Preface

In a report to the Parliament in 1915, the Joint Library Committee requested the publication of > a Commonwealth Parliamentary Handbook, giving a short political biography … of all Members of both Houses since the initiation of Federation, with portraits in most cases, particulars of every election in the same period, with other information likely to be useful.[1]

The first edition appeared later that year as the Biographical Handbook and Record of Elections for the Parliament of the Commonwealth. A new edition of the Handbook has been published for almost every new Parliament since then, and first appeared online in 1999.

The Parliamentary Handbook has grown to become a comprehensive reference work on many aspects of the Commonwealth Parliament and the Australian political system.

This 35th edition of the Parliamentary Handbook sets out detailed information about the 46th Commonwealth Parliament. The parliamentary service and political careers of Senators and Members are presented, together with details of parliamentary committees and elections up to and including the May 2019 poll. The biographical information is correct as at 11 September 2020. However, biographies are updated regularly and can be found on the Parliament's website at www.aph.gov.au and through Parlinfo Search.

The Coat of Arms

The Coat of Arms was first granted by King Edward VII by Royal Warrant on 7 May 1908. Amendments incorporating specific references to the States were approved, on the recommendation of the Commonwealth Government, by King George V by Royal Warrant on 19 September 1912.

The Coat of Arms depicts a shield of six parts with representations of the badges of the six States, with a kangaroo and emu, resting on ornamental supports, on either side of the shield. This is set over small branches of flowering wattle, beneath which is the word 'Australia'. Above the shield is the crest, with the seven-pointed gold star of Federation resting on a blue and gold wreath.

The floral emblem

Australia's national floral emblem, the Golden Wattle, Acacia pycnantha, was proclaimed on 1 September 1988. On the advice of the Government, the Governor-General proclaimed on 23 June 1992 that 1 September each year is to be observed as National Wattle Day throughout Australia.

The Australian flag

The Flags Act 1953 formally established the current Australian flag. The flag is described as:

The Australian national flag has a blue field with the 'Union Jack' in the canton (the upper quarter next to the flagpole). The seven-pointed Commonwealth star in the lower hoist represents the six States and the Territories. In the fly are the five stars of the constellation of the Southern Cross. Four of the stars have seven points and the smallest one has five.

The Australian Parliament

The Australian Constitution vests the legislative power of the Commonwealth in a Federal Parliament which consists of the Queen, the Senate and the House of Representatives.

The first Federal Parliament was opened by the Duke of Cornwall and York (later King George V) on 9 May 1901 in the Melbourne Exhibition Building.

Under an agreement between the Commonwealth and the Victorian Governments, the Commonwealth Parliament met in the Victorian Parliament House from 1901 to 1927, during which time the Victorian Parliament was housed in the Exhibition Building. This was expected to be a temporary arrangement, but the Commonwealth Parliament did not meet in the provisional Parliament House in Canberra until 9 May 1927. The permanent Parliament House, built on Capital Hill, was opened by Queen Elizabeth II on 9 May 1988, and the first sittings in the new building took place on 22 August 1988.

The centenary of the Parliament was celebrated in the Exhibition Building and the Victorian Parliament on 9 and 10 May 2001.

As noted above, the Parliament is bicameral. The holders of government office—the Executive or Ministry—are responsible to the people's elected representatives, and their tenure of office is dependent upon their retention of the confidence of the Lower House.

By convention, the Prime Minister and the Leader of the Opposition are members of the House of Representatives.

Senate

The Senate has 76 members. Each State elects 12 Senators from State-wide electorates for six-year, fixed terms. Two Senators are elected from each of the Australian Capital Territory and the Northern Territory for three-year maximum terms that are tied to the terms of Members of the House of Representatives. For details of party representation in the Senate from 1901 see the table on p 464-5.

House of Representatives

The House of Representatives currently has 151 members elected from single-member electorates. The Constitution requires that the number of Members must be, 'as nearly as practicable', twice that of the number of State Senators. Slight variations in House numbers can occur due to changes in the States' and Territories' entitlements—since 1984 the number has ranged from 147 to 151 Members. For details of party representation in the House from 1901 see the table on p 466-7.

