

Matt O'Sullivan

SENATOR FOR WESTERN AUSTRALIA

Mr Tony Cook PSM
Secretary
Department of Education
Via email: tony.cook@education.gov.au

Dear Secretary,

I write on behalf of the Coalition Senators ahead of the 2024-25 Senate Budget Estimates hearings which will take place on 5 and 6 June 2024 to request that certain information is provided to the Committee in advance of these hearings.

Providing Coalition Senators with information ahead of Senate Estimates as requested not only assists Senators in their important role to scrutinise government expenditure, but also the Department of Education (Department) by ensuring that relevant information is on hand during the hearings.

I request that the Department provides the following information in machine readable format to the Education and Employment Legislation Committee by 5:00pm on Tuesday 4 June 2024:

Corporate

1. The number and levels of staff currently employed by the Department including current organisational structures;
2. The number and location of APS staff and locally engaged staff at each overseas location;
3. A current list of all boards, commissions, statutory appointments within the portfolio including date of appointment and cessation. Please include any vacant positions, the reason for the vacancy, when it became vacant and for how long it is expected to be vacant;

Dear Professor Schmidt

I am writing to seek your urgent advice regarding student and staff safety on university campuses in the wake of the attack by Hamas on Israel.

There is nothing more important than the safety of staff and students. This is why in response to the recommendation of the Universities Accord Interim Report on university governance, I have established a Working Group to advise Education Ministers on what steps should be taken to improve student and staff safety on campus. As you know, the Working Group is currently considering how to improve responses to sexual harassment and violence on university campuses and in student accommodation.

A few weeks ago I met with the Australasian Union of Jewish Students and the Zionist Federation of Australia to discuss concerns about the safety of Jewish students on campuses. We agreed that the Working Group's role would be expanded to look at the specific issues of concern to Jewish students about their safety on campus.

The events of the past few days make this work more pressing. I therefore seek your urgent advice about measures you have currently in place to help ensure that antisemitism, Islamophobia and any other form of racism, harassment, discrimination or intimidation do not threaten the safety of students and staff and what additional measures you are taking or intending to take to address this.

Yours sincerely

JASON CLARE

Dear Minister,

Thank you for your correspondence. I would like to assure you that the safety and welfare of students and staff at Australian Catholic University (ACU) is of utmost importance to me and my senior leadership team.

As a Catholic community, we support tolerance and unity across religious divides and we are committed to providing campuses where people can safely study, work and visit.

ACU does not tolerate any form of antisemitism, Islamophobia or any other form of racism, harassment, discrimination or intimidation. Accordingly, the university will act swiftly and decisively against any threats to student or staff safety and welfare, in line with our policies and our mission.

In the wake of the horrifying acts of terrorism and the devastating escalation of violence in Israel and Gaza, I have requested that our staff monitor closely for any signs of harassment or threats towards students and staff across our campuses. I am pleased to note that there have been no reports of any such harassment or threats to date, however we remain vigilant and are continuing to monitor the situation.

A range of measures and support services is in place to ensure students can seek immediate assistance on each of our campuses and can report behaviour that they have experienced or witnessed that threatens the safety and welfare of members of our community.

ACU operates a 24-hour mental health support service for students, a counselling service for students, and an employee assistance program for staff. Each of these services is free and confidential.

We provide a student safety network that comprises academic and professional staff who are trained in trauma-informed response and available to respond students who have experienced or witnessed harassment or discrimination, with a focus on victim-survivors of sexual harm. Our Ally network is also a team of trained staff who are dedicated to promoting equality and inclusion for staff and students who identify as LGBTIQ+.

We have communicated to all students and staff about the most recent events in Israel and Gaza to ensure that our entire community feels supported during this difficult time and to reinforce the range of services available to them.

The university remains steadfast in its commitment to open discourse, education, partnership, and harmony.

Your sincerely

Dear Minister,

Thank you for your interest in student and staff safety on university campuses in the wake of the attack by Hamas on Israel.

I agree that staff and student safety is our highest priority and the University looks forward to engaging with the Working Group you have established to provide advice on these matters.

In relation to specific measures in place to support staff and students in relation to the current Israel conflict, I am pleased to advise that ANU has communicated to the University community (staff and students) about the need for respectful conduct via the weekly newsletter, OnCampus and implemented the following:

For students:

- Regular meetings with student representatives to reinforce the University's commitment to an environment free from bullying, harassment, racism or intimidation.
- Regular communication through multiple channels advising of support options available.
- Expanded operating hours at the ANU Health and Wellbeing Centre.
- A meeting of the Jewish Students' Association was relocated to a more secure location and provided with additional security.

For staff:

- Counselling support is available for staff through the on-campus Advisor to Staff and through two externally-engaged Employee Assistance Providers, Assure and Relationships Australia.
- Any employee experiencing racism, discrimination, harassment or sexual harassment can approach the Staff Respect Consultant. This position uses trauma-informed, person-centred practices to listen to staff and provide personalised options to connect to support services such as counselling or Human Resources teams.
- Our Human Resources teams can also work with staff experiencing conflict, harassment or discrimination. These teams can introduce a number of support measures from facilitated discussions through to safety measures.
- Our Diversity and Inclusion staff also implement proactive initiatives that build education, respect and collaboration in the workplace.

The University has also increased the general security presence around campus.

I hope this information is helpful to you. If your office would like further information on how ANU is supporting our community please contact the ANU Office of Commonwealth and Government Relations (government@anu.edu.au).

Yours sincerely,

Re: Student and Staff Safety on University Campuses

Dear Minister Clare

Thank you for the opportunity to articulate Avondale University's unwavering commitment to the priority of student and staff safety. This commitment applies at all times and it is reinforced during periods of heightened risk, such as that arising from the current Middle East conflict and its ramifications for communities around the world.

As a faith-based university we share your deep concern about incidents of antisemitism, Islamophobia and all related forms of racism, harassment, discrimination and intimidation, wherever they may occur. The measures in place at Avondale University reflect these values and the priority we attach to providing a safe and welcoming environment for students and staff from all backgrounds.

Measures in place fall into three categories:

- a. policy framework and practical steps to address priorities of safety and wellbeing;
- b. student and staff wellbeing and chaplaincy support; and
- c. additional measures during times of crisis or heightened risk.

a. Policy framework and practical steps to address priorities of safety and wellbeing

1. Avondale University has a number of relevant policies and procedures encompassing safety and respect among students and staff. One of our most significant documents is the Student Charter which is a statement of our commitment to "providing a welcoming, supportive and safe environment" equitably to all students. It also delineates students' obligations and responsibilities in relation to upholding Avondale's policies, maintaining ethical conduct, and "treat[ing] others with fairness, respect, honesty and courtesy,... [by] act[ing] in a manner which reflects Avondale's values".

Indicative of our zero-tolerance approach to all forms of racism, the Student Charter requires students to:

...not act in a manner that is, or may reasonably be perceived as being, threatening, harassing, bullying, discriminatory, victimising, vilifying, defamatory, intimidating or sexually exploitative; or likely to adversely affect the safety, health, wellbeing or reputation of others.

Avondale University Ltd ACN: 108 186 401 ABN 53 108 186 401

A member of the worldwide Adventist system of universities and colleges

2. Avondale's Bullying, Harassment & Discrimination Policy & Procedures \(Staff & Students\) includes a specific section on racial harassment. Similarly the Code of Conduct \(Staff\) outlines behavioural expectations of all staff, including in relation to all forms of discrimination.
3. In the case of inappropriate student conduct, the Student Misconduct Policy \(non-academic\) and the Student Misconduct Procedure provide a framework for a fair and equitable process for this to be addressed in a timely and responsive manner. Likewise, the Complaint Resolution Policy & Procedure is followed to respond quickly and fairly to any complaint. All policies make provision for expedited response during times of crisis.
4. As part of our ongoing commitment to maintain a high level of on-campus safety for all students and staff, additional investment has been made in security cameras, immediate repairs to high-risk maintenance issues, and increased 24/7 contracted security coverage. Avondale University has worked with the University of Newcastle Security Team to benchmark additional appropriate measures and to ensure best practice in this regard, particularly in residential halls.
5. A Critical Incident Management Policy & Procedure, with the highest level of Executive accountability, applies in the case of disruptive or critical incidents on campus or online.
6. Immediate practical steps available to students, beyond the services outlined below, include an easily accessible Complaints and Feedback webpage where students may lodge a complaint for attention.

b. Student and staff wellbeing and chaplaincy support

1. Avondale has a comprehensive wellbeing and chaplaincy support program, including free and confidential counselling and 24/7 emergency support access, an equity office for advocacy, pathways to request academic special consideration, if needed, and chaplains and a pastoral team who are always on call. Students and staff are encouraged to seek support and to report any matters of concern in relation to safety or wellbeing.
2. Weekly student and staff 'check-ins' are scheduled during semester. These include Wednesday lunchtime events, Friday evening devotional times, daily student residential community gatherings and daily staff department devotional times when students and staff are able to connect with peers, to share concerns and to draw on the resources of a faith community. These regular opportunities for communication provide added support during times of stress.
3. Wellbeing in the curriculum: Avondale University has extensive research and teaching expertise in the field of wellbeing. This translates into practical implementation of a wellbeing subject of study. In the co-curriculum context, the University offers the Avondale Character Experience (ACE) Lab where first year students engage in co-curricular resilience and character-building experiences. These educational and co-curricular opportunities provide a forum for students to raise concerns about safety or ways to address unacceptable behaviour should the need arise.

c. Additional measures during times of crisis or heightened risk

Within the framework outlined above, we have taken the following steps to support our university community in the wake of the Middle East crisis, noting also the need to support our students and staff following The Voice Referendum outcome and in the context of various other stressors they may be experiencing at present.

1. The Vice-Chancellor has enacted a communication and action plan including: student and staff emails reminding the University community of support resources available; discussion with Executive, Leadership Group and University Life Committee about steps in place to address potential heightened safety- and wellbeing-related risks, forums for staff and student sharing of concerns and prayer opportunities for students and staff.
2. The Vice-Chancellor and Chief Student and Engagement Officer have:
 - i. met with the Student President to discuss immediate student support needs and concerns and to ensure that student leaders have access to relevant information about the potential risks, available resources and suitable responses should issues arise;
 - ii. initiated a Student Town Hall and other forms of in-person and online communication to remind students of support resources available and to provide them with opportunities to voice concerns and to connect with peers and senior University leaders;
 - iii. met with the University Chaplain to discuss strategies for supporting students and staff immediately, including scheduling opportunities for communal prayer for peace and reconciliation.
3. Attention is being given to ensure that all available resources are easily accessible on the website and around campus, that faculty and staff are enabled to identify and appropriately refer distressed students,

In the coming weeks, we will continue to monitor student and staff wellbeing, along with that of our wider community, given the close connections among our University and community members.

Again, thank you for the opportunity to outline these measures of support for our students, staff and the communities they represent. You can be assured that Avondale University shares your deep commitment to the safety of students and staff across university campuses.

Yours sincerely

VIA EMAIL ONLY

Dear Minister Clare,

Thank you for your correspondence about the safety of staff and students on campuses in Australia following the conflict in the Middle East. The ongoing conflict is indeed concerning, as is the potential for elements of this conflict to spill into Australia with acts of harassment and violence particularly towards Muslim and Jewish people.

As an organisation, we have considered this issue and believe that our risk profile in regards to this issue is low. We have based this assessment the broader social environment in the Northern Territory, the locations we deliver training, our student cohort and size as well as our staff profile.

In making this assessment I would note that in the Northern Territory, there is a very small Jewish population and a small Muslim population¹ (Australia Bureau of Statistics, 2022). These small populations have limited the potential for conflict more broadly within the Northern Territory.

