

PARLIAMENT OF AUSTRALIA

GRADUATE PROGRAM

Welcome

Three of the four parliamentary departments and the Parliamentary Workplace Support Service (PWSS) are offering exciting and challenging placement opportunities to graduates of Australian Government departments. The 2026 Parliament of Australia Graduate Program offers high performing and committed graduates the opportunity to develop their professional skills while expanding their knowledge of the Australian Parliament and contributing to its operations.

We welcome applications from graduates from a diverse range of disciplines and backgrounds. Applicants can apply for a placement with the Department of the House of Representatives, the Department of the Senate, the Parliamentary Budget Office and the Parliamentary Workplace Support Service.

About the Program

Placements are open to graduates who have been accepted into, are in, or have completed an existing Australian government department or agency graduate program within the last five years. The program is designed to expose graduates to the parliamentary departments' work in supporting the Parliament. Applicants can apply for placements with the:

- » Department of the House of Representatives – up to 6 months
- » Department of the Senate – 6 months
- » Parliamentary Budget Office – up to 9 months
- » Parliamentary Workplace Support Service – 3 months

The skills and knowledge graduates obtain through the program are designed to contribute to building the foundation for career progression and professional development. We are looking for high performing graduates from a range of disciplines who are highly motivated and have sound research and analytical skills, effective communication skills and good interpersonal skills.

General information about the participating Parliamentary departments

Department of the House of Representatives

The Department of the House of Representatives provides high quality advice and services to support the efficient and effective conduct of the House of Representatives chambers, its committees and certain joint committees. The department also provides a range of services and facilities for the 150 Members in Parliament House. The department's purpose is to support the House of Representatives to fulfil its role as a representative and legislative body. The department also promotes the work of the House in the community and supports the conduct of the Parliament's relations with other parliaments.

More about the Department of the House of Representatives

Department of the Senate

The Department of the Senate provides the secretariat to the Senate—enabling its legislative and accountability activities—and to dozens of parliamentary committees, whose work encompasses the Senate's scrutiny functions and its exercise of Parliament's broad investigative powers. In doing so, departmental officers provide the Senate, its committees, the President and other senators, expert, impartial advice about Senate and committee operations.

The Department also publishes the Senate's records and produces an array of information resources so that people may understand and engage in its work. With colleagues across the parliamentary service, the department also provides specialised advice and logistical support to senators so they may undertake their duties.

More about the Department of the Senate

Parliamentary Budget Office

The Parliamentary Budget Office (PBO) is a small, vibrant agency of around 45 staff. The PBO commenced operation as an independent institution of the Australian Parliament on 23 July 2012.

The purpose of the PBO is to support the Parliament by providing independent, authoritative and non-partisan analysis of budgetary issues and the fiscal cost of policy proposals. In light of the current fiscal situation, the PBO is in a unique position to support the Parliament and general public at this critical time through analysis that is timely and relevant.

The PBO's role comprises three main elements, which are to:

- » enable fiscal impacts to be considered during policy development by providing policy costing and budget analysis services to all parliamentarians
- » improve public understanding of budget and fiscal policy issues by conducting and publishing research in these areas
- » enhance transparency around election commitments by preparing a report on the budget impacts of the election commitments of parliamentary parties after each general election.

More about the Parliamentary Budget Office

Parliamentary Workplace Support Service

The Parliamentary Workplace Support Service (PWSS) is a team of trusted advisors helping to build and maintain a safe, respectful, and inclusive parliamentary workplace through:

- » human resources advice
- » training and professional development
- » work, health and safety advice
- » trauma-informed complaint resolution and counselling.

More about the Parliamentary Workplace Support Service

Placement opportunities

Where possible, successful graduates will be placed in work areas that complement the graduate's work experience in their home departments or agencies, while meeting operational demands of the relevant parliamentary department. Placements may involve:

- » working with a committee secretariat providing research and administrative support to parliamentary committees
- » providing support to meetings of the House of Representatives or the Senate
- » supporting the Department of the House of Representatives corporate functions
- » promoting the community's understanding of, and interaction with, the work of the Houses and the Australian parliament, or working in the Parliamentary Budget Office preparing costings of policy proposals, undertaking budgetary and fiscal policy research,
- » supporting the Parliamentary Budget Office's corporate functions or
- » working in the Parliamentary Workplace Support Service in a range of specialist corporate and support areas including HR, work health and safety, professional development, counselling, and media and communications.

