructure that Australia needs, including but not limited to:
 - (a) upgrading the Bruce Highway in Queensland;
 - (b) building electric bus charging infrastructure for Perth's electric bus network;
 - (c) investing in Tasmania's Bass and Tasman highways;
 - (d) investing in South Australia's Dukes and Augusta highways;
 - (e) partnering with the Victorian Government to deliver Melbourne's Suburban Rail Loop;
 - (f) improving Canberra's cycle routes;
 - (g) sealing the Northern Territory's Tanami Road and upgrading the Central Arnhem Road; and
 - (h) investing in Western Sydney's Road Package; and
- (2) notes this funding will make journeys quicker and ensure Australians return home to their families safely.

Debate ensued.

The time allotted for the debate having expired, the debate was interrupted, and the resumption of the debate made an order of the day for the next sitting.

5 WEST JERUSALEM

Mr Leeser, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) notes that:
 - (a) Israel, as a sovereign state, is free to decide its own capital; and
 - (b) for the last 3,000 years Jerusalem has not been the capital of any state other than a Jewish state, and has been the seat of government of Israel since 1950;
- (2) recognises that the territory of West Jerusalem:
 - (a) has been part of Israel's sovereign territory since the state was established in 1948, and is not part of the territory which Israel captured during the 1967 war;
 - (b) is therefore outside the scope of United Nations (UN) resolutions since 1967, which are limited expressly to territory occupied by Israel since 1967; and
 - (c) has never been the subject of peace negotiations between Israel and the Palestinians;
- (3) further notes that:
 - (a) Australia's recognition of West Jerusalem as Israel's capital in 2018 did not in any way pre-empt the outcome of peace negotiations, or undermine the prospects of achieving a peaceful settlement of the conflict based on the UN-endorsed principle of two states for two peoples; and
 - (b) since 2020 four Arab states have officially normalised relations with Israel, thereby disproving claims which were made in 2018 that recognition of West Jerusalem as Israel's capital would worsen the conflict; and
- (4) calls on the Government to:
 - (a) reverse its recent decision to no longer recognise West Jerusalem as the capital of Israel;
 - (b) apologise to the Australian people for the lack of consultation or opportunity for public debate in the lead-up to the decision, and for effecting an important change of government policy through an amendment to a government website, and then officially denying the change, before a decision was taken by the Cabinet;

- (c) apologise to Israel for this ill-considered decision, and the hasty and careless manner in which it was made; and
- (d) apologise to the Australian Jewish community for the failure to consult and for announcing its decision on the Jewish Holy Day of Simchat Torah, when Jewish community organisations were precluded from responding.

Debate ensued.

The order of the day having been read for the resumption of the debate on the motion of Mr Hogan—That this House:

- (1) notes that:
 - (a) the European Union (EU) is Australia's second largest two-way trading partner of goods and services worth over $74 billion; and
 - (b) with a high-income population of almost 450 million people, the EU represents an incredibly significant market opportunity for Australian exporters;
- (2) acknowledges the significant work undertaken by the former Government to pursue an ambitious and comprehensive free trade agreement with the EU; and

- (3) calls on the Government to:
- (a) prioritise the negotiation and completion of the Australia–European Union Free Trade Agreement; and

8 GENDER PAY GAP

Ms Payne, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) notes that:
- (a) the gender pay gap still sits at an unacceptable 14.1 per cent;
 - (b) men earn an extra $263.90 per week more than women;
 - (c) the gender pay gap has only narrowed by 5.1 per cent since 1983; and
 - (d) work in female-dominated industries is disproportionately undervalued because of discriminatory assumptions about the value of the work; and
- (2) commends the Government for amending the Fair Work Act 2009 and related legislation to improve job security and gender equity by:
- (a) including in the Fair Work Act 2009: gender equity, secure work, an equal remuneration principle, and enhancing the enforcement and compliance framework;

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
SUPPLEMENT TO VOTES AND PROCEEDINGS

No. 23

FEDERATION CHAMBER

MINUTES OF PROCEEDINGS

MONDAY, 21 NOVEMBER 2022

1 The Federation Chamber met at 10.30 am.

2 MEMBERS' CONSTITUENCY STATEMENTS

Members' constituency statements were made.

3 SUPPORT FOR EMERGENCY FIRST RESPONDERS

Mrs Andrews, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) notes that:
 - (a) Australia's first responders to natural disasters perform a vital and valuable job in extreme circumstances for communities across our nation;
 - (b) ensuring the mental health and wellbeing of our first responders is not only the right thing to do but helps them continue their vital work saving lives and supporting communities;
 - (c) the former Government provided $10 million over two years in the March 2022 budget to Fortem Australia for the establishment of a national support program for first responders to maximise their capacity through stronger mental health, given the huge demands placed on them through the full suite of natural disasters;
 - (d) this funding was a scale-up of the program that Fortem Australia delivered following a competitive tender process in the wake of the Black Summer bushfires; and
 - (e) in the October 2022 budget, the funding for Fortem Australia was not provided, resulting in an $8 million budget cut that would have meant on-the-ground support for first responders would not be available in the regional towns where it is needed; and
- (2) recognises, that following public pressure, the Government has since restored the full $10 million funding for Fortem Australia as announced and provided for in the March 2022 budget so that they can provide vital support for our emergency first responder heroes.

Debate ensued.

The time allotted for the debate having expired, the debate was interrupted, and the resumption of the debate made an order of the day for the next sitting.

4 GENDER INEQUALITY

Dr Ananda-Rajah, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) notes that:
 - (a) the social, economic and health disadvantages that women experience are the consequence of interacting and intersectional factors that entrench gender inequality;
 - (b) these factors result in less income over the course of a woman's life, fewer assets including superannuation, and greater vulnerability following trauma, such as relationship breakdown;

- (c) the economic trade-off associated with motherhood was overlooked by successive Coalition Governments which failed to introduce reforms that improved women's economic equality; and
 - (d) insecure work thrived during the former Government's era, disproportionately affecting women who fell further behind under the pressures of the COVID-19 pandemic, contributing to their attrition from the care and knowledge economies; and
- (2) acknowledges that the Government has a suite of measures crafted in consultation with stakeholders and informed by record representation of women in its ranks and these measures include but are not limited to:
- (a) cheaper childcare;
 - (b) addressing gender pay equity;
 - (c) greater representation of women in key decision-making positions; and
 - (d) addressing sexual harassment in the workplace.

Debate ensued.

Debate adjourned and the resumption of the debate made an order of the day for the next sitting.

5 HOUSEHOLD ELECTRIFICATION

Ms Spender, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) notes that:
 - (a) household electrification policies can significantly reduce Australia's carbon emissions, its reliance on fossil fuels, and household energy bills by thousands of dollars each year;
 - (b) such policies are most effective when accompanied by support for household solar and battery systems and electric vehicles; and
 - (c) Australia is well positioned to be a world leader in benefitting from decarbonisation, through the export of green energy as well as the technology and services to facilitate the clean energy transition; and
- (2) calls on the Government to:
 - (a) take the lead on driving household electrification by rolling out low interest loans and tailored support for low-income households that help to overcome the upfront capital costs of electrification;
 - (b) work with state and territory governments to urgently improve the regulatory infrastructure necessary for integrating greater electrification into our energy system; and
 - (c) provide additional support to community-led organisations which are facilitating electrification and other climate transition programs.

Debate ensued.

The time allotted for the debate having expired, the debate was interrupted, and the resumption of the debate made an order of the day for the next sitting.

6 SEXUAL HARASSMENT IN THE MUSIC INDUSTRY

Ms Templeman, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) notes with concern the findings of the Raising Their Voices report of the independent review into sexual harm, sexual harassment and systemic discrimination in the Australian contemporary music industry;
- (2) commends the Music Industry Joint Statement of Acknowledgement for recognising the harm documented by the review and the commitment to implement 'long-term, sustainable change';
- (3) further notes that a pillar of the Government's national cultural policy under development is the centrality of the artist, which includes supporting the artist as a worker;
- (4) welcomes the Government's position that artists have the right to work in an environment free from bullying, sexual harassment, sexual assault and discrimination; and
- (5) supports the objective to prioritise a safe working environment for artists and everyone working in the industry.

Debate ensued.

Debate adjourned and the resumption of the debate made an order of the day for the next sitting.

Suspension of meeting

At 1.13 pm, the Deputy Speaker left the Chair.

Resumption of meeting

At 4 pm, the Deputy Speaker resumed the Chair.

7 MEMBERS' STATEMENTS

Members' statements being made—

Document

Ms Sharkie, by leave, presented the following document:

Addressing the Australian Housing Crisis: Solutions to benefit Mayo, George Baker, University of Adelaide, 4 November 2022.

Members' statements continued.

8 ECONOMIC PLAN

Mr Wolahan, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) notes that:
 - (a) the previous Government's economic plan, implemented following the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic, left Australia in a better economic position than almost any other advanced economy; and
 - (b) the 2022-23 budget was an opportunity for the current Government to build on this strong position and address the cost of living crisis; and
- (2) acknowledges that:
 - (a) on every measure, this Government has failed in its task to deliver for everyday Australians, through their budget with:
 - (i) the cost of living continuing to rise;
 - (ii) electricity and gas bills predicted to soar by 56 per cent over the next two years;
 - (iii) wages for Australian workers forecast to go backwards;
 - (iv) unemployment projected to grow; and
 - (v) tax increases; and
 - (b) Australians are being hampered by a new Government with no economic plan for the future.

Debate ensued.

The time allotted for the debate having expired, the debate was interrupted, and the resumption of the debate made an order of the day for the next sitting.