In terms of our organisation, you may be aware that the Batchelor Institute of Indigenous Tertiary Education (Batchelor Institute) was established by the Batchelor Institute of Indigenous Tertiary Education Act 1999 to be:

...an educational institution for the tertiary education of indigenous people of Australia and the provision of other educational and training programs and courses

Therefore, the Institute focuses on:

- Providing tertiary education relevant to the needs of Australian First Nations peoples, and
- Facilitating, encouraging and improving study and research in areas relevant to its student cohort, who are principally of First Nations background.

With very few exceptions, Batchelor Institute students are First Nations people and Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people have historically practiced First Nations spirituality and/or a Christian faith. While there are Muslim and Jewish First Nations Australians – potentially more so in locations where there is a larger Jewish or Muslim community – we are not aware of any Jewish or Muslim students in our student cohort. There are a small number of Muslim staff – and to the best of our knowledge no Jewish staff – employed by Batchelor Institute. Thus, we believe that our student and staff profiles limit the potential for internal conflict within the organisation.

In terms of what we have in place to protect staff and students, I note that both are subject to a Staff Code of Conduct and a Student Code of Conduct respectively. Under the Student Code of Conduct, students are expected to act at all times in a way that respects the rights, privileges, and well-being of others. Should a student breach this they would be subject to sanctions. I further note that under the Staff Code of Conduct all staff must observe Australian and Northern Territory laws (and the law of the jurisdiction they are in should they be working overseas). Our staff have a duty of care to colleagues, students, and visitors and are expected to be impartial, culturally aware and sensitive, courteous, conscientious, prompt, and respectful in the performance of their duties and obligations to Batchelor Institute and the community, and to perform their duties and obligations to Batchelor Institute, students and community in a way which:

- respects the rights, privileges, and well-being of others;

¹ Based on 2021 Census estimated at 0.07% and 1.44% respectively of Northern Territory population.

- does not impinge on the reasonable freedom of other persons to pursue their studies, research, duties or lawful activities in Batchelor Institute or Batchelor Institute facilities, or to participate in the life of Batchelor Institute; and
- avoids unlawful discrimination on grounds of gender, sexual orientation, race, disability, cultural background, religion, marital status, age or political conviction.

Again, should staff breach the Staff Code of Conduct they would be subject to disciplinary action.

I would also note that – unlike other universities who have campuses in city areas – our main campuses in Batchelor (approximately 100 kilometres to the South of Darwin) and Alice Springs are not in locations readily accessed by the public.

Yours sincerely,

David Cusack

Dear Minister,

Thank you for your correspondence dated 11th October 2023, expressing concern over the safety and wellbeing of our students and staff amidst the challenging geopolitical events unfolding overseas, notably the recent violent occurrences between Hamas and Israel. At Bond University, we share your sentiment that the safety and emotional welfare of our community members are paramount.

Strategies currently in place at Bond University, along with the additional measures we are contemplating to further ensure a safe and inclusive environment on our campuses are provided below.

We have rigorous security protocols and a team that continuously monitors the university premises. Bond Security staff are available and contactable on campus 24/7, giving students, staff, and the community access to round-the-clock reassurance of their safety. We have recently reviewed crisis management strategies and protocols in place. All security staff have been briefed regarding the possibility of student unrest on campus.

At Bond University, we advocate for, and nurture a variety of perspectives through awareness programs that champion diversity and foster a unified and harmonious environment among students and staff. We provide regular training for students and staff on inclusivity, diversity, and the importance of a cohesive environment. Additionally, we have robust policies which ensure that students are not subjected to behaviours or practices that may constitute discrimination, bullying or harassment.

Bond University has comprehensive student success and wellbeing initiatives which include:

- Counselling and psychological services which provide a confidential space for students to discuss any concerns or challenges they may be experiencing. The service is also available for staff.
- Student Wellbeing Support Advisors who act as student supporters in wellbeing to connect students to the right support tools.
- Bond Care: For students who are concerned about themselves or their peer's physical or mental wellbeing. Staff can also submit a referral for concerns about a student's academic, physical, or mental wellbeing.

The University has already distributed correspondence to all students and staff, reminding them of the available support services and advocating for understanding tolerance among all community members, with the intention of mitigating any divisive narratives. Electronic boards across the university campus have been updated with reminders about support services available.

In closing, we remain vigilant in tracking the unfolding events and assessing their implications for our university community. Our unwavering dedication remains firm in maintaining Bond University as a sanctuary, ensuring safety, inclusivity, and respect for every member of our staff and student body.

Yours sincerely,

Dear ~~Minister Clare~~,

RE: STUDENT AND STAFF SAFETY ON CAMPUSES

Thank you for your letter of 11 October 2023 seeking my advice about measures to ensure student and staff safety in the wake of the Hamas attack on Israel and ensuing events. I share your concerns about these horrific events in Israel and also the priority to ensure Australian university campuses are a safe place for all students.

Several months ago, after receiving the report from the Australasian Union of Jewish Students and the Zionist Federation of Australia about antisemitism on Australian university campuses, CDU undertook a review of any instances of antisemitism reported on campus, with a focus on students. I can advise that since 2021 there have been no recorded instances of antisemitism against students.

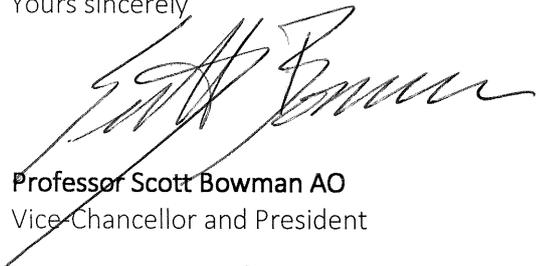

For context, CDU has very few, if any, domestic students who identify as Jewish and there is currently one international student from Israel. CDU does not have a Jewish student group and we did not have any respondents to the 2023 Jewish University Experience Survey. This is reflective more broadly of the Northern Territory's (NT) population, with just 163 NT respondents in the 2021 Census whose religious identification was Jewish.

In terms of staff safety, CDU has communicated directly with all staff over the past week, including to reiterate that there is no tolerance for antisemitism, or any other form of racism, harassment or discrimination at CDU. We also have support services available for staff who are impacted.

We will continue to monitor the situation closely and make sure we are supporting students and staff impacted by these events.

Thank you again for your leadership on this important issue for Australian universities.

Yours sincerely

Dear Minister

Student and staff safety on university campuses

I write in response to your correspondence dated 11 October 2023, in which you seek urgent advice regarding student and staff safety on university campuses in the wake of the attack by Hamas on Israel.

As a university community, we are committed to creating a culture at Charles Sturt University that provides dignity and respect to all students and staff, encourages the sharing of ideas and perspectives, values differences, and takes active steps to eliminate barriers that impede progress toward our commitment to diversity and inclusion.

While the population of Jewish students at Charles Sturt is small, the safety and well-being of our students and staff are an important and ongoing priority for the University.

Charles Sturt has a range of mechanisms in place for protecting and supporting students from a range of cultural backgrounds who may be experiencing challenges. The current mechanisms in place include:

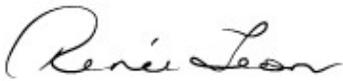

- Education and awareness initiatives specifically courses, workshops, and seminars that educate students about the history of discrimination its manifestations, and its impact.
- Clear policies that clearly communicate expectations of behaviour, and codes of conduct, that explicitly condemn discrimination and outline consequences for individuals or groups engaging in discriminatory behaviour.
- Well-established accessible and confidential reporting mechanisms for incidents of any form of discrimination to facilitate confidential investigations.
- A range of support services to provide networks for disadvantaged student groups, such as culturally sensitive counselling services and support groups.
- Professional development programs for academics, professional staff, student leaders, and students to recognise, and report, incidences of discrimination within the university setting.
- Systematic reviews of curricula to ensure course content and learning materials accurately reflect disadvantaged groups' history, culture, and contributions to Australian and global societies.

The university is also committed to providing a culturally safe workplace for our staff including ongoing professional development focussed on raising awareness of other cultures and respect for all people, the implementation of the First Nations strategy, targeted career progression and culturally relevant specialist support services.

More broadly, the policies and procedures of the university, including the staff code of conduct, clearly outline expectations for staff to engage in respectful two-way communication to facilitate the sharing of knowledge to create an environment within the university that values all contributions.

Please do not hesitate to contact me should you require further information.

Yours sincerely

Dear Minister, Jason

Thank you for your correspondence dated 11 October in relation to the safety of staff and students on university campuses. Your commitment to safeguarding the welfare of university students and staff resonates deeply with the overarching principles and values that guide CQUniversity's mission.

We are resolute in our determination to ensure our university campuses, both physical and digital, are safe and inclusive environments for all who engage with our university community.

At CQUniversity, we uphold a zero-tolerance policy regarding matters of racism, harassment, discrimination, intimidation, bullying, racial vilification, or any other conduct that may impact the safety of our university community. To reinforce this commitment, we have developed comprehensive and dedicated policies for both students and staff.

These policies not only define the baseline expectations for behaviour at our university, emphasising the paramount importance of treating all individuals with respect and avoiding any actions that may cause offense, embarrassment, intimidation, or fear, but they also unequivocally outline that any instance of racism, harassment, discrimination, intimidation or bullying behaviours will be deemed as misconduct or, serious misconduct. Furthermore, these policies detail the corresponding consequences for substantiated cases of misconduct and serious misconduct.

At CQUniversity, we ensure that both our students and staff are well-informed of the procedures for reporting any form of misconduct and provide them with multiple reporting channels, to ensure a seamless, safe and confidential process.

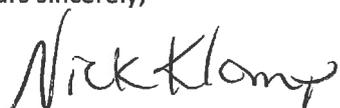

This commitment to safety in our policies extends to our staff members, who are covered by a specific policy delineating the University's firm position against any manifestation of harassment, bullying, or discrimination, including racial discrimination and vilification. This specific policy outlines the disciplinary measures for such behaviours under the University's Enterprise Agreement.

To date, I can confirm our institution has not received any allegations of antisemitism or Islamophobia within our university community, but I can assure you any instances of this behaviour would not be tolerated at our university.

Given our existing strong policies and procedures that uphold our zero-tolerance approach, at this time, we have no current plans to introduce additional measures. CQUniversity has actively extended its support to both staff and students affected by the ongoing conflict in Israel and will continue to do so.

Once again, we extend our gratitude for your support in ensuring the safety and security of staff and students at university campuses across Australia. In the meantime, please feel free to contact me directly or reach out to the Director of my office, Mel Misztal, at 0419 428 421 or m.misztal@cqu.edu.au, if you would like to discuss this matter further.

Dear Minister

REF: MC23-004764

Thank you for your letter of 11 October 2023, regarding the measures Curtin currently has in place to help ensure that antisemitism, Islamophobia and any other form of racism, harassment, discrimination or intimidation do not threaten the safety of students and staff.

At Curtin, there is nothing more important than the safety of staff and students. We are a values based institution with a deep commitment to social good, and dedicated to building an inclusive community founded on the free and respectful exchange of ideas. Our staff and students have worked hard to create and maintain a culture of respect at Curtin through programs and initiatives such as Respect Now Always, Athena Swan and the Respectful Relationships training program.

We have a range of faith services and facilities available on and around campus, including visiting chaplains, multi-faith rooms, student clubs and societies, and religious events for a range of faiths and denominations.

The University is also well served by a framework of policies and procedures which together help to safeguard members of the Curtin community and those engaging with it, from instances of racist behaviour or hate speech. This framework addresses discrimination, vilification, victimisation, bullying and harassment on grounds specified under relevant state and federal anti-discrimination, workplace, and work health and safety legislation.