Parliament House is located in Canberra, the traditional lands of the Ngunnawal and Ngambri peoples. Successful applicants will need to undertake their placements in Can-

Professional development

Placements offer graduates valuable learning opportunities and professional development in a high-profile environment. The parliamentary departments are committed to developing their people, and graduates will have access to parliamentary-specific training during their placement. A placement in a parliamentary department is a graduate's opportunity to be involved in the work of the Parliament by contributing to the apolitical and impartial work of the parliamentary departments. Graduates are offered a diverse range of challenging and rewarding work in a variety of work areas.

Performance assessment

At the end of the placement, graduates will be provided with an assessment of their work performance against set work objectives. This assessment will be conducted by the graduate's supervisor in consultation with the graduate. A written assessment will be forwarded to the graduate's home department or agency at the completion of the placement.

Salary and conditions

Graduates successful in obtaining a placement will continue to have their salary and employment conditions administered by their home department or agency. At the completion of the placement, the relevant parliamentary department will reimburse the graduate's associated salary costs on receipt of a tax invoice from the graduate's home department or agency.

Other conditions while participating in the program include:

- » extensive training and development
- » experiences unique to working in Parliament House
- » flexible working conditions
- » health and wellbeing initiatives, and
- » support network including managers and other graduates.

Graduates are required to comply with the policies of the department they are placed with, which includes adherence to the Parliamentary Service Values and the Parliamentary Service Code of Conduct set out in the Parliamentary Service Act 1999 for placements in Parliamentary departments.

Eligibility

Graduates who have been accepted into, are undertaking, or have completed an existing Australian government department or agency graduate program within the last five years are eligible to apply. The endorsement of the home department or agency must be confirmed through the application process. Applications without this confirmation will not be considered. Graduates are assessed based on their academic achievement and work experience.

Given the diverse work of the Australian Parliament, graduates from all relevant disciplines are encouraged to apply.

Diversity

We encourage graduates from all backgrounds to apply. We value diversity and are committed to maintaining a workplace that values the contribution of people from different backgrounds, experiences and perspectives. We welcome applications from First Nations people, people with disabilities and people from diverse cultural backgrounds, those who identify as LGBTIQA+, mature aged people and carers.

Selection process

Applications are subject to a merit-based selection process. As a minimum requirement applicants must:

- » be participating in, been accepted into, or have completed, a graduate program with an Australian government department or agency within the last five years
- » hold, as a minimum, a bachelor's degree from an Australian university or a degree recognised by the National Office of Overseas Skills Recognition as equivalent
- » be an Australian citizen, and
- » for placements in the Parliamentary Budget Office and the Parliamentary Workplace Support Service, hold, or be in the process of obtaining, a baseline security clearance.

To be successful in obtaining a graduate placement with a parliamentary department, applicants will need to possess the following:

- » an appropriate academic degree
- » proven high-level analytical, research and evaluation skills
- » demonstrated excellent written and oral communication skills
- » a proven ability to contribute ideas and demonstrate initiative and flexibility
- » a proven ability to organise, schedule, prioritise and complete assigned tasks
- » an interest in parliamentary procedure and practice, and
- » proven high-level analytical, research and evaluation skills in economics, commerce or finance (Parliamentary Budget Office applicants only).

How to apply

Applications for the 2026 Parliament of Australia Graduate Program open on 1 October 2025 and close on 31 October 2025.

Your application must include:

- » your résumé, including the names and contact details of two work-related referees, one of whom must be your current supervisor
- » an academic transcript, and
- » a one-page statement (approximately 500 words) addressing the following:
 - » work experiences, noteworthy activities, or projects contributed to during your graduate year or work experience in relation to the core skills
 - » skills and knowledge gained that demonstrates your suitability for the program, and
 - » how skills and knowledge gained through a placement will benefit your home department or agency, when you return.

For further information please contact:

Heidi Browne

Assistant Director,
Payroll and Reporting
Department of the
House of Representatives
Telephone: (02) 6277 4109
Email: HRM.Reps@aph.gov.au

Dijana Seminara

Senior Human Resource Adviser,
Human Resource Management
Department of the Senate
Telephone: (02) 6277 3157
Email: HRM.Sen@aph.gov.au

Warwick Bradly

Human Resources
Parliamentary Budget Office
Telephone: (02) 6277 9586
Email: HR@pbo.gov.au

Emma Da Silva

Director, Corporate
Parliamentary Workplace Support
Service
Telephone: (02) 6277 9803
Email: PWSSCorporate@pwss.gov.au