The government

The Constitution provides that the Queen appoints a Governor-General to be her representative in Australia.

By convention, the Governor-General commissions the leader of the majority party or coalition in the House of Representatives to form a government. It is also a matter of convention to include a number of Senators in the Ministry.

The Hon. Scott Morrison MP was first sworn in as Prime Minister on 24 August 2018. Following the 2019 general election, the Morrison Ministry was sworn in on 29 May 2019. The first meeting of the 46th Parliament was on 2 July 2019. For full details of the Ministry, see pp. 21-3.

Legislation

Most Bills examined by Parliament are introduced by the government in the House of Representatives. Proposed laws appropriating revenue for the ordinary annual services of the government, or imposing taxation, can be introduced only in the House of Representatives. The Constitution imposes limitations on the power of the Senate over financial legislation, so that the Upper House may not amend such legislation, nor may it amend any proposed law so as to increase any proposed charge or financial burden on the people.

Legislative conflict

The Senate may reject any Bill. The Constitution provides a method for the resolution of any deadlock which may occur from the failure of the Senate to pass a Bill that has been passed by the House of Representatives. Under certain specified conditions, the Governor-General may dissolve both Houses, and elections for all House of Representatives and Senate seats are held. Such 'double dissolution' elections have been held in 1914, 1951, 1974, 1975, 1983, 1987 and 2016. If, after such an election, a disputed Bill is again rejected, it can be put to a joint sitting of both Houses. The only joint sitting to date was held in 1974.

Sitting periods

The Commonwealth Parliament must meet at least once each year. Before 1994 there were traditionally two sitting periods: Autumn (February–June) and Budget (August–December). Since 1994 there have been three sitting periods each calendar year: Autumn (February–March), Budget (May–June), and Spring (August–December). The earlier arrangement may be reverted to when the electoral cycle makes a May budget impracticable. The following table shows the number of sitting days and number of Acts passed for each year for the ten years prior to the 2019 election.

The Parliamentary record

The official record of the Senate is the Journals of the Senate, and that of the House of Representatives is the Votes and Proceedings. Parliamentary debates are recorded and published by the Department of Parliamentary Services as Parliamentary Debates, or Hansard. These contain the full text of speeches, petitions, notices of motion, questions without notice and the answers thereto, questions in writing and the answers thereto, and requests made to the Presiding Officers for detailed information concerning the Parliament.

Parliamentary information on the Internet

The Parliament of Australia home page is found at: www.aph.gov.au.

This contains links to the Senate, the House of Representatives and the Department of Parliamentary Services. Access is available to the Debates and the Notice Papers for both houses, as well as the Journals of the Senate, the Votes and Proceedings, Committee Hansards and other parliamentary information. The Parliamentary Library's publications, including the Parliamentary Handbook, are available on this site, as well as subject guides to Internet resources. Parlinfo Search provides access to a range of parliamentary information.

The Sovereign

Elizabeth the Second, by the Grace of God, Queen of Australia and her other Realms and Territories, Head of the Commonwealth

Her Majesty Elizabeth Alexandra Mary, the daughter of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, ascended the throne on 6 February 1952, was proclaimed Queen on 8 February 1952 and was crowned at Westminster Abbey on 2 June 1953.

The Queen has visited Australia sixteen times during her reign. On three occasions Parliament has been opened by Her Majesty: 15 February 1954, 28 February 1974 and 8 March 1977. On 9 May 1988, Her Majesty opened the permanent Parliament House in Canberra, 61 years to the day after her father opened the provisional Parliament House.

The Governor-General

The Governor-General is appointed by the Queen, on the advice of the Australian Prime Minister, to be her representative in Australia, with powers as specified in the Constitution, and 'such powers and functions of the Queen as Her Majesty may be pleased to assign to him'.

As set out in the Constitution, the Governor-General exercises the following powers with respect to the Parliament: the appointment of times for parliamentary sessions, the prorogation or dissolution of Parliament, the appointment of the Ministry, and the declaration of Royal Assent to legislation passed by Parliament.