Two of the key policies and procedures are the Discrimination and Harassment Prevention Procedures and Diversity and Equity Policy. Other procedures that contribute to a positive culture are our Diversity in the Workplace Procedures and the Inclusive Language Procedures. Under our Academic Freedom and Freedom of Speech Policy the freedom of lawful speech of staff, students and visitors is treated as a paramount value, subject to reasonable and proportionate regulation of conduct to enable the University to give effect to its Values, Code of Conduct, and legal duties – including its duty to foster the wellbeing of students and staff.

The University Code of Conduct also provides valuable safeguards in relation to staff behaviour, given that a breach of the Code may constitute misconduct under the Enterprise Agreement, as reflected in the following elements:

- 2.8: Value difference, diversity, opinions, choices and approaches of others, and practise tolerance and sensitivity in your interactions, particularly in relation to personal beliefs, religions and cultural values.
- 2.9: Not engage in or condone offensive, unwelcome, degrading or humiliating behaviour, actions or comments.
- 2.10: Not harass, bully, unlawfully discriminate against or threaten others, or engage in any form of physical violence, menacing or stalking behaviour, and do all that is reasonable to prevent such behaviour.
- 2.11: Ensure that your communications are always respectful, professional and lawful, and do not include false, obscene, threatening, harassing, discriminatory or hateful comments to or about the University or others.

In relation to students, the Student Charter, developed in partnership between the Student Guild and the University, sets out clear expectations and responsibilities for both the University and students in relation to these issues, including:

- Provide a study environment free from unlawful discrimination, bullying or harassment.
- Provide a safe environment for study, research and other university related activities and to observe all relevant legislation.
- Embrace and recognise diversity.
- Behave in an appropriate manner within the learning environment, showing respect for both staff and fellow students at all times.

In addition, our Land and Traffic By-Laws provide important guidelines, including the prohibition on the writing, printing, distribution or publication of indecent or obscene words, pictures or representations.

However, if despite this framework of safeguards, an instance of racist behaviour or hate speech by a student does occur, then it can be addressed under Statute 10: Student Discipline of the General Misconduct Rules. Issues can also be managed in accordance with our Complaints Procedures.

We are confident that we have given the noted matters careful consideration as a part of our broad and vigorous stance against racism in all its forms.

Dear Minister,

Student and Staff Safety on University Campuses

Thank you for your correspondence received by my office on 11 October 2023. I share your concerns and appreciate the urgency of our response; it is vital that our universities are open, tolerant and supportive for our students, staff and the wider community.

At Deakin we place a high priority on ensuring a connected, safe, inclusive and respectful work and study environment. We set strong standards of behaviour and commit to actively challenging views that condone violence, disrespect, power imbalances and inequality. These values and commitment are reflected in our Codes of Conduct for staff and students and our clear policies and processes through which students may raise a concern or complaint about any aspect of their experience at Deakin or report an alleged breach of the Student Code of Conduct. For students lodging a complaint, external review of their complaint outcome is available through the Victorian Ombudsman or the Victorian Equal Opportunity and Human Rights Commission.

Deakin also appreciates that it can be difficult for students to come forward to raise a concern or complaint (as noted in the findings from the Zionist Federation of Australia's student survey). The following support services are available to all students at Deakin:

- Harassment and Discrimination Contact Officers \(HDCOs\). HDCOs are volunteers, trained to provide confidential information and support to staff and students with concerns relating to discrimination, harassment, bullying, vilification, and victimisation.
- Safer Community. Safer Community is a free and confidential service for staff and students experiencing threatening or inappropriate behaviour. The Safer Community team is staffed by professionals with expertise in psychology, counselling, criminology and social work. The team regularly work with staff and students to develop personalised safety plans.
- Deakin University Student Association \(DUSA\) Advocacy and Support Service. DUSA Advocates provide qualified, experienced and confidential advice and support regarding academic matters.
- Multifaith Chaplaincy. The role of multi-faith Chaplains includes provision of spiritual and personal advice, counsel, support and referrals. Multi-faith Chaplains are volunteer positions within the University and are accredited by the Council for Chaplaincies in Tertiary Institutions (CCTI). Rabbi Bochi Broh is available to support the Jewish community at Deakin.

The above applies to all students but in acknowledging the specific and distinctive challenge of antisemitism, Deakin University Council resolved that the Deakin Student and Staff Codes of Conduct and relevant policies and procedures provide a robust platform to promote and support high standards of staff and student conduct and prevent discrimination and vilification. Staff responsible for these policies and procedures have been provided with copies of the IHRA document and will ensure that their staff have close regard to this documentation when addressing antisemitism, as well as to freedom of expression in universities so that they may continue to be places where important debates about issues can take place. Staff have also been instructed to report any cases arising, actions taken and issues of concern so that continuous improvement and management can occur.

In response to recent incidents, Deakin has reached out to cohorts of international students who are directly impacted and will continue to provide personalised support where appropriate. In addition, Deakin has published a blog post on our Deakin Life: Student News and Insights page to remind students of support services available.

Personally, the writings of Karl Popper have influenced me greatly and his defence of Open Society could not be more relevant to the challenges we are facing now - “We should therefore claim, in the name of tolerance, the right not to tolerate the intolerant. We should claim that any movement preaching intolerance places itself outside the law, and we should consider incitement to intolerance and persecution as criminal, in the same way as we should consider incitement to murder, or to kidnapping, or to the revival of the slave trade, as criminal.”

I look forward to ongoing engagement with the Working Group to ensure our students and staff are afforded a safe, inclusive, tolerant and respectful work and study environment.

Best wishes,

Dear Minister Sasa

Thank you for your letter of 11 October 2023 regarding the safety of students and staff at Edith Cowan University (ECU) in the wake of violence in the Middle East.

Edith Cowan University is committed to maintaining a work and learning environment free from harassment, discrimination and bullying and does not tolerate any form of harassment, discrimination or bullying of any kind.

As the situation is escalating in the Middle East, we are continuing to monitor our staff and student population, ready to intervene if required. I am pleased to report that, to date, our campuses remain calm and respectful.

ECU has a range of policies and procedures in place to combat discrimination, harassment and bullying which are actively communicated and readily accessible to our campus community.

This policy suite seeks to minimise the risk of inappropriate and unlawful behaviours such as harassment, discrimination and assault (including racial harassment, racial vilification, sexual harassment, sexual assault and other forms of violence and victimisation). This approach is in line with ECU's duty of care and legislative obligations including, importantly, our obligations under the Higher Education Standards Framework (Threshold Standards) and relevant Commonwealth and State discrimination legislation.

Our Policies include:

- Prevention of Harassment, Bullying, Discrimination and Violence Policy;
- ECU Student Code of Conduct;
- ECU Staff Code of Conduct;
- Fitness to Study Policy
- Social Media Policy;
- Health and Safety Policy
- Sexual Harm Policy (Sexual Assault and Sexual Harassment); and
- General Misconduct (Students) Rules.

Specifically, our Prevention of Harassment, Bullying, Discrimination, and Violence Policy is designed to prevent and respond to incidents of harassment, bullying, discrimination, and violence on campus, ensuring that our community is respectful and safe.

ECU Student and Staff Code of Conduct

Our Codes of Conduct are based on our core values of Integrity, Respect, Rational Enquiry, Personal Excellence and Courage. These values serve as the foundation for our expectations of student and staff behaviour.

Support Services

We maintain a dedicated Student Success Team that proactively identifies and reaches out to students who may be individually affected by global events like the Middle East conflict. These students are offered support services to address their specific needs, which may include free and confidential counselling, health services, and advice.

Safe Reporting Mechanisms

We prioritise student and staff safety and have established confidential reporting mechanisms to ensure students and staff feel comfortable coming forward if they feel their safety is threatened in any way. We encourage open communication and provide avenues for reporting discrimination and persecution.

Communication and Awareness

Our Current Students Communications Team and Access and Inclusion Teams actively engage students through social media and campus-based campaigns. These campaigns promote safety on campus and inclusive practices, aiming to reduce incidents and foster a harmonious and welcoming environment.

Individual Support

We proactively support students who are distressed by global events. Our goal is to provide individualised assistance to help them overcome challenges and continue their academic journey. Staff have ECU's Employee Assistance Program that is available 24/7 if they or their immediate family need support.

Peer Support Teams

Our Peer Support Teams are trained as first responders to address student concerns promptly. They are well-versed in how to refer students to relevant services, including security, counselling, student advice, and health services.

It is our collective effort to ensure that our university community remains a harmonious and safe environment for all. We are committed to continuously improving our policies and services to address evolving challenges and to create an environment that fosters understanding, respect, and inclusivity.

We appreciate your interest in this matter and your support in achieving these goals. If you have any further questions or require additional information, please feel free to contact me directly.

Yours sincerely

Dear Minister Clare,

Thank you for your letter to our Vice Chancellor and President, Professor Duncan Bentley dated 11 October 2023. Your enquiry has been passed on to me for response.

At Federation University, we recognise and acknowledge the trauma and pain that the conflict in Israeli and Palestinian territories may be causing some of our students and staff – especially those from or with family in the region.

Federation University has strong policies, procedures, and programs in place to ensure the safety of students and staff in an environment that actively embraces and promotes diversity. We are committed to working collaboratively with our community to promote an environment which reflects and values the social and cultural diversity within our community.

Measures to prevent bullying, intimidation, harassment and unlawful discrimination feature prominently throughout our student and staff community. Our policies and procedures include our 'Equal Opportunity and Valuing Diversity Guidelines' for students and staff, and our newly developed 'Discrimination Complaints (Students) Procedure' that recognises and acknowledges the need to handle student complaints in relation to direct and/or indirect discrimination differently to general complaints, and with the support of our Student Equity and Safer Campuses team.

In addition to the above, we are in the process of releasing our 'Respectful and Inclusive Communities Action Plan 2024 -2026' (RICAP). The RICAP is a comprehensive university-wide strategy aimed at realising our goal to embody and exemplify the principles of respect, inclusion, belonging, equality, and responsibility at all times.

This Plan recognises that as a university, we are equally motivated to continue cultivating an environment for our people, which values and protects the social and cultural diversity within the University and the communities we serve.

Our security program systematically identifies and controls risks associated with likely perpetrators of violence both within the University Community and outside, such as extremist groups. The University is connected with tertiary education security networks and external agencies, which share relevant intelligence. We will pay special attention to developments within Australia associated with the situation in the Middle East.

Please do not hesitate to contact me if you require any further information.

Dear Minister Clare

I am writing in response to your correspondence to address the important matter of ensuring the safety of our staff and students on campus in the wake of the attack by Hamas on Israel.

There is nothing more important to us at Flinders University than ensuring a safe and secure environment for all members of our community. We are committed to providing a learning and working environment where individuals can thrive and achieve their full potential. This commitment extends to the physical safety and mental wellbeing of our staff and students.

In response to the sudden attack by Hamas on Israel, and in light of our dedication to safety, we immediately suspended staff and student travel to Israel and the occupied Palestinian Territories for university-related activities. The University has also confirmed that no staff members are travelling to the specified region at this time.

In an abundance of caution, we have also increased security personnel during large campus events and gatherings to provide immediate assistance if needed.

These activities are in addition to a broad range of measures that Flinders University prioritises as a matter of course, including:

- Security presence: the University maintains a 24/7 onsite security presence. Information on how to contact security is widely available to students, including on their student cards.
- Surveillance systems: our campus is equipped with CCTV surveillance systems that help monitor activities and provide an additional layer of security.
- Emergency response plans: Flinders University has comprehensive emergency response plans in place to address a variety of situations, ensuring a swift and effective response to any safety concerns.
- Student and staff education: we prioritise educating our community on safety procedures, emergency protocols, and resources available to them in case of any safety-related incidents.
- Student support services: Flinders endeavours to create an environment in which all students are treated with care and compassion. A dedicated Student Equal Opportunity Advisor, together with our Health, Counselling and Disability Service is available to provide support for any student who believes they are experiencing racism, harassment, discrimination, or intimidation. Depending on the concern, the University also provides several cohort specific support units, such as International Student Services and Indigenous Student Services, that can assist or refer students as needed.