9 INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS

Ms Stanley, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) notes that:
 - (a) Australia's unemployment rate sits at the lowest level since 1974 at 3.4 per cent;
 - (b) large sectors of the economy are facing jobs and skills shortages due to the tight labour market;
 - (c) the record low unemployment rate is not translating to significant and strong wages growth in line with inflation and real wages have declined as a consequence; and
 - (d) the gender pay gap has remained high and has increased in the past six months to 14.1 per cent;
- (2) acknowledges that:
 - (a) the gender pay gap is a major concern socially and economically;

- (b) the Government's Jobs and Skills Summit worked collaboratively with all stakeholders, including unions, business, and advocacy groups, to find solutions to skill shortages and close the gender pay gap;
 - (c) the Jobs and Skills Summit has identified 36 initiatives that can be taken immediately to alleviate skills shortages;
 - (d) areas of reform in the industrial relations system have been identified to spur wages growth for workers; and
 - (e) the sectors that will benefit the most from industrial relations reform are undervalued areas such as childcare, aged care and disability support, which are female-dominated sectors and are less likely to collectively bargain;
- (3) supports further consultation with all groups to solve Australia's economic issues and to set Australia up for further decades of economic and social growth; and
 - (4) expresses concern over the increase in the gender pay gap and the decline of real wages and supports any efforts to alleviate these issues.

Debate ensued.

Debate adjourned and the resumption of the debate made an order of the day for the next sitting.

10 DIGITAL SERVICES

Mr Violi, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) notes that the:
 - (a) Government has not articulated a plan to improve the experience of citizens using digital channels to access government services and payments;
 - (b) 2022-23 budget did not contain a single new initiative designed to improve citizens' digital experience;
 - (c) 2022-23 budget will see more public servants employed by Services Australia, but without any new funding allocation to equip them with the latest digital tools; and
 - (d) development of the Digital Identity system has stalled significantly under the current Government to the extent that it is not even mentioned in the 2022-23 budget;
- (2) further notes:
 - (a) most Australians are now transacting with the Government through digital channels with 1.2 billion online transactions taking place in the past financial year alone; and
 - (b) that the former Government initiated development on the Digital Identity system; and
- (3) calls on the Government to continue the former Government's strong track record by prioritising service modernisation through digital transformation.

Debate ensued.

The time allotted for the debate having expired, the debate was interrupted, and the resumption of the debate made an order of the day for the next sitting.

11 PENSIONERS

Ms Swanson, by leave, for Ms Thwaites, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) welcomes the recent increase in pensions, following the largest indexation increase in 12 years;
- (2) notes that in a time of cost of living pressures, this increase is a welcome support for pensioners across Australia;
- (3) commends the commitment of the Government to support older Australians, who have worked hard all their lives and built this country; and
- (4) acknowledges that it was the previous Labor Government that commissioned a review into pension payments, and ultimately adopted the recommendation to upgrade indexation requirements to support greater pension increases.

Debate ensued.

The time allotted for the debate having expired, the debate was interrupted, and the resumption of the debate made an order of the day for the next sitting.

12 ROAD SAFETY DATA

Mr Pasin, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) recognises the critical importance of harmonised road safety data in formulating road safety policy;
- (2) notes that:
 - (a) individual state and territory governments collect road safety data on a non-uniform basis; and
 - (b) the road safety data collected by state and territory governments is not made available to the Commonwealth Government notwithstanding the Commonwealth Government's significant financial contribution to state and territory governments to improve road safety outcomes;
- (3) commends the leadership of the former Government in ensuring road safety was a consistent agenda item for the Infrastructure and Transport Ministers' Meetings (ITMM);
- (4) further notes that at the ITMM that took place on 5 August 2022 road safety was not included on the agenda or indeed discussed; and
- (5) calls for a nationally consistent approach to the collection and distribution of road safety data by establishing a national road safety data sharing agreement with the states and territories.

Debate ensued.

The time allotted for private Members' business having expired, the debate was interrupted, and the resumption of the debate made an order of the day for the next sitting.

2 SUSPENSION OF STANDING AND SESSIONAL ORDERS MOVED

Mr Fletcher (Manager of Opposition Business) moved—That so much of the standing and sessional orders be suspended as would prevent the Manager of Opposition Business from moving the following motion immediately—That this House:

- (1) notes that:
 - (a) the Government introduced the 249-page Fair Work Legislation Amendment (Secure Jobs, Better Pay) Bill 2022 on 27 October and rushed it through the House, forcing its passage on 10 November through the use of a gag motion which greatly curtailed debate;
 - (b) the process was so rushed and chaotic that on 9 November the Government moved a further 34 pages of amendments;
 - (c) the bill would make radical changes to Australia's industrial relations system including:
 - (i) abolishing the Australian Building and Construction Commission and the Registered Organisations Commission;
 - (ii) introducing compulsory multi-employer bargaining;
 - (iii) expanding the supported bargaining stream, enabling businesses to be covered without their actual agreement; and
 - (iv) giving unions new powers including:
 - (A) forcing an employer to bargain for a replacement agreement, even if the employer and the majority of its employees do not wish to bargain; and
 - (B) vetoing an agreement reached by an employer and a majority of its employees to remove themselves from coverage by an agreement;
 - (d) the measures in the bill, and the chaotic and rushed process, have been criticised by a wide range of stakeholders; and
 - (e) this bill puts the narrow sectional interests of union bosses ahead of the interests of all Australians in a prosperous and harmonious society in which businesses of all sizes can grow and prosper, working in alignment with their employees, their suppliers, their shareholders and the broader community; and

(2) therefore calls on the Government to lay aside this damaging and ill-considered bill.

- (3) recognises that despite telling Australians their power bills are going up by more than 50 per cent, their mortgage payments will continue to rise, the cost of groceries will remain high, and inflation will continue to surge, the Government still has no plan to tackle this cost of living crisis; and

- (4) calls on the Government to focus on the issues that matter to Australians and to deliver a real and comprehensive plan to ease inflation and cost of living pressures.

FEDERATION CHAMBER

MINUTES OF PROCEEDINGS

MONDAY, 28 NOVEMBER 2022

1 The Federation Chamber met at 10.30 am.

2 MEMBERS' CONSTITUENCY STATEMENTS

Members' constituency statements were made.

3 CHILD CARE

Ms Bell, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) notes that the previous Government:
 - (a) reformed the child care system in 2018 to provide more subsidy to families who need it most and establish a safety net to cover up to the full cost of full-time child care for disadvantaged children;
 - (b) in March 2022, implemented reforms to provide higher child care subsidy for second and subsequent children aged under six, where costs double or treble for families; and
 - (c) invested record funding in the child care system, including around $11 billion budgeted for the 2022-23 financial year;
- (2) further notes that the Government promised to deliver:
 - (a) child care reform with no family worse off;
 - (b) an Australian Competition and Consumer Commission price regulation mechanism to control child care fees; and
 - (c) terms of reference for a Productivity Commission review of a 90 per cent child care subsidy within its first 100 days of office; and
- (3) calls on the Government to explain:
 - (a) why it promised its child care policy would ease cost of living pressures for families, but is delayed until July 2023; and
 - (b) whether, with skyrocketing child care costs, Australian families will actually be better off.

Debate ensued.

The time allotted for the debate having expired, the debate was interrupted, and the resumption of the debate made an order of the day for the next sitting.

4 50TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE WHITLAM GOVERNMENT

Ms Stanley, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) notes that the 50th anniversary of the Whitlam Government's election will be marked on 2 December 2022; and
- (2) acknowledges that:
 - (a) the Whitlam Government's reforms modernised Australian society and its economy; and

- (b) the impact of Prime Minister Whitlam's policies continues to define Australia and the political landscape.

5 UNITED NATIONS' LOSS AND DAMAGE FUND

Mr Ted O'Brien, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) notes that:
 - (a) the Government has committed Australia to the United Nations' 'loss and damage' fund without providing any details on what it will cost Australians or how it will be implemented;
 - (b) the Government has signed an international agreement which could cost Australians tens of billions of dollars without outlining any plan as to what is expected of Australia;
 - (c) the 'loss and damage' fund is reported to cost upwards of US$2 trillion globally per year by 2030;
 - (d) China, the world's second largest economy and the world's biggest carbon emitter, has not been ruled out as a potential recipient of compensation funding due to its status as a developing nation;
 - (e) this scheme will penalise Australia for being blessed with an abundance of energy resources—resources that have been used to lift hundreds of millions of people out of absolute poverty;
 - (f) the Prime Minister was quick to rule out support for Australian families struggling with cost of living pressures in the budget but has effectively signed a blank cheque (which could be worth tens of billions of dollars) for an international compensation scheme with no detail, and for which no economic modelling has been undertaken;
 - (g) Australia has a long history of supporting its regional partners, especially those in the Pacific, and at COP26 the former Government doubled its climate finance commitment to $2 billion over 2020-25, with at least $700 million for Pacific climate and disaster finance; and
 - (h) instead of finding a solution to skyrocketing domestic power prices that are threatening up to 800,000 manufacturing jobs, the Minister for Climate Change and Energy has focused the Government's attention on committing the country to international pledges for which there is no detail; and
- (2) calls on the Government to explain what the 'loss and damage' fund will cost Australian taxpayers.

Debate ensued.

The time allotted for the debate having expired, the debate was interrupted, and the resumption of the debate made an order of the day for the next sitting.