His Excellency General the Honourable David Hurley AC DSC (Retd) Governor-General of the Commonwealth of Australia

His Excellency General the Honourable David John Hurley AC DSC (Retd) was sworn in as the Governor-General of the Commonwealth of Australia on 1 July 2019.

David Hurley joined the Australian Army in January 1972, graduating from the Royal Military College, Duntroon into the Royal Australian Infantry Corps. In a long and distinguished 42-year military career, his service culminated with his appointment as Chief of the Defence Force.

He commanded the 1st Battalion, The Royal Australian Regiment during Operation SOLACE in Somalia in 1993, receiving the Distinguished Service Cross. Following promotion to Colonel, he was appointed Chief of Staff, Headquarters 1st Division in June 1994, attending the U.S. Army War College in 1996 and 1997. He commanded the 1st Brigade from 1999–2000 in Darwin, supporting Australian-led operations in East Timor. He was appointed the inaugural Chief of Capability Development Group from 2003–2007, Chief of Joint Operations Command in October 2007, and Vice Chief of the Defence Force in July 2008. Promoted to General, he succeeded Air Chief Marshal Angus Houston as Chief of the Defence Force on 4 July 2011 until his retirement on 30 June 2014. In 2010, he was appointed a Companion of the Order of Australia for eminent service to the Australian Defence Force.

Prior to being sworn in as Governor-General, David Hurley served as the 38th Governor of New South Wales from October 2014 – May 2019.

David Hurley was born in Wollongong, New South Wales on 26 August 1953, the son of Norma and James Hurley. His father was an Illawarra steelworker and his mother worked in a grocery store. He grew up in Port Kembla and attended Port Kembla High School where he completed his Higher School Certificate in 1971. He graduated with a Bachelor of Arts and Graduate Diploma in Defence Studies from the Royal Military College, Duntroon in 1975. He is married to Linda with whom he has three children: Caitlin, Marcus and Amelia.

He was awarded an Honorary Doctorate of Letters from the University of Wollongong in 2013; a Doctor of the University, honoris causa, from the University of New South Wales in 2015; made a Fellow of the Australian Academy of Technology and Engineering in 2016; and awarded an Honorary Doctorate from Macquarie University in 2017.

Office holders

The President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives

The President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives, known collectively as the Presiding Officers, are the principal office holders in the Parliament. The President of the Senate chairs meetings of the Senate, and the Speaker of the House of Representatives chairs meetings of the House. The President and the Speaker are also the spokespersons for the Senate and the House of Representatives respectively, representing their chambers in dealings with the Governor-General, Executive Government, the other House, and those outside the Parliament and overseas.

The President and the Speaker also have ultimate responsibility for the administration of their respective departments (the Departments of the Senate and the House of Representatives)—a role analogous to that of ministers regarding government departments. Further, the Presiding Officers have joint responsibility for the Department of Parliamentary Services in its provision of services to all parliamentarians, as well as joint management and control of Parliament House and its surrounds.

Parliamentary party leaders and whips

Each parliamentary party (consisting of all parliamentarians belonging to the party) has a leader, who is elected according to party rules and processes. The leaders of the government party and the opposition party will be, respectively, the Prime Minister and the Leader of the Opposition. Parliamentary party leaders play a leading role in their parties' activities within the Parliament, allocating parliamentary party positions and representing their parties to the electorate.

Parliamentary parties also maintain a number of positions known as 'whips', who carry out a range of duties for their parties, including managing chamber attendance for divisions, making pairing arrangements, and acting as tellers in divisions. Whips may also perform party duties outside of the parliamentary setting.

* As at 11.9.2020

Each box represents a portfolio. Cabinet Ministers are shown in bold type. As a general rule, there is one department in each portfolio. However, there is a Department of Veterans' Affairs in the Defence portfolio. The title of a department does not necessarily reflect the title of a minister in all cases. Assistant Ministers in italics are designated as Parliamentary Secretaries under the Ministers of State Act 1952.

Note: A Member's preferred name, when not a first name, is shown in brackets.