- Staff support services: all University staff and their families have access to the University's Employee Assistance program, including services dedicated to grief and trauma.
- Messaging controls: the erection of any posters or messaging on campus is controlled via the University By-Laws and restricted to message boards that are monitored. Any posters erected on non-formal message boards are immediately removed (irrespective of content) and 'guerrilla' messaging through chalk on ground, etc. is also banned and removed immediately by our on-campus cleaning teams.
- Collaboration with law enforcement: we maintain a close working relationship with local law enforcement in South Australia and Northern Territory to ensure a coordinated response to any physical threats.

I would like to reassure you that we take the safety and security of our staff and students very seriously, and we continually assess and improve our security measures to adapt to evolving circumstances.

Flinders University remains dedicated to fostering an environment where education and research can flourish without compromising safety.

To this end, I was pleased to provide an overview of all the University's initiatives to the Working Group advising Education Ministers last week and congratulate the Federal Government on taking swift action in response to the recommendation of the Universities Accord Interim Report on university governance.

If there is anything further Flinders University can do to share our best practice and assist the Working Group in its activities, we would be only too happy to assist.

We appreciate your concern and will continue to keep you updated on our ongoing efforts to maintain a secure and conducive atmosphere for learning and innovation.

Yours sincerely

Dear Minister

Thank you for your letter of 11 October regarding the safety of our students and the situation in the Middle East.

Like you, I have been horrified by the news coming out of the Middle East and some of the scenes that we have seen here in Australia. I also recognise that this has been a fraught time for many staff and students including Indigenous people impacted by racism around the Voice debate and those with family or friends in places including Israel and Gaza but also Afghanistan, Myanmar and other conflict zones.

This week, I sent out an email to staff and another similar email to students, expressing my sympathy for those impacted by national and international events and condemning racism in all its forms, including anti-Semitism and attacks on Indigenous people. I have reminded all the members of our community of the availability of counselling services and arrangements for extensions of assessment for students who have been impacted by recent events. We have also provided students with information about actions to take if they feel unsafe on campus and where to go for further help. We have announced that we will soon commence a process around further steps to create campuses where all students and staff feel welcome and included regardless of their race, culture or religion. We have separately reached out to the Jewish Students Association.

These steps are in addition to the support already provided to domestic and international students through our usual support services. Our international student advisers are conscious of the impact of global events on international students and proactively reach out to those who might be impacted.

We recognise the importance of ensuring that our campuses are safe places for every member of our community and will certainly work with other universities to see if there are additional steps that might be appropriate at Griffith.

Thank you for your concern for our students.

Dear Minister

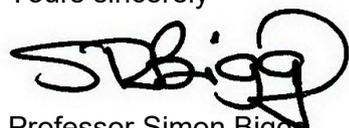

In response to your letter of 11 October regarding James Cook University's measures to safeguard our students against anti-semitism, Islamophobia and other forms of discrimination or intimidation as a result of the conflict in the Middle East, I advise that there is currently:

- one student from Israel studying at our campuses in Australia;
- no students from Palestine, Lebanon or Syria;
- policies in place to ensure the University deems unacceptable, and provides processes for redress on, any discrimination, hate speech, or vilification which include the:
 - Student Code of Conduct
 - Bullying, Discrimination, Harassment and Sexual Misconduct Policy
 - Academic Freedom and Freedom of Speech Policy
 - Visiting Speaker and Event Policy
- a 24hr 7 day a week Security presence on Campus including mobile patrolling; and
- actively monitoring media and communication channels for any security or safety concerns;
- undertaking regular threat and security assessments as part of the University's Incident Management policies and procedures and Behaviour Risk Group considerations.

The University has also ceased any travel by staff or students to Israel.

JCU is saddened by the loss of life occurring in Israel and Gaza, and supports to our staff and students are being provided where relevant.

Dear Minister,

Thank you for your letter of 11 October 2023 about student and staff safety on university campuses in the wake of the Hamas-Israel conflict.

I assure you that La Trobe University has zero tolerance for all forms of racism, including antisemitism and Islamophobia. In recent days, we have communicated with all La Trobe students and staff to reinforce our commitment to ensuring that every member of our community feels safe and included and to publicise the support available to students and staff who experience racism or any form of harassment on campus. While our commitment and support apply to all forms of racism and harassment, we are expressly committed to ensuring that our Jewish and Islamic students and staff are supported and feel safe on our campuses.

The University is aware that there has been an increase in reports of antisemitism and racism within the community in recent days. We are offering dedicated support to all students and staff affected by the current Hamas-Israel conflict, which is outlined below. This week, we have issued communications to students and staff stating that we recognise the Hamas-Israel conflict is especially distressing for members of our community who have family members and friends in, or cultural or other ties to, the region, and to extend to them our solidarity and support.

As requested in your letter, information is provided below about measures in place at La Trobe University to help ensure that antisemitism, Islamophobia, and any other forms of racism, harassment, discrimination, or intimidation do not threaten the safety of students and staff. The information provided focuses on measures being taken to ensure student and staff safety in the current circumstances, however advice on reporting and support of racism and sexual harm and harassment more generally is also provided. Should you wish to receive further detail on any of our policies or support programs, we would be pleased to provide it.

Reporting incidents of racism

We have communicated with our entire university community this week about our zero tolerance of racism, the process for reporting racism, and supports available to those who experience it. We also periodically communicate this information during the course of every year. We have asked students and staff who witness any antisemitic, racist, or inappropriate behaviour to report it to the University's confidential Safer Community service. We have also promoted to our community the working definition of antisemitism that has recently been adopted at La Trobe, and advised students and staff that we are reviewing and responding to all allegations and concerns of antisemitic behaviour in light of this new definition.

Additionally, all reports of racist behaviour more generally at the University are being investigated and responded to as a matter of priority. We have taken, and will continue to take, action to ensure debate continues in a manner that aligns with our policies regarding discrimination, free speech and academic freedom. As well as addressing racism, the University has in place robust policies and procedures for reporting and prevention of other kinds of inappropriate behaviour, including sexual harm, harassment, and discrimination.

The University also acknowledges that there may be barriers to reporting for students and staff. Given this, we have expanded the remit of our student-facing Safer Community service to also support staff. This means that we can provide an independent, victim-centred reporting and investigation process that helps to ensure that our University community is provided with responsive and victim-centered support. We are also working with students and staff to better understand the barriers to reporting and how we can improve communications about our services and support.

Support for students affected by Hamas-Israel conflict

The University has communicated with students affected by the Hamas-Israel conflict and we are offering a range of services and supports including special consideration for upcoming assessments and exams. We are also offering students wellbeing support and counselling services through the University's Student Health, Wellbeing, and Inclusion team. Our Student Wellbeing Service is prioritising support for students affected by the conflict. We have encouraged affected students to contact the service for any support they may need at this time and have made accessing the service as simple as possible by providing a simple online form.

The University has requested all academic staff who receive requests from students for support to direct them to apply for special consideration and inform them that their request will be approved. We have also asked academic staff to make appropriate alternative arrangements for their students while the central administration team processes applications as a matter of priority. Additionally, we have advised affected research students to contact the University's Graduate Research School to discuss the options available to them should they require support at this time.

Addressing racism

As noted above, La Trobe University is committed to creating a safe and inclusive environment for all students, staff, and community members that are part of our campuses. We have recently launched our Indigenous Strategy 2023-2030 that outlines an ambitious approach to systematically improve the experience of Indigenous students and staff and create a culturally safe environment on all our campuses.

We are currently developing the University's inaugural Anti-Racism Action Plan, which is being developed in partnership with students and staff from culturally and linguistically diverse communities. The Action Plan will be finalised in 2024, however we are already implementing a number of initiatives to improve safety at the University. Some of the key initiatives we have implemented recently include:

- Adoption of the International Holocaust Remembrance Alliance (IHRA) definition of antisemitism (during development and implementation of the Anti-Racism Action Plan, we will explore other definitions)
- Expansion of the University's Safer Community Service to provide a single point of reporting for all issues of racism
- Initiatives developed in response to conflicts in the Ukraine and the Middle East, and in light of the Referendum for a First Nations Voice to the Australian Parliament, including:
 - Direct communication with international students from affected regions who are studying with us to check in and let them know about available supports

- Contact with all Indigenous students to check in and arrange catch up sessions to support them before and after the referendum
- Pre-approved special consideration for all affected students
- Priority access for counselling services
- Prioritised investigation of matters of racism that involve the display of posters and materials on campus or online

Addressing sexual harm

La Trobe University recognises the profound impact of sexual harassment and sexual assault on students. Since 2020, we have invested an additional $5 million in funding for services, primary prevention, and the improvement of processes to create a safe environment for our students on campus. In the past year, $2.5 million has been invested in wellbeing, reporting, and prevention functions. The University's Sexual Harm Prevention and Response Action Plan includes a range of initiatives including evidence-based student and staff professional development programs so that our entire University community understands how to recognise, respond to, and refer sexual harm reports and queries.

Progress against the Sexual Harm Prevention and Response Action Plan is reviewed quarterly with reporting at a Campus Safety Committee and the University's Senior Executive Group. Key achievements under the Plan since its launch in April this year include:

- Review and update of the University's Respectful Behaviour and Culture Module with students and learning designers (the module will be compulsory for all commencing students from 2024)
- Training and professional development modules delivered in 2023 to over 4000 students and 300 staff to help address the root causes of sexual harassment and assault, including raising awareness of reporting and disclosure mechanisms
- Continued delivery of a range of educative and preventative training modules including a Gender Equality and Bystander Intervention Staff program; Responding to Disclosure of Sexual Harm, Discrimination and Bullying program; LGBTQIA+ SB Ally program; "Tomorrow Man" workshops for male students; a Respectful Relationships and Bystander Intervention program, and Flip the Script (a program that provides young women with the knowledge and tools to defend themselves against attempts to sexually coerce or assault them)
- Development of a Communicating for Impact Campaign to be rolled out over the next two years that will focus on four key elements:
 - Encouraging awareness and reporting of sexual harm for staff and students, including a communication "saturation" campaign across all campuses
 - Ongoing education regarding sexual harm and consent
 - Encouraging bystanders to intervene in incidents of sexual harm
 - Challenging toxic or harmful notions of masculinity
- Established a partnership between the University's Health, Wellbeing and Inclusion team and Department of Public Health to develop a monitoring and evaluation framework for the Sexual Harm Prevention and Response Action Plan
- Commenced embedding gender equality and violence prevention into the curriculum with a pilot being trialed in Physiotherapy programs in 2024
- Commenced placement review giving consideration to how best to support students going on placement around sexual harm, mental health, and how to access support
- Development of resources on respectful behaviour in the classroom

- Commenced review and update of relevant policies to bring them closer to sector best-practice, including a recent review of the University's Sexual Harm Prevention and Response and Family Violence Policies

Contributing to sector initiatives

La Trobe University also contributes to sector responses and initiatives on campus safety and has participated in national programs including:

- Contributing to the development and delivery of the Universities Australia Primary Prevention of Sexual Harm - Good Practice Guide
- Participating in and leading sessions during the Universities Australia Communities of Practice Event held for institutions across Australia in July 2023
- Contributing to the Department of Education's Gender Based Violence Stakeholder Reference Group (Professor Jessica Vanderlelie, Deputy Vice-Chancellor (Academic) is a member of the Reference Group)

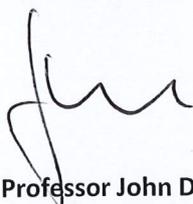

Community engagement

I note that you have met with the Australasian Union of Jewish Students and the Zionist Federation of Australia to discuss concerns about the safety of Jewish students on campuses. La Trobe University is also engaging with representatives from Jewish student groups. Our Director of Student Life has met with the La Trobe Jewish Student Association to understand if the University can improve support for Jewish students and reduce barriers to reporting. Our Deputy Vice-Chancellor (Academic) and I will be meeting with the President of La Trobe's Branch of the Australasian Union of Jewish Students and the Union's National Vice-President later this week. We will be discussing what tangible supports the University is offering to our students and whether we can provide them with any additional support them at this time.