 - (b) 80th anniversary of the sinking of HMAS Armidale;
 - (c) 80th anniversary of pushing back the Japanese on the Kokoda Track;
 - (d) 75th anniversary of Australian Peacekeeping efforts; and
 - (e) 50th anniversary of the end of National Service;
- (2) notes that:
 - (a) Australia continues to recognise all those who defended our country during the Second World War, at home and in land, air and sea battles to our north as part of the Battle for Australia, which helped turn the tide of war against Japan;

- (b) throughout 1942, Australian forces desperately fought to halt and eventually push back the Japanese along the Kokoda Track, in Buna, Gona and Sanananda in Papua, in New Guinea, the Huon Peninsula, Wewak and on the island of Bougainville;
 - (c) on 1 December 1942, 100 Australians died during the sinking of HMAS Armidale, the largest loss of life from any corvette in the Second World War;
 - (d) Australians were part of the first United Nations peacekeeping operation when military observers were deployed to the Netherlands East Indies (now Indonesia) in 1947 and since that time, Australian peacekeepers have served in locations around the world, ranging from the Middle East to Africa, Southeast Asia and the Pacific in every year since; and
 - (e) Australia's fourth iteration of National Service was abolished by the Whitlam Labor Government on 5 December 1972;
- (3) expresses its thanks to all former and current personnel for their service;
 - (4) remembers the lives and sacrifice of those service personnel who have died in and as a result of service to our nation; and
 - (5) further acknowledges the families who have been left behind and those who support loved ones who have served.

8 ARTS FUNDING

Dr Gillespie, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) notes that, the:
 - (a) Restart Investment to Sustain and Expand (RISE) fund was an effective and targeted arts funding initiative supporting 541 projects in over 4,000 locations, creating over 195,000 job opportunities and experiences reaching more than 55 million Australians;
 - (b) Arts Sustainability Fund was key to supporting systemically significant arts companies to survive through the COVID-19 pandemic with recipients including the Melbourne Symphony Orchestra, the Sydney Theatre Company, Brandenburg Ensemble, Queensland Ballet, Opera Australia, Design Tasmania, the National Institute of Dramatic Art, Melbourne Theatre Company, The Australian Ballet, Belvoir Theatre, Circa Contemporary Circus Limited, and Malthouse Theatre; and
 - (c) highest level of Commonwealth arts funding ever achieved was under the previous Government in 2021-2022 when the funding exceeded $1 billion; and
- (2) expresses its regret at the adverse effect on the arts sector of politically motivated arts policy decisions since May 2022 including, the:
 - (a) grave mishandling of the additional $20 million of funding for RISE which was provided in the March 2022 budget, with the Government delaying action for many months before cancelling this funding in October;
 - (b) announcement in September that the Government would establish a Live Performance Support Fund with no guidelines, eligibility conditions or other details provided at that time and still not provided two months later; and

- (c) abrupt and discourteous disbanding of the Creative Economy Taskforce which comprised a distinguished group of arts leaders doing outstanding work in advising on the Government arts policy.

The time allotted for the debate having expired, the debate was interrupted, and the resumption of the debate made an order of the day for the next sitting.

9 NATIONAL BROADBAND NETWORK

Mr B Mitchell, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) notes that:
 - (a) for nearly a decade, the former Government’s oversight of the National Broadband Network (NBN) had been a masterclass in technological incompetence and financial mismanagement, causing Australia to trail other developed countries on broadband quality and speeds;
 - (b) the Government is delivering what Australians voted for and will expand full fibre access to 1.5 million premises by 2025 with a $2.4 billion equity investment over four years in the 2022-23 budget;
 - (c) this will:
 - (i) deliver a faster and more reliable NBN to more families, communities, and businesses and allow more Australians to take advantage of an increasingly digital global economy; and
 - (ii) give Australians who now rely on copper connections the choice of having full fibre connections to their premises if they want a faster NBN service than their current copper wire can deliver; and
- (2) acknowledges economic analysis commissioned by NBN Co that estimates the additional fibre-to-the-premises connections will deliver an additional $20 billion uplift in gross domestic product by 2030 through connecting communities and businesses to faster and more reliable broadband services.

Debate ensued.

The time allotted for the debate having expired, the debate was interrupted, and the resumption of the debate made an order of the day for the next sitting.

 - (a) food and manufacturing labelling that highlights hidden imports and prevents fraud;
 - (b) a fresh produce labelling system that indicates the farm gate price (and the supermarket mark-up);
 - (c) ‘divesture’ legislation that reduces the market power of the corporations that operate the major supermarkets, with the objective of levelling the playing field providing a competitive marketplace for consumers and suppliers;
 - (d) a National Office of Better Agricultural Regulation with powers to reduce red tape and consider the actual cost of implementing both marketplace regulations (i.e. Freshcare, HARPS, Fair Farms), and government regulations (i.e. PALM Scheme, reef regulation, water, conservation and protection);
 - (e) investment in infrastructure and critical supplies/support industries to reduce production and transportation costs (i.e. gas prices for fertiliser, chemical, fuel, worker access);
 - (f) reforming the PALM scheme to ensure farmers have direct access to the program.

Ms Byrnes, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) acknowledges that the National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS) can be life-changing for Australians with disability;
- (2) recognises the NDIS is not working as effectively as it should due to a decade of neglect and mismanagement by the previous Government, creating an urgent need to:
 - (a) improve outcomes for participants;
 - (b) restore trust in the scheme and certainty for participants and their families; and
 - (c) improve the effectiveness and sustainability of the NDIS and broader social and economic benefits, without imposing the types of blunt force cuts favoured by the previous Government;
- (3) notes the measures the Government has already taken to get the NDIS back on track, including:
 - (a) installing new leadership at the National Disability Insurance Agency (NDIA) and putting people with a disability at the centre of the scheme;
 - (b) reducing the inherited 4,500 case backlog of expensive, time-consuming appeals before the Administrative Appeals Tribunal by 2,000 cases to date;
 - (c) reducing the number of people with disability trapped in hospitals despite being medically fit for discharge; and
 - (d) funding 380 new positions in the NDIA for better and faster planning decisions for people with disability and their families, carers, disability service providers and workers;
- (4) calls on Members of the House to support the work ahead to make the NDIS the world-leading scheme it was designed to be, through:
 - (a) the root and branch review of the NDIS to improve its effectiveness, so that future generations receive the benefits of the scheme;
 - (b) planning for a workforce that can support the projected increase in NDIS participants;
 - (c) establishing a senior executive role within the NDIA to bolster its stewardship of the sector; and
 - (d) reducing waste and fraud so money intended for participants is not syphoned off or squandered; and
- (5) further notes the benefits to the Australian community and our economy when we invest in people with disability and break down barriers to their participation in social and economic life.

VOTES AND PROCEEDINGS

No. 29

WEDNESDAY, 30 NOVEMBER 2022

1 The House met, at 9 am, pursuant to adjournment. The Speaker (the Honourable M. Dick) took the Chair, made an acknowledgement of country and read Prayers.

2 FIRST ANNIVERSARY OF THE SET THE STANDARD REPORT—STATEMENT BY SPEAKER

The Speaker made the following statement:

Today on the first anniversary of the Sex Discrimination Commissioner's Set the Standard: Report on the Independent Review into Commonwealth Parliamentary Workplaces, as a Presiding Officer, I again, acknowledge the history of unacceptable behaviour in Parliament House and recommit the Parliament to positive change.

The Set the Standard report highlighted that a high rate of people, particularly women, in Commonwealth parliamentary workplaces have experienced bullying, sexual harassment, or actual or attempted sexual assault. This is unacceptable. Alongside President Lines, I restate the commitment of the Parliament to making lasting change to ensure this does not continue.

We all have an ongoing responsibility to create a workplace that attracts and supports the best people our country has to offer.

The Parliamentary Leadership Taskforce is leading meaningful change within the Parliament, and I commend their commitment to understanding and addressing the issues that have been ignored for too long.

Since February, there has already been significant progress in implementing the 28 recommendations of the report. Legislation has been amended to clarify our duties in respect of employment, anti-discrimination and work health and safety laws. Proposed codes of conduct have been developed for parliamentarians, staff, and parliamentary workplaces. Changes to the sitting calendar and hours of sitting now consider wellbeing, balance, and flexibility. New parliamentarians and their staff have participated in refreshed induction processes. A feasibility study into a Parliamentary Health and Wellbeing Service is being conducted, with plans to improve services for parliamentarians and staff, including General Practitioner services, pharmaceutical and mental health supports. Work is underway to improve work health and safety, accessibility for those with disability and professional support available for parliamentarians and their staff. The Parliamentary Workplace Support Service has been expanded. It is already providing confidential support and advice to those in Commonwealth parliamentary workplaces. The Senate and House Procedure Committees are examining standing orders and conventions to improve levels of safety and respect in the Chamber and to enhance wellbeing, balance and flexibility.

Looking forward, some of the notable work underway includes the establishment of a new human resources function to support parliamentarians and their staff, and the development of new measures to support greater diversity and inclusion.

The framework for action set out in the Set the Standard Report is leadership, diversity and inclusion, accountability and safety and wellbeing.

We all have a responsibility to display exemplary individual leadership. We all have a role to play to set the standard for an inclusive, respectful, and professional workplace here in Parliament House and across Australia.

3 BILL DECLARED REFERRED TO FEDERATION CHAMBER

Mr Burke (Leader of the House) declared the Broadcasting Services Amendment (Community Radio) Bill 2022 referred to the Federation Chamber for further consideration.