Introduction

The 2019 election

Australian national elections are conducted according to the Australian Constitution and the Commonwealth Electoral Act 1918. House of Representatives elections use the preferential voting electoral system and Senate elections use a proportional representation electoral system.

House of Representatives electorates

The number of electorates in each State and Territory is determined by population. There were 151 electorates contested in the 2019 election, with the entitlement for each State and Territory as follows:

NSW	Vic	Qld	WA	SA	Tas	ACT	NT
47	38	30	16	10	5	3	2

The election was held on 18 May 2019. This was two years, ten months and 26 days after the 2016 election.

House of Representatives

The seats won by each party were as follows:

LIB	NP	ALP	GRN	KAP	CA	IND
61	16	68	1	1	1	3

Senate

The seats won by each party, and party representation from 1 July 2019, are as follows:

	Senators elected 1.7.2019	Party representation
Liberal Party of Australia	16	30
The Nationals	2	4
Country Liberal Party	1	1
Australian Labor Party	13	26
Australian Greens	6	9
Jacqui Lambie Network	1	1
Centre Alliance[a]	0	2
Pauline Hanson One Nation Party	1	2
Australian Conservatives[b]	0	1
Total	40	76

Note: At the 2019 election, 23 House of Representatives candidates and six Senate candidates successfully contested seats for the merged Liberal National Party of Queensland. Upon commencement of the 46th Parliament, these MPs nominated to sit with either the Liberal Party of Australia or The Nationals.

a On 9 August 2020, Senator Rex Patrick resigned from the Centre Alliance and became an Independent Senator for South Australia.

b Following Australian Conservatives Senator Cory Bernardi's resignation from the Senate on 21 January 2020, his seat was taken by Liberal Senator Andrew McLachlan, who was sworn in on 6 February 2020.

For full election details, see: www.aec.gov.au

Next election

Every House of Representatives shall continue for three years from its first meeting. As the current House first met on 2 July 2019, it is due to expire on 1 July 2022, although it may be dissolved sooner with the election date nominated by the Prime Minister.

If the House of Representatives continues until its expiry date, then the election must be held on a Saturday no more than 68 days later, that is by 27 August 2022.

Although the election of senators whose terms expire on 30 June 2022 may be held as late as 21 May 2022 at a half-Senate election, a simultaneous House of Representatives and half-Senate election must be held no earlier than 7 August 2021 and no later than 21 May 2022.

A double dissolution election cannot be held later than 5 March 2022.

For details, see R Lundie, 'So when is the next election?': Australian elections timetable as at January 2020, DPS Research Paper, 13 January 2020.

Constitutional Referendums

The referendum is used in Australia as part of the formal process of amending the Commonwealth Constitution. Section 128 of the Constitution requires that a proposal to amend the Constitution must first take the form of a Bill submitted to the Commonwealth Parliament. Between two and six months after it leaves the Parliament, the proposal 'shall be submitted' to the voters in the States and Territories in the form of a referendum.

The Constitution originally provided that Bills to alter the Constitution had to be approved by referendum in a majority of States and by a majority of all electors voting. Following an amendment in 1977, the Constitution now allows electors in the Territories, as well as electors in the States, to vote in constitutional referendums. Territory votes are included in the national total only. No proposed amendment diminishing the proportionate representation of any State in either House of the Parliament, or the minimum number of representatives of a State in the House of Representatives, or altering the boundaries of a State, may become law unless the majority of the electors voting in that State approve the proposed law.

The Referendum (Machinery Provisions) Act 1984 provides the machinery for conducting referendums. Constitutional referendums have been held on nineteen separate occasions, involving forty-four separate amendment attempts.

Only eight of the forty-four proposals have been carried by referendum:

- Senate Elections (12 December 1906) made minor alterations concerning Senate elections and terms of Senators
- State Debts (13 April 1910) allowed the Commonwealth takeover of State debts
- State Debts (17 November 1928) formalised the position of the Loan Council
- Social Services (28 September 1946) gave the Commonwealth power to provide certain social services
- Aboriginals (27 May 1967) gave the Commonwealth power to make laws for Aboriginal people resident in the States and to include all Aboriginal people in the national census
- Casual Vacancies (21 May 1977) aimed at ensuring that a replacement Senator should be from the same party as the departing Senator
- Territory Votes (21 May 1977) gave residents of the Australian Capital Territory and the Northern Territory the right to vote in constitutional referendums
- Retirement of Judges (21 May 1977) provided for a retirement age of seventy for all federal judges.