I assure you that La Trobe University takes student and staff safety very seriously. We undertake targeted efforts in partnership with our students and staff to make our campuses safe and inclusive for everyone. We are doing everything we can to ensure that our Jewish and Islamic students and staff are supported and feel safe on our campuses now and into the future. We will continue to monitor the situation on our campuses and in the wider community and will endeavour to provide additional targeted support and advice for our students and staff should this be required.

If I can provide any further information about La Trobe University's response to racism, sexual harm, and any other forms of harassment, discrimination, or intimidation, please do not hesitate to contact me on telephone (03) 9479 2000 or by email at J.Dewar@latrobe.edu.au.

Dear Minister

I write in reply to your recent correspondence regarding student and staff safety on campus following the recent and continuing distressing events in the Middle East.

I agree that the safety and wellbeing of all our students and staff is of paramount importance. In addition to the University's well established mechanisms for supporting staff and students, we have put in place additional measures to ensure our University community is as well supported as possible.

STUDENTS

In addition to our existing student safety and support policies and procedures (student code of conduct and the anti-discrimination, bullying and harassment policy), we are issuing communications to all students reminding them of the need for respectful engagement, providing links to support services and ensuring that they are fully aware of how to report inappropriate and unwanted behaviour.

The Office of the Dean of Students is meeting with Muslim and Jewish student group executives to understand if their members have experienced inappropriate and unwanted behaviour, if they have any particular needs at this time and also to remind them of the need to engage with others respectfully. We have also arranged for a subtle security presence at events that are run by Muslim and Jewish student groups as well as at prayer rooms on campus; and we continue to monitor University social channels to identify inappropriate or unwanted behaviour.

STAFF

We are sending out communications to all staff to remind them of the various supports available. These include our Employee Assistance Program (EAP) which offers a free, confidential counselling service to all University staff and their immediate family members.

We are reminding staff that unlawful discrimination, bullying, and harassment is not tolerated, as documented in the Staff Code of Conduct, Student Code of Conduct, and the Discrimination, Bullying and Harassment Prevention Policy. Staff who experience or witness such behaviour on campus or on University-hosted digital platforms can make reports and seek support through links outlined on the University's website.

We are reminding staff of the important role universities play in fostering informed and educated discussion of social and political issues. Accordingly, staff are being encouraged to re-familiarise themselves with our Freedom of Speech and Academic Freedom Policy, Public Comment Policy, and Social Media Policy.

We will continue to monitor this situation very closely to ensure we are ready to respond or adjust as may be required in the coming weeks.

I wish you well in your work at the Education Ministers' Meeting and look forward to the outcomes arising from the student and staff safety Working Group.

Dear Minister

Student and staff safety on university campuses in the wake of the attack by Hamas on Israel

I write to provide you with an update on student and staff safety at Monash University in the wake of the attack by Hamas on Israel. This update is in response to your letter of 11 October 2023 seeking advice on this matter.

I was pleased to host you and your parliamentary colleagues at our Clayton campus on 12 October and welcomed the opportunity to brief you on the initiatives that Monash has put in place following the attacks that took place in Israel and the developing situation in the Gaza Strip.

As Australia's largest and most international university we recognise the importance of acting quickly and demonstrating leadership within both the university sector and the broader community. We have implemented the following actions:

- Identified all Monash students in Israel, the Gaza Strip and the West Bank and ensured safety, paying for passage home and relocation of belongings (as insurance doesn't cover due to declaration of war).
- Personally contacted all students by phone who are from Israel, the Gaza Strip, and the West Bank to ascertain what support they may need including academic, practical and pastoral support. This was followed by a direct email outlining the support available to ensure all affected students are reached.
- Emailed the Monash Jewish Students' Society where students are welcome to contact Associate Professor David Slucki, Director, Australian Centre for Jewish Civilisation, for support, advice, or just to chat about how they're feeling about the situation as it unfolds.
- Established a dedicated counselling hotline for staff and students impacted by the conflict.
- Provided information on Safety and security reporting via relevant channels (emergency and enquiries phone numbers, and the Monash bSafe app) and offered security escorts.

monash.edu

- Enacted Academic support, including the relaxation of special consideration provisions for impacted students, which are centrally coordinated and apply to all units.
- Established strong communications channels and meetings between the Monash Jewish Students' Society (MonJSS) and the Executive Director of Campus Community Division and senior Monash staff to discuss key needs and responses.
- Issued a Monash-wide student notice reminding students that racial and religious vilification, discrimination and harassment is unlawful and that the University does not tolerate racial discrimination of any kind. This also included information about how to take action as a bystander – Resources and information on how to report incidents are available.
- Written to all Student Associations to remind them racial discrimination or vilification is unlawful and the University does not tolerate racial discrimination or vilification of any kind.
 - Earlier this year Monash University published an Anti-racism statement that directly addresses antisemitism.

Furthermore, Monash University has released the following statement:

Monash University is saddened by the ongoing Israel-Hamas conflict and recognises the deep impact of the worsening violence on communities. We are especially disturbed by the attacks on civilians by Hamas and condemn the targeting of innocent people and non-combatants. We are also concerned for the civilians impacted by attacks on the Gaza Strip.

Our thoughts are with those directly and indirectly affected by this conflict, including our staff, students, alumni, partners and their families and friends. We are working to support all students and staff impacted.

The health, safety and wellbeing of the entire Monash community is our priority, and we will continue to do everything we can to assist those who are affected by this situation.

Racial discrimination or vilification is unlawful and the University does not tolerate racial discrimination or vilification of any kind.

A dedicated 24/7 counselling and mental health support line has been established for students impacted by the conflict. Students are encouraged to call 9905 2006 if they need counselling and mental health support.

General 24/7 counselling support and the emergency mental health phone line continue to be available. Counselling support is available for staff through Monash's Employee Assistance Program (EAP), and University Health Services also offer telehealth \(video or phone\) counselling sessions.

Office of the Hon Jason Clare MP
Minister for Education
Via email: Minister.Clare@education.gov.au

Dear Minister Clare,

Thank you for your important communication regarding student and staff safety on university campuses, particularly in relation to the deeply troubling events in Israel and Palestine.

Murdoch University is a place that celebrates diversity and does not tolerate harassment or discrimination of any kind. Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion (EDI) is a guiding pillar in our university strategy, and we are more committed than ever to upholding the safety of our students and staff through a strong commitment to anti-discrimination, social inclusion, and human rights.

We take a whole of university approach to supporting the cultural safety and inclusion of our campus communities, with a combination of top-down, bottom-up and middle-out initiatives.

Our university Strategy - Ngala Kwop Biddi: Building A Brighter Future, Together - articulates our strong commitment to the safety, inclusion and celebration of our diverse community. Ngala Kwop Biddi includes explicit objectives to:

- Build a culturally safe and inclusion study and work environment, and
- Develop intercultural competency skills amongst students and staff.

These strategic imperatives have informed the development of an EDI sub-strategy through consultation with stakeholders from across the university community, which articulates clear actions in terms of ensuring policy and procedure reform to align with best practice in anti-discrimination, cultural safety, and trauma-informed practice; an expansion of our professional learning and training opportunities to increase intercultural competency and anti-racism literacies for staff; and the embedding of these same literacies into the undergraduate curriculum.

To elevate the voices of our Culturally and Linguistically Diverse (CALD) communities, we have established an active and motivated CALD Advisory Group comprised of both students and staff, with a clear pathway to the Senior Leadership Team through the Office of the Pro Vice Chancellor Equity Diversity and Inclusion. We have joined Diversity Council of Australia, and the global pilot of the successful UK-based Responsible Futures project, which frames education from a sustainable development perspective with a focus on anti-discrimination, anti-oppression, and decolonisation alongside environmental concerns.

For staff, we currently offer four specific training and development opportunities several times per year focused on ameliorating race-based discrimination. For students, we offer “The Den”, which hosts weekly international cafes and provides a welcoming, safe space for students to build a sense of connection and belonging at Murdoch. The Den is based on primary prevention and early intervention within a non-clinical space but is led by a clinical staff safety net. This model ensures students who may otherwise be uncomfortable engaging with traditional supports (due to stigma or thinking their situation is not “serious enough”) are able to receive timely preventative support. The weekly international café activities prioritise intercultural sharing, learning and experiences.

In the wake of the attack by Hamas on Israel, we have been reaching out individually to our Palestinian and Israeli students and staff to offer one-to-one support and to ensure they are aware of the support services available to them. We have not seen any anti-Semitism or Islamophobia on campus coming out of the conflict at this stage. The number of students we have from that region is very small. However, we have prepared a Whole-of-University communication strategy, which directly references the current context and reiterates that Murdoch is a place that celebrates diversity and does not tolerate harassment or discrimination of any kind, and this strategy will be implemented should any undesirable behaviour emerge. The message explicitly references antisemitism and Islamophobia and compels anyone who experiences or witnesses these behaviours to report them to us so they can be immediately addressed, with links to both formal and informal reporting mechanisms for students and staff.

Thank you for reiterating the significance of safety and inclusion for all students and staff in Australian educational contexts. In the context of the horrific events in Israel and Gaza, the devastating natural disaster in Afghanistan, the ongoing conflict in Ukraine and the divisive national debate leading up to the Voice referendum, Murdoch University remains strongly committed to supporting our diverse communities in times of need and not tolerating racism or discrimination in any form.

We appreciate the opportunity to share our uncompromising focus on inclusion, and our strong stance against violence and discrimination in all forms.

Yours Sincerely

Dear Minister,

Thank you for your letter of 11 October 2023, requesting urgent advice on the measures Australian universities are taking to ensure the safety of students and staff from racism, harassment, discrimination, intimidation, and particularly antisemitism and Islamophobia.

The University of Newcastle has a zero tolerance approach to racism and discrimination. We actively seek to create a safe and welcoming environment for all our staff and students. The University has a range of related policies, activities and services that protect students and staff from discrimination and abuse; provide support for students and staff; and proactively create a positive and safe environment for staff and students.

The University's Code of Conduct applies to all staff and students, and sets out the obligations of each person in the University community to others, under the key pillar of Respect. This Code sets out the positive actions each member of the University community agrees to abide by to promote diversity and inclusion, and also every individual's obligation to value diversity and difference, treat others with compassion and kindness, and have no tolerance for harassment or bullying. Failure to comply with the Code can lead to disciplinary action, including the possibility of termination of employment or exclusion from the University. Unlawful conduct may result in criminal proceedings.

The Student Conduct Rule sets out the standards of behaviour required by all students at the University, and incorporates the Code of Conduct. This requires all students to value diversity, and behave in a manner that does not offend, degrade or humiliate others. It provides further rules around misconduct for students: that students must not assault, threaten, bully, harass, or endanger any staff, student or other member of the University community. The University works hard to ensure that all students are aware of their rights, protections and their obligations under these policies.