4 MEMBER FOR COOK—MOTION OF CENSURE

Mr Burke (Leader of the House), pursuant to notice, moved—That the House:

- (1) notes:
 - (a) the Constitution provides for ‘responsible government’, described by the High Court of Australia as a ‘system by which the executive is responsible to the legislature and, through it, to the electorate’;
 - (b) in the Inquiry into the Appointment of the Former Prime Minister to Administer Multiple Departments, the Honourable Virginia Bell AC found that while the Member for Cook was the Prime Minister of Australia he:
 - (i) had himself appointed to administer:
 - (A) the Department of Health on 14 March 2020;
 - (B) the Department of Finance on 30 March 2020;
 - (C) the Department of Industry, Science, Energy and Resources on 15 April 2021;
 - (D) the Department of Treasury on 6 May 2021; and
 - (E) the Department of Home Affairs on 6 May 2021; and
 - (ii) did not inform:
 - (A) Cabinet;
 - (B) the relevant Departments;
 - (C) the House of Representatives; or
 - (D) the Australian public;
 about these additional appointments; and
 - (c) as found by the Honourable Virginia Bell AC, the actions and failures of the Member for Cook:
 - (i) ‘fundamentally undermined’ the principles of responsible government because the Member for Cook was not ‘responsible’ to the Parliament, and through the Parliament to the electors, for the departments he was appointed to administer; and
 - (ii) were ‘apt to undermine public confidence in government’ and were ‘corrosive of trust in government’; and
 - (2) therefore censures the Member for Cook for failing to disclose his appointments to the House of Representatives, the Australian people and the Cabinet, which undermined responsible government and eroded public trust in Australia’s democracy.

Debate ensued.

Question—put.

6 TREASURY LAWS AMENDMENT (ENERGY PRICE RELIEF PLAN) BILL 2022

In accordance with the resolution agreed to earlier this sitting—

Dr Chalmers (Treasurer) presented a Bill for an Act to amend the Competition and Consumer Act 2010, and for other purposes.

Document

Dr Chalmers presented an explanatory memorandum to the bill.

Bill read a first time.

Dr Chalmers moved—That the bill be now read a second time.

Mr Dutton (Leader of the Opposition) moved, as an amendment—That all words after “That” be omitted with a view to substituting the following words:

“the House declines to give the bill a second reading and:

- (1) notes the Prime Minister’s failure to deliver on his promise to reduce electricity prices by $275;
- (2) notes the Prime Minister has instead delivered the most expensive average wholesale electricity prices on record, with electricity prices set to rise by more than 63 per cent and gas prices to rise by 40 per cent over the next two years;
- (3) notes that after six months of doing nothing to bring down power prices and provide cost of living relief, the Government is attempting to rush through legislation without any consultation;
- (4) notes the Government continues to ignore expert advice that this bill will destroy investment confidence in Australia’s energy sector, leading to higher prices, job losses and blackouts;
- (5) criticises the Prime Minister and the Government for putting the energy security and economic prosperity of Australia at risk; and
- (6) criticises the Prime Minister and the Government for the contempt that they have shown the Australian Parliament during this legislative process”.

Debate ensued.

Mr Bandt moved, as an amendment to the amendment proposed by Mr Dutton—That all words after “the House” be omitted with a view to substituting the following words:

“agrees to give the bill a second reading and:

- (1) notes that this legislation give the Government the power to stop power bills rising at all and to freeze electricity bills at pre-crisis levels;
- (2) calls on the Government to immediately use those powers and address the urgent cost of living crisis by freezing electricity bills;
- (3) does not consider it acceptable that electricity bills are set to rise by over 20 per cent while coal and gas corporations keep getting subsidies and don’t pay their fair share of tax; and
- (4) considers that any price rise from here on is squarely the Government’s responsibility”.

Debate ensued.

Dr M Ryan moved, as an amendment to the amendment proposed by Mr Bandt—That the following words be added after paragraph (4):

“and

- (5) calls on the Government to produce the ACCC report and any other supporting evidence which the Government cites as the basis for establishing this domestic gas price cap of $12/gigajoule”.

Debate ensued.

16 MATTER OF PRIVILEGE RAISED BY MR BANDT—STATEMENT BY SPEAKER

The Speaker made the following statement:

On 1 December last year in this Chamber, the Member for Melbourne raised as a matter of privilege whether the behaviour of the Member for Cook when he was Prime Minister, constituted a deliberate misleading of the House, for failing to inform the Parliament of his appointment to a number of ministries.

The Member for Melbourne asked that I consider several references: the report of the inquiry into the appointment of the former Prime Minister to administer multiple departments, conducted by former High Court judge, the Honourable Virginia Bell AC; the statement by the Member for Cook, during debate in the House which referenced the Bell report; and the Member's reliance on ministry lists presented to the House, which noted that ministers might be sworn to administer portfolios for which they were not listed.

I will refer to these materials briefly, as they raise significant issues for our Australian system of parliamentary government.

The Member for Cook, in his contribution to debate on the motion of censure focussed on matters of Executive Government, reflecting on various aspects of his prime ministership, including his ability to respond to questions in the House. He noted that the Solicitor-General had found that the then Prime Minister had been validly appointed to administer an additional department, and that there was no consistent practice for publication of appointments in the Gazette.

The Member for Cook acknowledged that the non-disclosure of arrangements had caused offence and he offered an apology to those who were offended, but he did not apologise for taking what he refers to as ‘redundancy action’ in being appointed secretly to administer additional departments in the circumstances of a national crisis.

The Bell report attributed responsibility for the failure to notify the Parliament of the making of these appointments to the former Prime Minister (at paragraph 201). The report relied on the opinion of the Solicitor-General that the absence of any notification of the appointment to administer a department, was not consistent with the principle of responsible government—a central concept of the Constitution which, according to the High Court, is based on a combination of law, convention and political practice.

In terms of parliamentary practice about such notifications, since its first edition in 1981, the authoritative text, House of Representatives Practice, has contained an explanatory statement that any ministerial and departmental change is notified publicly and announced in the House.

I find the final implication expressed in the Bell report to be most concerning—that ‘the lack of disclosure of the appointments to the public was apt to undermine public confidence in government. Once the appointments became known, the secrecy with which they had been surrounded was corrosive of trust in government’.

Nevertheless, as fundamentally important as these matters are for the House and our Parliament, I see no prima facie evidence to support a matter of deliberately misleading the House by the Member for Cook.

I remind Members that the House has addressed this matter through a different procedure. By resolution on 30 November, the House censured the Member for Cook, following an extensive debate on the issues I have referred to, for his failure to disclose appointments to administer multiple departments when he was Prime Minister.

The matter of deliberately misleading the House is a serious one and rightly there should be prima facie evidence that the House has been misled, and the misleading has been deliberate, in order for a Speaker to act under standing order 51, and allow such a matter to be referred, as of right, to the Committee of Privileges and Members’ Interests. I am not able to grant precedence for a referral on this occasion.

17 COMMONWEALTH OMBUDSMAN’S REPORT

The Speaker presented the following document:

- (2) this bill does nothing to help the millions of renters struggling with skyrocketing rents and record low vacancy rates;
- (3) this bill locks in a $500 million per year spending cap on housing, which will see a real term cut in spending every year; and
- (4) if the Government truly wanted to solve the housing crisis, they could:
 - (a) help renters by doubling Commonwealth Rent Assistance and putting a plan to freeze rent increases on the National Cabinet agenda;
 - (b) phase out negative gearing and capital gains tax discounts; and
 - (c) invest directly in building one million well-designed public homes, enough to not just clear the wait lists but also to provide affordable housing to the teachers, nurses, aged care workers, cleaners and others locked out of the housing market”.

 - (c) cheek swab testing increases the rate of domestic donations, saving countless lives in the process; and
 - (d) the Australian Bone Marrow Donor Registry's program, Strength to Give, demonstrated that cheek swab testing was a viable, cost-effective method of increasing Australia's donor pool; and
- (3) calls on the Government to work with organisations, such as the Australian Bone Marrow Donor Registry, to remove the legislative and regulatory impediments that are currently preventing a nationwide rollout of cheek swab-based donor enrolment and to deliver awareness campaigns to assist in increasing the rate of blood stem cell donations, particularly from Australian men aged 18 to 35 years.

3 INVESTOR STATE DISPUTE SETTLEMENT

Mr Hogan, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

 - (b) that Australia has negotiated Investor State Dispute Settlement (ISDS) clauses over the past 30 years in investment treaties and free trade agreements;
- (2) acknowledges that Australian companies investing in foreign countries have used ISDS clauses to protect their investments from being taken over by foreign governments;
- (3) recalls that:
 - (a) free trade agreement negotiations came to a standstill under the Government of Prime Minister Gillard arising from the refusal to include ISDS clauses in these agreements; and
 - (b) it took the re-election of the Coalition Government to get Australia's trade policy back on track; and
- (4) recognises that the current Government's decision to once again scrap ISDS clauses in new free trade agreements and renegotiate them in existing ones shows that the unions are controlling the Government and putting Australia's trade gains at risk.

Debate ensued.

The time allotted for the debate having expired, the debate was interrupted, and the resumption of the debate made an order of the day for the next sitting.

 - (b) this accounts for almost two-thirds (61 per cent) of reported victim-survivors of all ages that year; and
 - (c) 67 per cent of sexual assaults occurred at residential locations;
- (2) applauds the work of the former Government to implement mandatory minimum sentencing and other measures for child sex offenders through the passing of the Crimes Legislation Amendment (Sexual Crimes Against Children and Community Protection Measures) Bill 2019; and
- (3) calls on the Government to implement, in conjunction with state and territory governments, a National Child Sex Offender Register to be a single point of truth to make public the identities, offences and postcodes of convicted child sex offenders for the purpose of keeping Australian children safe.