National Plebiscites

In Australia referendums on questions that do not affect the Constitution are usually called plebiscites. They have no legal force. Three national plebiscites have been held: two on the conscription of troops during World War I and one on a national song in 1977.

The following pages show the voting figures at each constitutional referendum* and national plebiscite. In all cases the italicised words provide the question asked of voters on the referendum ballot paper.

The numbering of the referendums and plebiscites has been provided for the convenience of the reader. It is not an official numbering.

The Australian Marriage Law Postal Survey, conducted by the Australian Bureau of Statistics (ABS) in September–November 2017, is perhaps most correctly referred to as a survey rather than a plebiscite, given that the government directed the ABS to collect statistical information rather than to conduct a ballot.

* For all referendums up to and including that for 13 December 1919 the sum of 'For', 'Against' and 'Informal' does not equal 'Votes'. The difference is due to results for referendums held between 1906 and 1919 including a category of 'missing ballot papers', which were ballot papers issued but not accounted for in the final counts. For the 1906 and 1919 referendums, the 'missing ballot papers' were included in the numerator for turnout calculation.

(16) State Debts

Question

Do you approve of the proposed law for the alteration of the Constitution entitled 'Constitution Alteration (State Debts) 1928'?

Constitution Alteration (State Debts) 1928 sought to insert section 105A which would in effect ratify the Financial Agreement which had already been accepted by all the Australian Governments. This terminated the system of per capita payments which had been in operation since 1910, and restricted the right of each State to borrow for its own development by subjecting that borrowing to control by a Loan Council.

(19) Post-War Reconstruction and Democratic Rights

Question

Do you approve of the proposed law for the alteration of the Constitution entitled 'Constitution Alteration (Post-War Reconstruction and Democratic Rights) 1944'?

Constitution Alteration (Post-War Reconstruction and Democratic Rights) 1944, the 'Fourteen Powers' or 'Fourteen Points' Referendum, sought to give the Commonwealth Parliament power, for a period of five years, to legislate with respect to the fourteen specified matters, which included the rehabilitation of ex-servicemen, national health, family allowances and 'the people of Aboriginal race' as well as, in some form, many of the matters on which powers to legislate had been sought in 1911 (that is, corporations, trusts, combines and monopolies). There were also to be inserted constitutional guarantees of freedom of speech and religion and safeguards against the abuse of delegated legislative power. All of these proposed alterations were put to voters in the form of one question.

(1) Military Service

Question

Are you in favour of the Government having, in this grave emergency, the same compulsory powers over citizens in regard to requiring their military service, for the term of this war, outside the Commonwealth, as it now has in regard to military service within the Commonwealth?

This plebiscite, conducted under the Military Service Referendum Act 1916, was held due to the Commonwealth Government's desire to increase its available forces for overseas service.

(3) National Song

Question

Against the background that 'GOD SAVE THE QUEEN' is the NATIONAL ANTHEM to be played on Regal and Vice Regal occasions, electors may indicate their preference as to which of the TUNES OF THE SONGS listed below they would prefer to be played on other occasions.

The National Song Poll was held in 1977 by the Fraser Government to find a national song. Until 1974 God save the Queen/King was Australia's national anthem. The Whitlam Government, following the result of a public opinion poll conducted by the Australian Bureau of Statistics in February 1974, changed the anthem to Advance Australia Fair, except on specifically royal occasions. In January 1976, the Fraser Government reinstated the use of God Save the Queen for royal, vice-regal, defence and loyal toast occasions, and decided to find a national song for use on ceremonial occasions when it was necessary to mark a separate Australian identity. Advance Australia Fair won the National Song Poll.