We work actively with community partners on initiatives that promote safe communities. With the City of Newcastle, the University joined the 'Racism not Welcome' campaign: a community-led, grassroots initiative that acknowledges the existence of racism, validates people's lived experiences with racism and normalises conversations about racism while igniting change. Signage on the University campus is consistent with those in our home city, indicating our zero tolerance approach to racism and discrimination.

We have also partnered with the City of Newcastle on a Welcome program for international students, promoting intercultural respect and community understanding. In 2023, more than 1,200 newly arrived international students and their families were officially welcomed to the city by the Lord Mayor and equipped with resources, services and programs to orientate them with everything Newcastle has to offer. A new International Student Ambassador initiative will help build a culture of belonging for all international students living and studying in Newcastle.

The University's Equity, Diversity and Inclusion strategy sets out our positive actions as an institution to work towards equity, diversity and inclusion across the entire organisation, and specifically includes religion in our definitions of diversity. The University has also instituted proactive training for staff and students in health, wellbeing and diversity. For staff, this includes mandatory training in equal opportunity and diversity, and discrimination and harassment.

We take a proactive approach to risk identification and management, including through the Behavioural Risk Group, a cross-institution team which works to strengthen the University's capacity to identify and assess high-risk situations or actors within the University community, and to promote early intervention and management. Such intervention is intended to mitigate the likelihood of escalation to harm to self or others. 24/7 security services on our campuses provide additional monitoring and frontline risk management, with trained officers providing a visible presence on campus through foot and vehicle patrols, as well as CCTV to ensure the physical security of our community.

The University has a structure of supports for students and staff who are concerned in any manner for their safety or wellbeing. Students can contact Campus Care, which is staffed by a specialised team with backgrounds in healthcare who are expert in dealing with sensitive and complex situations. All students have access to this team and are encouraged to reach out if they are concerned about any form of inappropriate, concerning or threatening behaviour from anyone at all at the University. Students also have access to counselling services and interfaith chaplaincy services, which are inclusive of Jewish and Muslim chaplains, as well as TalkCampus, a 24/7 multilingual mental health support service, and prayer rooms for all faiths.

The University has taken measures to ensure that students know how to reach out for help, and report any safety concerns, with the University making information available to them at multiple frequent contact points, including on their login screen. This has resulted in a significantly increased uptake in services.

Staff have access to a range of supports including free counselling services provided through the University's Employee Assistance Program. In the event that staff engage in, or are subjected to, the forms of behaviour you have identified that are of concern, the University has internal procedures and processes to deal with and address those matters either as workplace concerns or as formal complaints. As a diverse workplace community, the University is clear that discrimination or harassment on the basis of race, religion or ethnicity is not tolerated.

We monitor the results of these actions and can advise that in 2023, our students indicated they are feeling safer on campus than ever before. In 2023, more than 9,700 students responded to the Student Feedback on the University of Newcastle Survey. Of these, 92.8% agreed they felt safe in our campus environment, steadily rising from 84.8% in 2019. Our aim, of course is for this to continually increase.

On a personal note, I have been shocked to see events unfold in Israel and Gaza over the past week. This situation directly affects many of our staff and students who have loved ones in the region. I have written to our university community to let them know of the support available to them at this difficult time. I am keen to work with colleagues in the sector to do whatever we can as institutions of learning, research and community leadership to support people affected by these tragic events.

Yours sincerely

~~Dear Minister,~~

Dear Jason,

Thank you for your letter dated 11th October 2023, in which you seek information from the University about the measures we have in place to support our students and staff in response to the current situation in the Middle East.

The University of Notre Dame Australia wants to assure you that there is no place for antisemitism, Islamophobia, and any other form of racism, harassment, discrimination or intimidation across any of our campuses. This is made explicit in our code of conduct, which is available to students on the website and also appears in the University's General Regulations. All our students and staff are part of, and belong to a single caring university community.

Since hostilities began, every member of the University's Student Experience team has been on standby to assist wherever they are needed and to ensure our students remain supported, cared for, and kept safe. To date, we have not had any students come forward seeking assistance.

As an additional support measure, the University will contact each of our Jewish and Muslim students and staff members personally in the coming days to check on wellbeing. Our chaplaincy team is also inviting staff and students to pray for peace in the Middle East.

The University appreciates your leadership on this matter, and we stand ready to work with you and the Department to ensure the ongoing safety and wellbeing of our students and staff.

Yours sincerely,

Professor Francis Campbell
Vice Chancellor

Dear Minister

First my apologies for the delay in my response.

I can reassure you that QUT has had no reports of violence towards or complaints from our Jewish students and staff, albeit we know compared to other states the proportion of both staff and students is relatively small.

Nonetheless, our QUT chaplain has been active in connecting to the local faith leaders and regularly checking in for areas where we may need to do more through our activities in Spiritual Support and Inclusion.

I was reassured also when I met yesterday with a staff member who I knew to be Jewish because of his work on the attached plan, that he confirmed the Chaplain has been very active in supporting the Jewish members of staff and offered support from with the Spiritual inclusion Support team.

We regularly remind staff to be mindful of events overseas in relation to special consideration for students with different backgrounds.

We also proactively provide training in resilience, dealing with harassment on line in advance where possible as we did for our Aboriginal staff and students in the lead up to the referendum.

Finally, our counselling support for students is managed in such a way that students in crisis or need do not experience any wait time for appointments.

Kind Regards

Margaret

SPIRITUAL SUPPORT AND INCLUSION ACTION PLAN

2023–2025

QUT acknowledges the Turrbal and Yugara, as the First Nations owners of the lands where QUT now stands. We pay respect to their Elders, lores, customs and creation spirits. We recognise that these lands have always been places of teaching, research and learning. QUT acknowledges the important role Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people play within the QUT community.

Foreword from the Vice-Chancellor

Queensland University of Technology (QUT) is committed to diversity and inclusion and strives to ensure that our University is a welcoming and inclusive place to study and work for all students and staff.

The QUT Spiritual Support and Inclusion Action Plan (SSIAP) renews our commitment to diversity and inclusion and encourages us to continually strive to improve our University's services, culture, and facilities so that QUT students and staff from different faith, spiritual beliefs, and traditions, including those with no religious affiliation can reach their full potential.

The SSIAP aligns with our commitment to upholding the Higher Education Standards Framework (HESF) and Education Services for Overseas Students Act 2000 (ESOS Act) along with our values within the Connections strategy including, Curiosity, Integrity, and Inclusiveness. This plan is another example of our commitment to the UN Sustainable Development Goals, specifically Goal 16 as it relates to inclusive institutions. We are committed to expanding the diversity of our community of staff and students.

QUT has a wealth of resources and expertise to drive forward with an Action Plan, that encompasses a wide range of areas and disciplines, ensuring that greater inclusion is embedded across the entire University.

I am pleased to endorse QUT's Spiritual Support and Inclusion Action Plan and encourage the whole University community to work together to ensure that QUT is leading the way in inclusion for all.

Professor Margaret Sheil AO

Vice-Chancellor and President
Queensland University
of Technology

Executive Sponsor Message

The Spiritual Support and Inclusion Action Plan is essential to capture QUT's re-launch of the chaplaincy service as it was previously provided by external bodies, namely the ecumenical group of traditional Christian denominations.

With the appointment of the QUT Chaplaincy Manager positioned within the Student Services department, the Chaplaincy service is a particularly important expression of support in the broader Student Services and Wellbeing portfolio.

QUT Chaplaincy aims to create a model of support that aligns with other wellbeing initiatives and University priorities to support students and the wider QUT community. Supporting students and staff from diverse cultures, faith, spiritual beliefs, and traditions, including those with no religious affiliation, is vital to extending QUT's real-world experience and inclusive values. The Spiritual Support and Inclusion Action Plan has been created with this ideology at the forefront.

Professor Mark Harvey

Vice-President
(Business Development)
Queensland University

Strategic Context

The Spiritual Support and Inclusion Action Plan strategically aligns with Connections: QUT Strategy 2023-2027, and is underpinned by various existing QUT policies. The following values and priorities outlined in Connections will be upheld through implementation of the Spiritual Support and Inclusion Action Plan:

VALUES

Curiosity, Integrity, Inclusiveness. We aim to build a positive culture of curiosity and harmony for students and staff with open minds to engage in clear, open, and respectful conversations and learnings that provide appreciation, acceptance, and tolerance of different perspectives.

CONNECTING PEOPLE AND PURPOSE

To live our organisational culture and values. We aim to provide resources, programs, events, and initiatives to connect people with one another, building a positive community, and align aspirations to a sense of purpose.

HEALTH AND WELLBEING

QUT seeks to embed principles of health and wellbeing in our curricula and promote health and wellbeing for our staff and students. We aim to promote spiritual wellbeing that will provide a positive impact for our staff and students that engage with the service.

INCLUSION AND SOCIAL JUSTICE

We are committed to expanding the diversity of our community of staff and students. We aim to create safe and inclusive spaces for all who have culturally diverse, spiritual, and religious belief systems.

QUT IN 2027

QUT will be a lively, welcoming, culturally diverse community, embedding a global outlook into QUT's academic activities and building our international connectivity. This will enhance the prominence of Brisbane and Queensland as a welcoming destination for real-world education and research excellence. We aim to be a leading support service that values and welcomes students from culturally and religiously diverse backgrounds.

Action Plan Commitments

The commitments outlined in this action plan align with the following QUT Manual of Policies and Procedures (MOPP):

- A/8.4 Equal Opportunity and Diversity
- A/8.7 Cultural diversity and anti-racism
- B/8.1 QUT Staff Code of Conduct.

All students and staff should experience a sense of belonging which arises from an inclusive learning and working environment which respects diversity. Therefore, learning experiences, on-campus services and administrative procedures for students, as well as career development and management practices for staff, will be fair. (MOPP A/8.4.5)

The University's community engagement activities will reflect its civic responsibility and be inclusive of culturally and socially diverse communities. (MOPP A/8.4.6)

QUT will take all reasonable steps to provide and support a culturally diverse and inclusive work, study and research environment. A culturally diverse community is characterised by a wide range of traditions, languages, beliefs, values, ideas and practices. Consistent with the Universal Declaration of Human Rights (1948) and with Australian law, the University will make every effort to ensure staff and students are aware of their rights to have their cultural identity respected and to be free of discrimination. (MOPP A/8.7.4)

Other relevant commitments

The Spiritual Support and Inclusion Action Plan will also be underpinned by relevant legislation and best practice guidelines that include the following:

- The World Health Organization and the UN Charter for Human Rights state that spirituality must be considered a factor of health and wellbeing.
- Principles for promoting and protecting the human rights of international students (Principle 5: Celebrating the cultural and religious diversity of international students)
- Higher Education Standards Framework (HESF Domain 2: Learning environment):
 - 2.3 Wellbeing and Safety - encompass a series of general and specific facets of a provider's operations that are aimed at the promotion of safety and wellbeing.
- ESOS Act (National Code, Standard 6) - a registered provider must assist students to adjust to study and life in Australia, including through the provision of an age and culturally appropriate orientation program that includes information about:
 - student support services available to students in the transition to life and study in a new environment.