- (2) deplores the Russian invasion of Ukraine, which continues a pattern of illegal and immoral aggression against Ukraine's sovereignty and territorial integrity, which has resulted in a toll of destruction, many thousands of human casualties, and the displacement of over 14 million Ukrainians;
- (3) condemns:
 - (a) acts by Russia aimed at destroying the national, cultural, religious, and democratic institutions of the Ukrainian people and Ukraine's sovereignty and territorial integrity; and
 - (b) Russia for violating international law, noting the clear evidence of war crimes being committed against the Ukrainian people;
- (4) notes Australia continues to stand with Ukraine against Russian aggression and has provided Ukraine with military and humanitarian support, as well as refuge for displaced people, and will continue to do so; and

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
SUPPLEMENT TO VOTES AND PROCEEDINGS

No. 44

FEDERATION CHAMBER

MINUTES OF PROCEEDINGS

MONDAY, 20 MARCH 2023

1 The Federation Chamber met at 10.30 am.

2 MEMBERS' CONSTITUENCY STATEMENTS

Members' constituency statements were made.

3 CLIMATE ACTION

Ms Stanley, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) notes that:
 - (a) climate change will cause irreversible damage to Australia's unique ecosystem;
 - (b) communities across Australia are experiencing the impacts of more severe natural disasters attributable to climate change;
 - (c) action on climate change is beneficial both environmentally and economically;
 - (d) delaying action will lead to lost opportunities for Australia and worsening climate impacts;
 - (e) the hydrogen industry will be a key component of the transition to a low-emissions economy, and could add $50 billion to Australia's gross domestic product and support 16,000 jobs by 2050; and
 - (f) the former Government's lack of policy certainty on energy and climate change led to a wasted decade;
- (2) acknowledges that:
 - (a) the Government's legislated emissions reduction targets of 43 per cent by 2030, and net-zero by 2050 provide certainty for investment in low emissions technology;
 - (b) the establishment of a Capacity Investment Scheme (CIS) will drive the uptake of new renewable dispatchable capacity and support the Government's target of 82 per cent renewable energy in the electricity grid by 2030;
 - (c) Australia has signed the Global Methane Pledge to reduce methane emissions by 30 per cent by 2030; and
 - (d) the Government has continued to invest in Australia's hydrogen industry and has fostered international partnerships to establish Australia as a major hydrogen exporter; and
- (3) recognises that:
 - (a) climate action is important to Australia's Pacific neighbours; and
 - (b) the Australian people voted for greater action on climate change and the Government is delivering.

Debate ensued.

4 AGED CARE

Mrs Marino, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) notes that the Government:
 - (a) has failed to admit that the headline aged care promises they made to older Australians and their families at the 2022 election are negatively impacting aged care homes across Australia; and
 - (b) has blatantly ignored the Opposition's concerns that their expedited timeframe for aged care staffing requirements could force aged care homes to close because they cannot access staff, and cause older Australians from rural and regional Australia to travel miles away from their community to receive support; and
- (2) further notes that:
 - (a) the University of Technology Sydney Ageing Research Collaborative report released in 2022 confirms that the Government's expedited requirements for aged care facilities will see homes closed down and older Australians abandoned;
 - (b) documents from the Department of Health and Ageing, recently released under freedom of information, reveal that 14,626 new workers and nurses will be required in 2023-24 and 25,093 the year after; and
 - (c) less than five per cent of the surveyed aged care homes currently have the required direct care workforce needed to fulfil the requirements that will be placed on them;
- (3) acknowledges that the Government has failed to provide adequate support to assist aged care providers with the significant pressure of preparing for these incoming additional requirements in the midst of serious workforce shortages; and
- (4) condemns the Government for making promises to older Australians and their families that it knows cannot be delivered.

Debate ensued.

The time allotted for the debate having expired, the debate was interrupted, and the resumption of the debate made an order of the day for the next sitting.

5 ENDOMETRIOSIS AWARENESS MONTH

 - (c) endometriosis affects one in nine Australian women and girls;
- (2) acknowledges that the Government is addressing endometriosis at a national level via the National Plan for Endometriosis, which includes:
 - (a) $8.57 million for awareness and education;
 - (b) $49.65 million for clinical management and care; and
 - (c) $28.97 million for research; and

 - (a) the release of the myGov User Audit, which stated that the previous Government's investment in the platform was 'well-crafted and implemented' and 'put in place much needed building blocks for a better myGov';

- (b) that there has only been a single gathering of the Data and Digital Ministers' Meeting since the election of this Government;
 - (c) the previous Government's efforts to progress the implementation of digital identity by introducing the Trusted Digital Identity Bill 2021; and
 - (d) that the myGov User Audit calls on the Government to 'urgently' legislate on a national identity framework; and

Mr van Manen, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) notes that:
 - (a) yourtown has been providing vital services for young people across Australia since 1961, with a focus on mental health and wellbeing, long-term unemployment, prevention of youth suicide, child protection, as well as support for those experiencing domestic and family violence;
 - (b) for over 30 years yourtown has been providing free professional counselling and support 24 hours a day, seven days a week for children and young people aged five to 25 in Australia, through its Kids Helpline service;
 - (c) Kids Helpline is the critical safety net for children and young people needing mental health support and is often the only mental health service available after hours, or for those living in rural and remote areas;
 - (d) Kids Helpline's provision of professional, free counselling support ensures equality for all children and young people, regardless of their location or circumstances; and
 - (e) in the 2021-22 financial year, Kids Helpline was contacted directly by over 443,000 children and young people from across Australia, with millions more using resources and content across multiple channels;
- (2) recognises that:
 - (a) the COVID-19 pandemic has exacerbated communication and social issues for young people;
 - (b) Kids Helpline experienced a significant surge in calls for support during lockdowns;
 - (c) for the first time in its over 30-year history, more than 50 per cent of callers now require counselling, when previously they were referred on to external supports; and
 - (d) demand for Kids Helpline service remains high and now exceeds capacity; and
- (3) calls on:
 - (a) all Members of Parliament to continue to raise awareness of the important services available to young people through Kids Helpline 24/7, by calling 1800 55 1800 or online through kidshelpline.com.au; and
 - (b) the Government to support further growth in Kids Helpline's services, in order to meet the ever increasing demand for support.

Debate ensued.

The time allotted for the debate having expired, the debate was interrupted, and the resumption of the debate made an order of the day for the next sitting.

9 PLASTIC RECYCLING

Mr J Wilson, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) notes:
 - (a) the Australian community is justifiably dismayed at the collapse of REDcycle's return-to-store soft plastics recovery program, with reports that over 12,400 tonnes of plastics were found in warehouses in New South Wales, Victoria and South Australia, a quantity of which has degraded to an extent that it is not suitable for reprocessing and will end up in landfill;
 - (b) a statement made by the former Government Minister for the Environment in 2020, who said Australians want to be 'confident that when they put things in their recycling bin, or deliver them to a collection centre, they will be repurposed effectively, and not dumped in landfill or simply sent overseas';
 - (c) the Australian community's concern about the significant harm caused by plastics pollution to marine life, including by the proliferation of microplastics;
 - (d) that only 16 per cent of plastic packaging was recycled or composted in Australia in 2019-20 whereas the 2018 National Packaging Target is for 70 per cent of plastic packaging to be recycled or composted by 2025; and
 - (e) that plastic packaging only contains three per cent recycled content, whereas the National Packaging Target is for plastics to contain 20 per cent average recycled content by 2025; and
- (2) acknowledges the Government's commitment to addressing the woeful state of plastic recycling through:
 - (a) an agreement with state and territory environment ministers to reform the regulation of plastic packaging by 2025;
 - (b) the provision of $60 million in the October 2022 budget for state-of-the-art advanced recycling solutions for hard-to-recycle plastics, as part of the $250 million Recycling Modernisation Fund;
 - (c) the creation of the Soft Plastics Taskforce which is now taking steps to reinstate plastics collection systems;
 - (d) the establishment of a national taskforce on the circular economy to reduce waste and pollution, improve product design, and transition to a more circular economy; and
 - (e) timely membership of the High Ambition Coalition for an international treaty to end plastic pollution by 2040 and signing the New Plastics Economy Global Commitment.

Debate ensued.

Debate adjourned and the resumption of the debate made an order of the day for the next sitting.

10 MURRAY-DARLING BASIN PLAN

Mr Birrell, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) notes that:
 - (a) the October 2022 budget contained an undisclosed amount intended for water buybacks in the Murray-Darling Basin, and that confirmation of the Government's intention to recommence buybacks has already had an impact on the water market;
 - (b) the country's largest water broker, Adelaide-based Waterfind, issued and then withdrew, an expression of interest for Commonwealth buybacks;
 - (c) water entitlement holders have withdrawn from the market to wait for the expected premium when the Government enters the market;
 - (d) a 2018 agreement reached by Australia's water ministers guarantees that positive, or neutral, socio-economic outcomes must be demonstrated for approval of any further recovery of Murray-Darling Basin environmental water;

- (e) the Government is ignoring expert reports and is pursuing a timeline for completion of the Murray-Darling Basin plan and buybacks which will cause economic and social harm in Basin communities; and
- (f) the Government is ignoring former Prime Minister Julia Gillard's stated position on the additional 450 giganalitres when she announced, with the then Minister for Sustainability, Environment, Water, Population and Communities, that it would only be recovered via water recovery projects that minimise the impact on communities, to ensure there is no social and economic downside for communities;
- (2) acknowledges that Murray-Darling Basin communities have already done the heavy lifting on the recovery of water for the environment and any further recovery should be done in a manner that does not deliver more social and economic harm to those communities; and
- (3) calls on the Government to extend the timeline for completion of the Murray-Darling Basin Plan and work with Basin communities on projects to recover further water for the environment in a manner that has a neutral or positive socio-economic impact.