* Selected under section 15 of the Constitution.

a New term began 1.7.1923. Not sworn in; died 18.8.1923.

b Died 31.1.1938 while Senator-elect.

c On 12 December 2018 the Australian Electoral Commission approved Mr Clive Palmer's request to register the 'United Australia Party' (UAP).

d Pursuant to the Senate (Representation of Territories) Act 1973, a Senator's term of service expires at the close of the day next preceding the polling day for the general election of Members of the House of Representatives.

e Not sworn in.

f Exact date and year unknown.

g Election ruled void; disqualified under sections 44 and 45 of the Constitution.

h Declared elected by the High Court of Australia.

i Seat declared vacant owing to absence without leave for two months.

j Between 1.2.1968 and 24.2.1968 Mr Gorton was a Member of neither House but, as permitted by the Constitution, was able to remain Prime Minister during this period prior to his election to the House of Representatives.

k Elected 1998 but disqualified 23.6.1999 under the provisions of the Commonwealth Electoral Act 1918.

l Chosen by Parliament of South Australia on 11.7.1907; selection declared void on 20.12.1907.

m Appointment not confirmed by South Australian Parliament within fourteen days after commencement of its next session as required by section 15 of the Constitution.

n Election ruled void; re-elected in supplementary election in February 1908.

o Disqualified under the provisions of the Commonwealth Electoral Act 1918.

Members of the House of Representatives since 1901

Where no closing date is shown in the fifth column the Member's term is unexpired. Before the general election of 1903, South Australia and Tasmania were not divided into electoral divisions, and were each regarded, following a provision in the Constitution, as one electorate. For a full list of party abbreviations, see pp. viii–ix.

Ministries and Cabinets

The following lists show each ministry and its term of office since 1901. The termination date for the first 42 ministries coincides with the date on which the Prime Ministers submitted their resignation, and that of each of their ministers, to the Governor-General. Within this period there were three long ministries which spanned elections (Hughes 1918–1923, Bruce-Page 1923–1929 and Lyons 1932–1938).

From the 43rd ministry to the present, ministries have run from election to election unless there was a change in the governing party's leadership through death, resignation or party room defeat, or the Prime Minister's appointment being determined by the Governor-General, as occurred in 1975.

In a number of cases ministries listed separately in earlier editions of the Parliamentary Handbook have been consolidated to facilitate easier reference. These are two Fraser ministries (1980–1983), two Keating ministries (1991–1993), two Gillard ministries (2010), and two Rudd ministries (2013).

With the swearing in of the Menzies Ministry on 11.1.1956, the practice was introduced whereby the Cabinet comprised some but not all members of the ministry. This practice was continued until the resignation of the McMahon Ministry on 5.12.1972.

When the Whitlam Ministry assumed office on 5.12.1972, all members of the ministry sat as members of the Cabinet, thus reverting to the original practice which existed prior to 1956.

With the swearing in of the Fraser Ministry on 22.12.1975, the practice was reintroduced whereby the Cabinet comprised some but not all members of the ministry. The practice has been continued by all subsequent ministries.

37. Gorton Ministry (LIB-CP Coalition) 10.1.1968–28.2.1968

Following the disappearance of Prime Minister Holt on 17.12.1967, the Liberal Party chose Senator Gorton as its leader, and he was sworn in as Prime Minister on 10.1.1968. Prime Minister Gorton resigned his Senate seat on 1.2.1968, in order to seek election to the House of Representatives. Between 1.2.1968 and his election for the Division of Higgins on 24.2.1968, Mr Gorton was a member of neither House but, as permitted by the Constitution, was able to remain Prime Minister.

46th Parliament

Parliamentary Handbook of the Commonwealth of Australia 2020

The 35th edition of the Parliamentary Handbook of the Commonwealth of Australia is a comprehensive guide to the 46th Parliament. The biographical section includes details of the parliamentary service and political career of each Senator and Member, as well as some personal particulars. The Handbook also provides information on parliamentary committees, together with statistical summaries of the 2019 elections for the House of Representatives and the Senate, maps of federal electoral divisions, and some valuable lists and tables concerning the history of the Australian Parliament.