Priority Areas

Priority Area 1: Inclusive Culture

Item	Action	Key results and outcomes	Responsible area	Related documents
1.1	Collaborate to develop an approach to raising the awareness of diverse faith communities at QUT, including communications and engagement activities to students and staff.	Raise the profile and feelings of inclusiveness towards students and staff of diverse faith and religious beliefs.	QUT Chaplaincy
1.2	Develop a Religious and Cultural Diversity calendar through consultation with stakeholders—ensure it recognises significant celebration and memorial dates of QUT's diverse faith and religious communities.	Publish the calendar on HiQ and Digital Workplace and develop explanatory comms to direct staff and students to it where this may be a useful resource. For example—event planning and student lifecycle.	QUT Chaplaincy	Appendix 1 - Religious and Cultural Diversity Calendar
1.3	Communication of support and acknowledgement towards students and staff of diverse beliefs by QUT senior leaders.	Vice-Chancellor's weekly staff email occasionally recognises significant faith and religious community celebrations dates through simple statements: "This weekend marks the start of Ramadan, the most auspicious month on the Islamic calendar. During Ramadan Muslims around the world fast from sunrise to sunset. I recognise and support members of the Islamic community, especially our Muslim staff and students. QUT continues to create an empowering and inclusive environment for our diverse community" . Similar messages for Merry Christmas, Happy Diwali, Happy Hanukkah.	QUT Chaplaincy Office of the Vice-Chancellor	Drafted yearly schedule for the Office of the Vice-Chancellor to consider
1.4	Events and communication campaigns are implemented that reflect the needs and interests of faith and religious community and reflect and celebrate QUT's diversity.	Consultation with student and staff religious groups regarding their desires to celebrate their faith in an open forum to increase understanding and participation in diverse cultural events.	QUT Chaplaincy Student Religious Groups Staff Faith Network Student Guild Student Engagement

Priority Area 2: Services and Amenities

Item	Action	Key results and outcomes	Responsible area	Related documents
2.1	Provide Spiritual Support and Pastoral Care when sought by students and staff.	An integrated Chaplaincy service offering within Student Services with bookable appointments available. The service should remain scalable to include chaplains of different faiths where there is a demonstrable need/interest.	Student Services QUT Chaplaincy
2.2	Provide designated safe spaces for students and staff to engage in spiritual, faith and religious dialogue and practices. These spaces would also be the place to access spiritual support from a chaplain or other appropriate resource.	Consultation between Estate Planning and Student Services about the identification and refurbishment of centrally located spaces for spiritual services (including prayer rooms) at both campuses. Disability and Accessibility Services to be consulted around accessibility for refurbishment works and to go beyond compliance to best practice.	QUT Chaplaincy Staff Faith Network Estate Planning Disability and Accessibility Services

Priority Area 3: Community and Connections

Item	Action	Key results and outcomes	Responsible area	Related documents
3.1	Launch a QUT Staff Faith Network to connect the different faith and religious staff communities on campus.	The network will offer a forum for staff to celebrate diversity, network, collaborate, share experiences and to represent their communities in university business via QUT Chaplaincy.	QUT Chaplaincy
3.2	Connect individual students of diverse faith and religious beliefs into relevant student communities to enhance their spiritual wellbeing.	QUT Chaplaincy to be an accessible and welcoming service for all students and have connections with diverse faith groups across QUT and externally where appropriate. These connections will enable effective referrals and potential events on campus.	QUT Chaplaincy
3.3	Provide opportunities for staff and students across the university to learn about faith and religious beliefs and become active agents in the creation of an inclusive culture.	Actively run short form CHAT programs (Cultural Hearing Asking Telling) in conjunction with an external not-for-profit organisation. This will enable participants to gain skills and confidence to listen and engage with people who are different to them.	QUT Chaplaincy SU Australia (external not-for-profit)	Appendix 2 - CHAT Guidelines for Dialogue
3.4	Facilitate expressions of diverse faith and religious beliefs in chaplaincy spaces by working with student religious groups and assessing needs.	Sourcing speakers, facilitators, musicians where appropriate and ensuring spaces remain inviting to students with no religious affiliation. A clear calendar of events for chaplaincy spaces to be established—for example: Friday prayers, Chapel Service, Quiet Meditation.	QUT Chaplaincy External providers where required	Chaplaincy space calendar
3.5	Provide connection points to a supportive QUT community through events that support students in need (e.g. hunger, social).	Run weekly Brekkie Clubs, Toastie Thursdays and other events where food is provided for free. The goal will be to promote wellbeing by connecting students with support services, including chaplaincy.	QUT Chaplaincy External partners Student Services
3.6	Develop strong connections with diverse faith and religious based external organisations (churches, mosques, temples, synagogues etc.) and relevant not-for-profits.	Stakeholder list with evidence of regular contact so that practical and spiritual support can be provided where required.	QUT Chaplaincy External organisations where appropriate

Priority Area 4: Research, Innovation and Development

Item	Action	Key results and outcomes	Responsible area	Related documents
4.1	Build a culture that fosters research into faith and religious issues and supports students and staff undertaking research in these areas.	Identify existing research being undertaken on faith and religion across the university. Launch a 'Diverse Faith and Religious Beliefs Research Forum' to enhance network of researchers at QUT, and with partner institutions.	QUT Chaplaincy
4.2	Consider the creation of an institutional 'home' for these researchers in a research centre or cluster that would enhance interdisciplinary collaboration and innovation, and allow for access to research funding, professional development opportunities, seminars, and HDR supervision.	Increase in research and potential funding or grants. Developing resources to support researchers seeking to pursue faith and religious-focused research.	QUT Chaplaincy
4.3	Embedding support for faith and religious research explicitly within University-level frameworks and strategies.	QUT will become a leading university in providing a holistic approach to developing faith, religious and spiritual initiatives to support its diverse community and promote the QUT brand with partners and external stakeholders.	QUT Chaplaincy

GUIDELINES FOR DIALOGUE

Learning to explore faith in healthy ways is an important skill for life. These simple guidelines ensure a safe place for people to talk faith, make friends and change lives.

LISTEN to what everyone has to say	DO NOT TELL OTHERS WHAT THEY BELIEVE, but let them tell you	DO NOT JUDGE PEOPLE here by what some people of their faith or community do
ACKNOWLEDGE SIMILARITIES and differences between our faiths	SPEAK POSITIVELY of your faith, rather than negatively about other people's	BE HONEST in what you say
DO NOT TREAT SOMEONE AS A SPOKESPERSON for their faith or culture	MAKE EVERY EFFORT TO GET ALONG WITH EVERYONE regardless of their faith, gender, ethnicity or age	DO NOT FORCE PEOPLE to agree with your views
		RESPECT OTHER PEOPLE, even if you disagree with their views

Dear Minister

Thank you for your letter to RMIT University's Vice-Chancellor, Professor Alec Cameron, regarding student and staff safety on university campuses in the wake of the attack by Hamas on Israel. On behalf of the University, I am writing to provide a response to your request for advice about the University's measures to help ensure that antisemitism, Islamophobia and any other form of racism, harassment, discrimination or intimidation do not threaten the safety of students and staff.

RMIT University maintains its strong stance against all forms of discrimination. We believe that respect for freedom of belief or religion and a commitment to multiculturalism contributes to cohesive and resilient societies. Antisemitism is one of many forms of hate speech thriving online and in person and is a serious problem with real-world effects.

As a community of scholars, RMIT maintains and protects the right of that community to be intellectually curious, to be forthright in the respectful expression of informed views and to be able to express their views free from undue institutional constraint. But that freedom is best supported by principles of respect, grounded in clearly stated values and respecting the wellbeing of our entire community.

RMIT University is committed to promoting diversity and inclusion, equal opportunity and preventing discrimination for all members of our community. A key measure we currently have in place is our Inclusion, Diversity, Equity and Access (IDEA) Framework with related Action Plans to support the implementation of Diversity and Inclusion principles and to raise awareness and understanding of different forms of racism. A copy of RMIT's IDEA Framework is included with this letter for reference.

Next month, RMIT will officially open its new multi-faith centre in the heart of our Melbourne city campus, part of the City North social innovation precinct. This is a wonderful example of our deep commitment to inclusion. We're proud that our community is comprised of such a broad range of backgrounds and beliefs, and our multi-faith centre will provide a vital space for that to be respected and celebrated.

RMIT University strongly agrees that nothing is more important than the safety of all our students and staff. You have our assurance that we will always advocate for our campuses to be a safe space for all our students and staff where they can feel included and respected.

Yours sincerely,

Dear Minister

Thank you for your letter dated 11 October in relation to student and staff safety on university campuses in the wake of the attack by Hamas on Israel.

In preparing this response, I have sought advice in relation to any student or staff requests for assistance that have emerged since the shocking attacks occurred. The University has one student who holds Israeli citizenship. That student was not in Australia at the time of the onset of the Hamas attack, but we have established contact with her and she is now safely in Australia and receiving appropriate support.

Since the attacks, the University has received no reports or complaints in relation to anti-Semitic behaviour, either from staff or students and there have been no on-campus events with reference to the situation in Israel.

The University is a values focused organisation, with one of our core values being that we care for each other. A corollary of this is that we take a zero-tolerance approach to harassment, discrimination, intimidation and racism in all of its forms. All of the University's relevant policies are very specific about this. On a practical basis, to ensure that our values are lived, we have implemented training modules that cover sexual harassment and assault as well as racial and religious vilification and require a wide cross section of our staff and student body to complete these.

We have clearly designated first points of contact for students and staff who require assistance, and have streamlined our complaints processes so that we deal fairly and transparently with all matters of concern raised with us.

Dear Minister Clare,

Thank you for your letter on 11 October 2023. Swinburne University of Technology shares your concern regarding student and staff safety in the wake of the escalating conflict in the Middle East and we have taken immediate steps to provide support to any affected individuals.

Last week we contacted our small number of Israeli students individually to remind them of the available support from the university and how to access it. We will continue this hands-on approach over the coming days and weeks. We have no Palestinian students at present.

Some weeks ago, we met with the President of our Jewish student society. The President indicated that Jewish students have experienced occasional incidents of anti-Jewish sentiment, though this largely occurred off campus and mostly while travelling to campus on public transport. As a result, the President indicated that students were not always comfortable lodging a formal complaint to the university in the event of any incident. In response, Swinburne has committed to a number of initiatives that will simplify the process by which students can seek alternative arrangements for religious holidays and allow for anonymous reports of experiences or observations of racist behaviour. This will assist Swinburne to understand its extent and nature, and heighten our focus on addressing racism and its consequences.

We also have an active Islamic Students Society. The students have not raised any issues of concern but we will ensure an open line of communication in the event of any incidents.

As a university, we are committed to respectful relations among all staff and students and to the value of diversity for learning, research and innovation. Any action of discrimination, harassment or bullying in all work and educational contexts is strictly prohibited. Swinburne has strong regulations, policies and procedures to deal with serious matters of this nature.

During periods of crisis whether it being political instability, conflict or a natural disaster Swinburne has a range of support services available including health and wellbeing, academic support and counselling.

Swinburne stands ready and able to support the government in investigating further support to impacted university staff and students during this troubling time.

In the meantime, should your office wish to discuss the matter further, please don't hesitate to get in touch with Mathew Cooper, Manager of Government Relations (mjcooper@swin.edu.au) to arrange a conversation.

Yours sincerely,

Dear Minister Clare,

Re: Request for Information on the safety of staff and students

I am writing to you in response to your letter dated 11 October 2023, regarding your concern on the safety of students and staff on university campuses in the wake of the attack by Hamas on Israel.

As a base, Torrens has a suite of policies and procedures that guide and inform student and staff behaviour. Examples of policies include:

- Critical Incident Management Policy (and procedure)
- Diversity and Inclusion Policy
- Student Conduct Policy (and procedure)
- Workplace Health and Safety Policy
- First Aid Procedure
- Health and Safety Consultation Statement
- Sexual Harassment and Sexual Assault Prevention Policy (and procedure)
- Staff Fair Treatment and Equal Opportunity Policy
- Staff Misconduct Policy

In addition, we listen to our students and staff and refine our dynamic approach with specific activities as the need arises.