Debate ensued.

Debate adjourned and the resumption of the debate made an order of the day for the next sitting.

11 TEACHERS

The order of the day having been read for the resumption of the debate on the motion of Ms Sitou—That this House:

- (1) acknowledges the extraordinary contribution teachers, principals and school support staff make to our students and the future of Australia;
- (2) recognises we face a critical and unprecedented teacher shortage that will have consequences across our society; and
- (3) notes the measures the Government has already taken to attract, train and retain teachers—

Debate resumed.

Debate adjourned and the resumption of the debate made an order of the day for the next sitting.

12 NATIVE FOREST LOGGING

Dr Scamps, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) notes that:
 - (a) forestry destroyed or degraded 40,000 hectares of Australian public native forests in 2020, and each year releases an estimated 30 MtCO₂-e of greenhouse gas emissions, equivalent to around 6 per cent of Australia's emissions;
 - (b) logging destroys and damages the habitat of numerous threatened species, while Regional Forestry Agreements exempt logging from classification as Matters of National Environmental Significance under the Environment Protection and Biodiversity Conservation Act 1999; and
 - (c) logging dries out forests (increasing their vulnerability to bushfires), reduces water quality in rivers and dams by causing sediment erosion, and threatens regional tourism businesses by degrading the natural resource base;
- (2) recognises the need:
 - (a) to rapidly end the logging of Australian public native forests; and
 - (b) for structural adjustment funding to support the transition to plantations and manufactured wood products; and
- (3) calls on the Government to take its international responsibilities to respond to the nature and climate crises seriously and lead the nation in ending industrial native forest logging.

Debate ensued.

Debate adjourned and the resumption of the debate made an order of the day for the next sitting.

Debate resumed by Mr Taylor who moved, as an amendment—That all words after “That” be omitted with a view to substituting the following words:

“whilst not declining to give the bill a second reading, the House:

(1) notes:

- (a) this package of bills constitutes some of the final legislative responses to the Hayne Royal Commission;
- (b) the failure of the Government to secure passage of the former version of this package of bills through the Parliament after introducing it last year, despite having bipartisan support;
- (c) that, in addition to failing to secure passage of the previous version of this bill, the Treasurer and Assistant Treasurer have failed to respond to the Quality of Advice Review, which would make it easier and more affordable for Australians to access quality financial advice; and
- (d) that, according to Treasury modelling, more than 1 in 10 Australians will need this advice following the Government’s broken promises to increase super taxes, tax unrealised capital gains, and curb access to franking credits; and

Debate resumed by Mr Fletcher who moved, as an amendment—That all words after “That” be omitted with a view to substituting the following words:

“whilst not declining to give the bill a second reading, the House notes that the bill is deficient in a number of respects including that:

- (1) the bill's purpose is not clear, including whether it is intended to build a pool of skilled entrepreneurs or create more firms;
- (2) the value proposition for students is unclear, in that the Startup Year program may result in students incurring a substantial additional debt without obtaining any academic credentials;
- (3) the value proposition for higher education institutions is unclear, given that the SY-HELP funds available are unlikely to fund a full year's course;
- (4) the bill does not make it clear how SY-HELP loan funds will flow, including whether students will be able to access any of the funding as startup capital;
- (5) the bill does not provide funding for shorter courses under six months in duration;
- (6) given the barriers to commencing a new accelerator or incubator program, students attending regional or smaller universities which do not have an existing accelerator or incubator program may be at a disadvantage;
- (7) the bill does not provide sufficient clarity in relation to whether students in Startup Year programs will retain intellectual property rights in relation to their work funded through SY-HELP; and
- (8) the bill does not appear to have taken into account many of the recommendations made by major interest groups including Universities Australia, the Group of Eight, Australian Technology Network and the Regional Universities Network, all of which expressed concern about aspects of the Startup Year program and SY-HELP funding".

- (1) the bill’s purpose is not clear, including whether it is intended to build a pool of skilled entrepreneurs or create more firms;
- (2) the value proposition for students is unclear, in that the Startup Year program may result in students incurring a substantial additional debt without obtaining any academic credentials;
- (3) the value proposition for higher education institutions is unclear, given that the SY-HELP funds available are unlikely to fund a full year’s course;
- (4) the bill does not make it clear how SY-HELP loan funds will flow, including whether students will be able to access any of the funding as startup capital;
- (5) the bill does not provide funding for shorter courses under six months in duration;
- (6) given the barriers to commencing a new accelerator or incubator program, students attending regional or smaller universities which do not have an existing accelerator or incubator program may be at a disadvantage;
- (7) the bill does not provide sufficient clarity in relation to whether students in Startup Year programs will retain intellectual property rights in relation to their work funded through SY-HELP; and
- (8) the bill does not appear to have taken into account many of the recommendations made by major interest groups including Universities Australia, the Group of Eight, Australian Technology Network and the Regional Universities Network, all of which expressed concern about aspects of the Startup Year program and SY-HELP funding”—

 - (b) legislated cheaper child care and cheaper medicines;
 - (c) legislated emissions reductions targets and invested in cleaner and cheaper energy;
 - (d) invested in fee-free TAFE and more university places; and
 - (e) handed down a budget that delivered responsible cost of living relief and invested in the drivers of economic growth without adding to inflation; and

8 RETIREMENT VILLAGES

Ms Sharkie, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) recognises that the regulation of retirement villages in Australia is highly complex and varies significantly between states and territories;
- (2) acknowledges that retirement village fees can include upfront incoming payments, ongoing service charges, and exit or deferred management fees, the latter of which may equate up to 25 to 40 per cent of the resident's ingoing contribution or resale price;
- (3) further recognises that while these fees are of a quantum which may apply to a prospective resident when purchasing a property freehold, most retirement villages offer only loan/license agreements or leasehold or similar agreements, which do not provide comparable security of tenure nor other rights;
- (4) expresses concern that:
 - (a) negotiating and understanding a lengthy and complex retirement village contract can be difficult for some prospective residents; and
 - (b) the fees charged place some residents in financial hardship when they depart, such that they may not be able to afford a higher level of care if needed subsequently;
- (5) calls on the Government to recognise that many retirement village contracts represent a financial product, and therefore warrant federal oversight and regulation; and
- (6) further calls on the Government to work with the states and territories on national reforms for the harmonisation of retirement village regulation regimes such that:

- (a) improved consumer protections and increased transparency and consistency are provided for all Australians entering retirement villages; and
- (b) consideration is given to:
 - (i) regulation of retirement village contracts as financial products by the Australian Securities and Investment Commission; and
 - (ii) improved consumer protections and regulation by the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission.

The time allotted for the debate having expired, the debate was interrupted, and the resumption of the debate made an order of the day for the next sitting.

Mr Littleproud, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

 - (a) Australia's live sheep export industry employs more than 3,000 people in Western Australia and is worth $85 million;
 - (b) since 2018, this industry has delivered extensive and comprehensive reforms which have significantly improved animal welfare outcomes;
 - (c) Australia has the highest standards of animal welfare in the world;
 - (d) Australian sheep are high quality, disease-free and perform well in feedlots and at sea, creating demand overseas for them as a premium product; and
 - (e) if the trade is banned, alternatives will be sourced from countries that do not have Australia's high animal welfare or quality standards;
- (2) condemns the Government for its reckless and ideological decision to forcibly shut down Australia's live sheep export industry;
- (3) recognises that the Department of Agriculture, Fisheries and Forestry is the independent regulator of the live animal trade, and any decisions made in respect to the trade should always be predicated on science and independent of government;
- (4) calls on the Government to urgently explain what factual evidence or science its decision to ban the live sheep export industry is based on; and
- (5) urges the Government to immediately reverse its decision to forcibly shut down this industry.

- (3) calls on the Government to take real action to address cost of living pressures.

- (4) recognises that many heavy vehicle road users are unable to pass on the increased costs, which will impact viability of logistics business, leading to inevitable collapse over coming months; and

- (2) recognises that:
 - (a) a 20-year-old today earning an average salary will be caught in the net of the Government's doubling of superannuation taxes;
 - (b) an analysis of Australian Taxation Office and Australian Bureau of Census data reveals that this means more than two million Australians under the age of 25 today will be slugged with the Government's latest tax grab; and
 - (c) the Government has been misleading Australia and it is time for the Treasurer to come clean and confirm exactly how many people will lose out under these changes; and

Ms Daniel, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

 - (a) the consequences of harm from gambling are poorer health and wellbeing for individuals who gamble, their family members, friends and community;
 - (b) family and relationship problems, emotional and psychological issues, including distress, depression, suicide and violence and financial harms are all costs of gambling;
 - (c) the potential for harm has increased with the proliferation of online gambling, and the proliferation of sports bettors gambling online which significantly increased during the COVID-19 pandemic; and
 - (d) a three-year study by La Trobe University with 50,000 respondents revealed that more than three quarters felt they should be able to watch sport on television free from gambling ads and that young people are exposed to too much gambling advertising; and
- (2) acknowledges that:
 - (a) expenditure on gambling advertising in Australia has increased by 320 per cent in the past 11 years;
 - (b) exposure to gambling advertising normalises betting and increases the risk of harm;
 - (c) current restrictions have failed to reduce children and young people's exposure to gambling, especially sports betting; and

 - (a) providing $15.1 million for small business owners across Australia to access free mental health and financial counselling support through the New Access for Small Business Owners and Small Business Debt Helpline programs;
 - (b) updating Commonwealth Procurement Rules so small businesses get a bigger slice of the $70 billion in contracts that the Commonwealth Government spends every year, with a 20 per cent target;
 - (c) reviewing the Payment Times Reporting Act 2020 to consider what other policy measures are necessary to achieve better payment terms and practices for small businesses;
 - (d) opening the first round of $62.6 million in energy efficiency grants to eligible small and medium businesses to help address rising costs; and
 - (e) passing legislation to make unfair contract terms illegal so small businesses can negotiate fairer agreements with large partners; and

 - (a) delivering an increase in skilled migration;
 - (b) accelerating the delivery of 465,000 additional fee-free TAFE places, with 180,000 to be delivered in 2023, helping get more skilled workers into the job market quicker; and

 - (i) harm the viability of community pharmacies;
 - (ii) affect medicine supplies especially in regional and rural communities; and
 - (iii) increase the stockpiling and wastage of medicines;
- (2) the increased cost of living has placed enormous pressure on Australians, but questions remain on whether this policy will have perverse and unintended consequences; and
- (3) community pharmacists play an integral role in the provision of primary healthcare in Australia, particularly in rural and regional Australia, as they stepped up when the nation needed them most through the COVID-19 pandemic and they deserve the support of the Government.

“whilst not declining to give the bill a second reading, the House:

(1) notes:

- (a) while in Government, the Coalition through disciplined economic management was able to deliver the largest permanent increase to the JobSeeker income support payment;
- (b) this increase saw a $50 per fortnight increase in JobSeeker with the income free area increased to $150 per fortnight to support job seekers as they secure employment and re-enter the workforce;

- (c) throughout the height of the COVID-19 pandemic the Coalition Government provided $32 billion in emergency support payments;
 - (d) JobSeeker payment is not meant to be a wage replacement and creating jobs and getting people back into work is the best way to improve the living standards of people and their families;
 - (e) every taxpayer dollar spent is a dollar that someone else earned;
 - (f) there are over 840,000 JobSeeker recipients of whom more than 75 per cent had no reported earnings, that is, no part-time work; and
 - (g) the failure of this year's Budget to reduce barriers to work and get Australians to fill over 438,000 job vacancies; and
- (2) calls on the Government to scrap the $40 per fortnight increase to the base rate of working age pensions and implement the Coalition's policy to increase the income free area to $300 a fortnight to allow job seekers to earn more and still retain the full JobSeeker allowance".

- (2) notes that with the current start date of 20 September 2023, over 8,000 families whose children turn eight in the interim period will lose over $200 a fortnight, and face tighter income and work tests; and
- (3) in light of the growing cost of living challenges, especially those faced by single parents, calls on the Government to bring forward the start date to 1 July 2023.

- (b) while much of this crisis is historically and constitutionally the responsibility of the state and territory governments, it can be seen in many industries including but not limited to: cattle; sheep; aquaculture; poultry; pigs; the breeding of dogs and cats; and where the gambling industry intersects with thoroughbred horseracing, steeplechasing, harness racing and greyhound racing; and
- (c) the systemic cruelty in the live animal export trade continues, with the export of sheep to the Middle East and beef cattle worldwide exemplifying the worst of animal abuse; and

(2) calls on the Government to:

- (a) establish a genuinely independent office of animal welfare which, by working with state and territory governments and their agencies, will take a policy development and leadership role to ensure that all animals are treated humanely and with dignity;
- (b) develop a much-improved legal framework to ensure that beef cattle and sheep are treated ethically during all stages of the live export process, so long as the live export industry exists; and

- (4) that the Government recognises the centrality of the arts to our national identity, community life and individual wellbeing; and

6 ENERGY GENERATION

Mr Ted O'Brien, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) notes that:
 - (a) the Government has no plan to ensure replacement energy generation is built on time to replace the 20 gigawatt of baseload energy slated to withdraw from the National Electricity Market (NEM) by 2035, causing energy to become more expensive and less reliable;
 - (b) despite promising Australians it would reduce household electricity costs by $275 the Government has created energy chaos and has delivered consecutive price hikes including further increases of up to 33 per cent due from 1 July 2023;
 - (c) the closure of Liddell Power Station marks the start of a turbulent new era in Australia's energy market with 20 gigawatts of base load energy capacity (80 per cent of total baseload energy) to withdraw from the NEM by 2035;
 - (d) the Snowy 2.0 'mega battery' was commissioned by the former Government to support an orderly transition off the NEM, which is now under threat due to the current Government;
 - (e) the further delays to Snowy 2.0 will place further pressure on Australia's electricity market in coming years with 7.5 gigawatts of baseload energy exiting the grid, before the 2 gigawatt Snowy 2.0 project is fully operational, from power stations including Liddell, Eraring, Yallourn and Vale Point B;
 - (f) the former Government actioned a comprehensive plan to enable a smooth powering down of the two gigawatt Liddell Power Station by extending its life, overseeing record investment in renewables and commissioning the 660 megawatt Kurri Kurri gas plant;
 - (g) since the Government came to office, there have been reports of massive blow-outs in both cost and the delivery timeframe for both the Snowy 2.0 and Kurri Kurri projects;
 - (h) the Government's uncommercial green hydrogen plan for Kurri Kurri has resulted in the project being delayed by at least a full year and has more than doubled the project's total cost; and
 - (i) the former Government worked with energy providers like AGL to extend the life of critical power stations to allow time for replacements to be built; and
- (2) calls on the Government to:
 - (a) immediately reinstate a technology agnostic capacity mechanism;
 - (b) urgently work with Origin Energy to extend the life of the Eraring power station until replacement dispatchable capacity comes online;
 - (c) scrap its uncommercial green hydrogen plan for Kurri Kurri so it can start as a gas plant as soon as possible; and
 - (d) ensure Snowy 2.0 is operational as soon as possible.

 - (b) must provide a strong guarantee that this change will not:
 - (i) harm the viability of community pharmacies;
 - (ii) affect medicine supplies especially in regional and rural communities; and
 - (iii) increase the stockpiling and wastage of medicines;
- (2) the increased cost of living has placed enormous pressure on Australians, but questions remain on whether this policy will have perverse and unintended consequences; and
- (3) community pharmacists play an integral role in the provision of primary healthcare in Australia, particularly in rural and regional Australia, as they stepped up when the nation needed them most through the COVID-19 pandemic and they deserve the support of the Government—

Debate resumed.

The time allotted for the debate having expired, the debate was interrupted, and the resumption of the debate made an order of the day for the next sitting.

9 ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE

Mr Hill, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) notes that the development and implementation of artificial intelligence (AI) is rapidly accelerating globally and in Australia;
- (2) acknowledges that while there is much uncertainty surrounding both the development and adoption of AI technologies, and that 'AI' is a term used to describe a variety of techniques and applications, what is clear is that these technologies will transform human society, how we experience our lives and how we understand reality;
- (3) recognises that harnessing the benefits of AI presents enormous opportunities for Australia, including:
 - (a) the potential for AI to boost productivity and revolutionise many industries;
 - (b) the capacity to transform our economy with advances in every conceivable field of human endeavour;
 - (c) new employment opportunities through human-centered AI;
 - (d) improving health, wealth and equality outcomes for all Australians including through improved government service delivery; and
 - (e) enhancements to environmental sustainability through better-informed decision making and accelerated scientific discovery;

- (4) further notes that in order to safely harness these benefits, Australia must also act to mitigate the profound risks posed by AI, including:

 - (b) the risk that AI could perpetuate or amplify existing biases and discrimination;
 - (c) the risk that AI could perpetuate or enable new forms of disinformation and misinformation;
 - (d) social and democratic harm through the use of AI in cyber attacks and large-scale disinformation campaigns;
 - (e) further digital marginalisation and inequality; and
 - (f) the threat of social disruption and national security risks;
- (5) recognises that notwithstanding positive efforts underway to address matters related to AI, including responsible AI standards and policy, Australia has broader capability and governance gaps and needs to ensure that regulatory oversight of AI development and adoption in Australia is fit for purpose;
- (6) affirms that:
 - (a) AI is one of the most transformational technologies of the 21st century, on par with the industrial revolution;
 - (b) the level of risk posed by unchecked AI, and the scope of policy development needed to curtail this risk, warrants urgent attention;
 - (c) industry leaders are calling for additional government action and regulatory cooperation;
 - (d) AI governance, regulation and public-good investment is too important to be left to industry or technical experts alone; and
 - (e) the Australian Parliament and Government have a responsibility to consider and act thoughtfully and promptly in responding to these changes;
- (7) notes the recent regulatory moves underway in other jurisdictions, including diverse approaches to AI governance in the EU, the USA, China and the UK; and
- (8) recognises that all Members of Parliament have a responsibility to engage with the transformative challenges presented by AI, and together explore what Australia should do to:
 - (a) foster and contribute to a national debate about AI;
 - (b) seize the enormous opportunities that AI technology will continue to generate;
 - (c) mitigate, through appropriate regulatory measures, community anxieties and the profound risks posed by unchecked AI; and
 - (d) deliver an Australian approach to AI governance and regulation informed by values of democratic participation, nation building, social justice, equality, consumer protection and international cooperation.

 - (d) enables the collection and preservation of local and regional histories via national archives resources such as Trove;

- (b) the closure of over 200 regional newspapers across Australia during the beginning of the COVID-19 pandemic in 2020; and
- (c) changes in government communications policy with the change in Government; and
- (3) calls on the Government to review communications policy and regional print media funding to ensure that:
 - (a) the regional print media industry survives declining economic conditions;
 - (b) regional print media continues to provide entirely localised news for regional communities, which maximises social harmony;
 - (c) opportunities for country Australians seeking careers in print journalism are maintained; and

 - (a) a 20-year-old today earning an average salary will be caught in the net of the Government's doubling of superannuation taxes;
 - (b) an analysis of Australian Taxation Office and Australian Bureau of Census data reveals that this means more than two million Australians under the age of 25 today will be slugged with the Government's latest tax grab; and

3 INCOME MANAGEMENT

Mr Sukkar, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

 - (b) the Coalition's commitment to listening to affected communities;
 - (c) the Coalition's plan to reinstate the successful cashless debit card;
 - (d) that since the abolition of the cashless debit card, there have been reports of widespread abuse of alcohol and drugs, and other anti-social behaviour; and
 - (e) the Government's decision to spend over $217 million in taxpayers' money to launch the so-called SmartCard; and
- (2) calls on the Government to join with the Coalition in committing to re-establish the cashless debit card.

Debate ensued.

The time allotted for the debate having expired, the debate was interrupted, and the resumption of the debate made an order of the day for the next sitting.

4 SOCIAL HOUSING

Dr Ananda-Rajah, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) notes the Government's announcement of a new $2 billion Social Housing Accelerator to deliver thousands of new social rental homes across Australia;
- (2) acknowledges the Government's commitment to an ambitious housing agenda which will boost the supply of all housing, with more social housing, more affordable housing, more homes to rent and more homes to buy, and includes:
 - (a) establishing the Regional First Home Buyer Guarantee three months early, helping regional Australians purchase a home with as little as a five per cent deposit and avoiding paying Lenders Mortgage Insurance;
 - (b) widening the remit of the National Housing Infrastructure Facility, making up to $575 million available to invest immediately in social and affordable rental homes, with projects already under construction as a result of this funding;

- (c) working with the states and territories through the National Housing Accord and National Cabinet to support planning and zoning reforms to contribute to the aspiration of building one million new homes over five years from 2024, as well as investing $350 million in additional federal funding to deliver 10,000 affordable rental homes over five years from 2024 as part of the accord—matched by the states and territories;
 - (d) further establishing the interim National Housing Supply and Affordability Council to provide expert advice to Government on housing supply and affordability;
 - (e) delivering the largest increase to Commonwealth Rent Assistance in more than 30 years, with a 15 per cent increase in the maximum rates;
 - (f) increasing the National Housing Finance and Investment Corporation's liability cap by $2 billion to provide lower cost and longer-term finance to community housing providers through the Affordable Housing Bond Aggregator;
 - (g) providing tax incentives to encourage more build-to-rent developments to boost new supply in the private rental market;
 - (h) further providing an additional $67.5 million of funding to the states and territories to help tackle homelessness challenges as part of a one-year extension to the National Housing and Homelessness Agreement which provides $1.7 billion a year to the states and territories for housing and homelessness services; and
 - (i) expanding eligibility for the Home Guarantee Scheme, which helps people purchase a home sooner by reducing the deposit they need to save; and
- (3) condemns the Opposition and the Australian Greens for blocking the Housing Australia Future Fund, and notes that every day of delay is $1.3 million not being spent on social and affordable housing for Australians who need it today.

Debate ensued.

The time allotted for the debate having expired, the debate was interrupted, and the resumption of the debate made an order of the day for the next sitting.

 - (d) women's full-time jobs have boomed, increasing by 228,600; and
 - (e) women have accounted for 59.3 per cent of the growth in full-time jobs;
- (2) further notes that this comes off the back of recent Treasury analysis showing that the first 12 months of the Government have had the strongest jobs growth of any new Australian government in history; and

- (3) recognises the Government is laying strong foundations for a better future for women in the workforce by delivering on its key election commitments of:
- (a) cheaper child care;
 - (b) expanding paid parental leave;
 - (c) action to boost wages of the low paid through submissions to the Fair Work Commission's annual wage review and aged care work value case;
 - (d) delivering the recommendations of the Respect@Work report; and
 - (e) delivering our Secure Jobs, Better Pay legislation which:
 - (i) has opened up bargaining to workers in low paid industries which are most likely to be female dominated through the supported bargaining stream;
 - (ii) made gender equality an object of the Fair Work Act;
 - (iii) set up new expert panels in the Fair Work Commission focused on pay equity and the care and community sector, and introduced a statutory equal remuneration principle to address low wages and gender-based undervaluation of work;
 - (iv) made the right to request flexible working arrangements an enforceable right; and
 - (v) prohibited pay secrecy clauses.

8 DOMESTIC AIRLINES

Mr L O'Brien, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House notes that:

- (1) the Government has scrapped the monitoring of domestic airlines by the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission at a time when Australian consumers are paying more for airfares but are subject to increased flight cancellations and delays;
- (2) domestic airfares were 32 per cent higher in May 2023 than they were pre-pandemic in May 2019; and
- (3) 1,700 flights were cancelled, and 12,000 flights arrived more than 15 minutes late in April 2023.

Debate ensued.

The time allotted for the debate having expired, the debate was interrupted, and the resumption of the debate made an order of the day for the next sitting.

9 MEDICARE

Ms Miller-Frost, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) notes the Government's commitment to Medicare through the largest increase to Medicare rebates in thirty years and a tripling of the bulk billing incentive;
- (2) acknowledges the Government's commitment to making it easier to see a doctor, making medicines cheaper, and strengthening Medicare after nine years of cuts, neglect and rorts; and
- (3) calls on the Opposition to support the Government's policy to halve the cost of medicine for over six million Australians.

10 AGED CARE QUALITY AND SAFETY COMMISSION

Mr Wilkie, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) notes that:
 - (a) the Royal Commission into Aged Care Quality and Safety provided a clear blueprint on how to fundamentally change and improve our aged care services, but the majority of the 148 recommendations have still not been implemented; and
 - (b) the Aged Care Quality and Safety Commission is the point of contact for concerns and complaints about aged care service provider responsibilities but it appears to be understaffed, have limited powers of investigation and be restricted in the way sanctions can be imposed on providers; and
- (2) calls on the Government to:
 - (a) establish an independent body to oversee the implementation of the essential aged care service reforms in line with the recommendations of the Royal Commission into Aged Care Quality and Safety; and
 - (b) expand the powers and resourcing of the Aged Care Quality and Safety Commission to enable it to effectively manage complaints and impose meaningful sanctions.

The time allotted for the debate having expired, the debate was interrupted, and the resumption of the debate made an order of the day for the next sitting.

11 MIGRANT WORKERS

Ms Fernando, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) recognises that:
 - (a) up to one in six recent migrants to Australia is paid less than the minimum wage;
 - (b) exploitation does not just affect individual workers but effectively drives down wages and worsens conditions for all Australian workers; and
 - (c) about 20 per cent of anonymous reports and disputes resolved by the Fair Work Ombudsman and up to 80 per cent of litigations initiated by the Ombudsman in recent years involved migrants;
- (2) acknowledges the Government is delivering on its commitment to improving employer compliance in the workplace by:
 - (a) introducing new criminal offences, additional enforcement tools, increased pecuniary penalties and a prohibition measure; and

12 PACIFIC AUSTRALIA LABOUR MOBILITY SCHEME

Mr McCormack, pursuant to notice, moved—That this House:

- (1) notes that:
 - (a) the Pacific Australia Labour Mobility (PALM) scheme, which was established by the Coalition, has been embraced by industry and Pacific Island communities alike as a program that has efficiently reduced labour shortages, increased financial opportunities for workers and strengthened ties between Pacific countries and Australia; and

- (b) the Government's union-backed reforms to the PALM scheme are a huge threat to farmers, consumers, Pacific workers and our foreign relations;
- (2) acknowledges that:
 - (a) farmers are now threatening to boycott the program which will force those from nine Pacific Island countries and Timor-Leste to be paid a minimum of 30 hours a week, every week under the Government's plans; and
 - (b) the changes to the scheme were made without adequate consultation with stakeholders and the adverse reaction shows the Government needs to go back to the drawing board; and
- (3) recognises that the Government's changes are being rammed through without warranted consideration and attention and have the potential to cause major disruptions to the scheme which would see an increase of labour shortages, a breakdown in Pacific relations and increased costs being passed onto the consumer at the grocery store.

Debate ensued.

The time allotted for private Members' business having expired, the debate was interrupted, and the resumption of the debate made an order of the day for the next sitting.

Questions without notice continued.

10 REVERSION TO STANDARD FORM FOR STATING THE QUESTION—STATEMENT BY SPEAKER

The Speaker made the following statement:

As members will be aware, the physical arrangements in the Chamber have since returned to their pre-COVID-19 forms. From now on procedures on questions will also revert to the standard formulations as provided in the standing orders. What this means is that a question for decision of the House will be stated in the usual form 'that the proposal be agreed to'.

Members will still be required to vote 'aye' or 'no' on the voices to a question before the House. However, the reversion to the usual practices of the House means that members might need to cross to the other side of the Chamber when voting in divisions. For example, when the deferred division is dealt with this afternoon after the MPI, the question will be stated as: 'That the amendment moved by the member for Goldstein to the second reading amendment moved by the member for Curtin be agreed to'. Members agreeing should vote 'aye' and members disagreeing to the amendment should vote 'no'. As the division has been deferred, of course the bells will be rung. The question 'that the amendment be agreed to' will be stated.

Whilst it is always important for members to listen carefully to the Speaker or the Deputy Speaker in the chair, as this usual practice and procedure of the House is not familiar to members, especially the members who have taken their places in the House in this 47th Parliament. I encourage all members to listen carefully when a question is being stated and put to the House for decision.