In the last week we have created respect and safety on campus and online assets to be displayed on campus digital screens and have included relevant information on this topic in our weekly staff newsletter. Further to this we have our online Student Hub where the following topics are promoted:

- Respect and Safety Responsibilities
- Student Conduct Policy
- Consent Matters sexual harassment training provided through the Learning Management System
- Safer Communities – where student can report bullying, sexual harassment, domestic violence, mental health and wellbeing concerns
- Safety
- Respect at Uni – Torrens is a member of this Victorian university campaign initiative
- 24 hour crisis line
- Student Counsellors

We do not have a large student presence in residential accommodation with only one small cohort of students in our Blue Mountains campus, however students there undergo

Dear Minister Clare

Thank you for your letter dated 11 October 2023 seeking advice regarding student and staff safety on campus since the attacks by Hamas on Israel.

The University of the Sunshine Coast (UniSC) acknowledges the importance of adopting proactive measures that address the challenge of combatting all forms of racism including antisemitism on campus and we thank the Minister for bringing these concerns to our attention. UniSC is firmly committed to providing a culturally safe environment for our university community.

UniSC has a comprehensive suite of policies and procedures addressing staff and student conduct, anti-discrimination, bullying and harassment. At the request of the former Minister of Education and Youth in 2022, UniSC incorporated the 2016 International Holocaust Remembrance Alliance (IHRA) working definition of antisemitism formally into university policies by amending the following policies and procedures to include the IHRA definition into the relevant sections:

- Student Conduct - Governing Policy
- Sexual Assault, Sexual Harassment and Respectful Relationships (Students) - Governing Policy
- Sexual Assault, Sexual Harassment and Respectful Relationships (Students) - Procedures
- Staff Code of Conduct - Governing Policy
- Anti-Discrimination and Freedom from Bullying and Harassment (Staff) - Governing Policy

UniSC staff induction and professional development training addresses staff conduct, health safety and wellbeing, and sexual assault and sexual harassment. All UniSC students are also required to complete a mandatory module focusing on Respect at UniSC and diversity training is also being embedded in the curriculum across all programs as a component of the university's learning and teaching futures curriculum renewal program.

In addition, UniSC is proactive in reaching out to students following global events of significance. This includes email communications to all students reminding them of the supports available, as well as targeted communications to students likely to be personally impacted by such events (for example, students whose home country is located in an area affected by political events or natural disasters).

Dear Minister

Thank you for your letter of 11 October 2023. We have been following the tragic events in Israel and Gaza with concern.

The University of Adelaide does not condone violence in any form and we take active measures to ensure that antisemitism, Islamophobia and any other forms of racism and discrimination do not threaten the physical or mental safety of our students and staff.

The Israel – Hamas war is being managed by the University in accordance with our Critical Incidents Policy. We currently have no students on exchange, nor staff travelling within Israel or Palestine. We have two directly affected international students (one from Palestine, the other from Israel based on the citizenship data captured at enrolment), who have been contacted with offers of assistance and support available either on campus or online. More generally, our Counselling Support and International Student Support teams are ready to support students who are impacted either directly or indirectly due to the distressing nature of these events.

The Adelaide University Jewish Students Society (AUJSS) is recognised and supported by the University's student union (YouX). There is currently no YouX club for Palestinian students. Since the events of the weekend, we have reached out to the AUJSS to offer ongoing support.

Further, the University has worked closely with the AUJSS in 2022 and 2023 to ensure that they have a presence at relevant student events, inclusive of a standing offer to provide a University Security presence. We have made several offers of support to Jewish students in leadership roles in the past 12 months, have worked with the AUJSS to support promotion of their events, and have been active in continuing to engage with this student cohort. We also actively reach out to the Australian Union of Jewish Students and have met directly with other regional and national Jewish groups.

In November 2022, the University established an Integrity Unit to receive reports and complaints from members of the University Community. As part of the University's Safer Campus Community program, reports can be made to the Unit about any behaviour that causes an individual to feel unsafe at the University. This includes reports about harassment, discrimination, or any other unacceptable behaviour, including antisemitic behaviour. The Integrity Unit is continuing its aim of building a culture where all members of our community feel safe to speak up about all forms of unacceptable behaviour. The Unit has engaged with members of our Jewish community as part of this work.

In the last 12 months, Jewish students have made both disclosures and reports under Safer Campus Community. Complaints are taken seriously by the University and followed through in formal processes. This has included responses by the Integrity Unit, Student Affairs and Counselling Support to the affected student(s).

Since the weekend's events commenced, the Integrity Unit has received a small number of complaints about online activity impacting members of the University Committee, and, the promotion of an upcoming Adelaide-planned pro-Palestinian rally. Whilst we anticipate a number of our staff and students may attend the rally, there has been no indication that the rally will be held on any of our campuses.

The Unit is continuing to assess and respond to all complaints as they arise, and our Security Team are continuing to monitor material posted on campus, so that any material that could be considered to be discriminatory, involves racial vilification or incites hatred is immediately removed.

In terms of staff and student safety on campus, our University-wide communications this week have focussed on the safety and wellbeing of our Indigenous staff and students in the lead up to the referendum. A communication early next week will reflect on the concerning impact of the Hamas attack on Israel and the ongoing conflict, and will include reminders about the support services and disclosure/report pathways available to both students and staff.

Dear Minister Clare,

I write in response to your correspondence of 11 October, regarding measures put in place to support student and staff safety on university campuses in light of the renewed conflict in Israel and Palestine.

The University of Divinity's student and staff body is overwhelmingly comprised of members of the Christian faith, though we do have Jewish and Islam students and engage academic experts in these areas to provide content into our courses. As is our approach to student and staff support generally, we have reached out directly to students who publicly identify as Jewish or Muslim or as Israeli or Palestinian to establish a direct line of communication and provide support on a case by case basis. Our Code of Conduct explicitly identifies respect for difference, including religious differences, as a core value of the University we prosecute, conscious of the precious gift we have of being able to work together across a diversity of faiths and how recent an opportunity this is in world history.

The University's members have engaged through our partner churches in a range of prayer services and activities that have called on God, political leaders, and the wider community to promote justice and peace. Indeed I attended one such service last night at St Paul's Cathedral, Melbourne. These are vital public occasions for demonstrating what social – and religious – cohesion looks like, creating safe spaces in which grief, anger and fear may be expressed and heard, while holding up a model of unity. Precious moments in this process have included Jewish, Muslim and Christian leaders coming together to pray for peace, shalom, salaam, and to grieve for the loss of life in Israel and Palestine.

Crucial to our engagement in prevention of antisemitism or islamophobia is our mission of critical education about religious beliefs and practices, both for adherents and others, that ensures understanding across our society – including of the darker moments of humanity's history, where both conscious and unconscious forms of racism and sectarianism have caused untold harm.

There is no simple answer to this challenge. When I recently visited Parliament House on 15 November and attended Question Time I was made all the more conscious of the vital importance of self-restraint as I witnessed the weaponisation of antisemitism and islamophobia by Members of Parliament in a deeply divisive moment for our nation. Thus I am now discussing with senior colleagues and the University Council steps we might take to educate and advocate to political and other national leaders to change the conversation now and into the future.

Yours sincerely,

Dear Minister,

Re: Staff and student safety on university campuses in the wake of the attack by Hamas on Israel

I write to provide the advice requested on measures taken by the University of Melbourne to address antisemitism, Islamophobia and other forms of racism, harassment, discrimination and intimidation on campus and to ensure the safety of our community. I share your concerns about the impact recent events in Israel and Gaza may have on our staff and students. Needless to say, the University takes these matters very seriously and has taken prompt action to communicate with our staff and students in light of recent global events.

In these difficult times, we continue our present efforts and initiatives to provide and promote a safe campus for our University community, ensuring we remain responsive to changes in the external environment.

The University condemns all forms of racism and discrimination, and we commit to standing against these. The University of Melbourne expects that students, staff, visitors and our partners of all ethnicities, nationalities and faiths feel welcome, safe and that they belong. Highlighting this commitment, the University released its Anti-racism Commitment in January this year. The statement included the adoption of the International Holocaust Remembrance Alliance's definition of antisemitism, in direct response to conversations with Jewish students and staff, and we are in the process of developing a definition of Islamophobia in consultation with Muslim students and staff.

Under the auspices of our Diversity and Inclusion Strategy, the University's first Anti-Racism Action Plan is in development. The Action Plan will articulate work to ensure our systems and practices support physical, psychological, and cultural safety for all members of the University community, in a dynamic local and global context. Currently, the University provides a range of confidential support and response services to staff and students, including the Safer Community Program. In addition, campus security services are extended to all and include services such as being able to book a security escort; campus-wide blue help phones; 24 hour security patrols; and a SafeZone mobile app that allows people on campus, in the case of emergency, to quickly share their location and details with the University security team.

The escalating conflict between Israel and Gaza, and in the Middle East more broadly, was addressed in an email sent by the Acting Provost to all students and staff this week. The University has been contacting affected members within our community to offer support. The Acting Provost urged our community to act with kindness and respect and, attending also to the community's emotional safety, offered links to the University's Counselling and Psychological Services.

I welcome the expansion of the Working Group's role to provide advice on issues of concern to Jewish students regarding safety on campus. The University stands ready to address any further issues raised. In the meantime, the University will continue to prioritise the safety and wellbeing of our students and staff and monitor the current evolving situation. In relation to the issue of student safety more broadly, the University's Provost, Nicola Phillips, has written to you to outline the University's approach and the range of programs and services we have in place to enhance student safety under our Respect Action Plan and to address sexual assault and misconduct.

If you would like to discuss these matters further, I would welcome an opportunity to meet with you. Ms Carol Boles in my office can be contacted on (03) 8344 6134 or at cboles@unimelb.edu.au to make arrangements.

Dear Minister Clare

Thank you for your letter of 11 October 2023 seeking advice regarding student and staff safety on university campuses in the wake of the attack by Hamas on Israel.

The University of South Australia takes the matter of student and staff safety seriously. As an institution we proactively build and promote an inclusive culture that does not tolerate discrimination, vilification, victimisation, bullying and harassment of any kind, and take active steps to provide a safe and respectful learning and working environment.

Our Code of Conduct for Students, and the Code of Ethical Conduct for all staff establishes the basis upon which we expect our University community members to abide, to keep everyone safe. Our policies include 'anti-racism', 'inclusive language', 'equal opportunity', which demonstrate the University's commitment to provide an inclusive education and working environment for our community. These supportive policy settings and procedures help ensure that antisemitism, Islamophobia and any other form of racism, harassment, discrimination or intimidation do not threaten the safety of our students and staff. Staff are offered training in Unconscious Bias to ensure that our staff teach and support our students in a fair, inclusive and equitable manner.

Targeted communications reiterating support options have also been sent to staff and students in response to recent domestic and world events. As an example, specific supportive measures have been activated for our Aboriginal staff and students, around the 2023 Australian Indigenous Voice referendum such as post-referendum Yarning Circles.

Staff and students have access to an Employee Assistance Program and UniSA Counsellors respectively, with the University's Out-of-Hours Crisis Line for students being made available 24 hours, 7 days a week over the next two weeks following the referendum outcome, and the Israel-Hamas war. We are actively monitoring use of the Crisis Line resource by our students during this period and will extend this support if necessary.

Activity is continually undertaken to increase the observable leadership commitment to an inclusive University environment, and to ensure that measures in place are effective in ensuring the safety of the University's staff and student community.

Dear Minister

Re: Student and Staff Safety on University Campuses

Thank you for your letter of 11 October 2023 regarding student and staff safety on university campuses.

At the University of Southern Queensland the safety of our students, staff and visitors to our campuses remains paramount. We remain supportive and ready to engage with your Working Group in all matters relating to student and staff safety.

As with other universities, we have been deeply concerned by recent world events including the escalating conflict in the Middle East, ongoing war in Ukraine and impact of natural disasters.

I can provide an assurance that the University of Southern Queensland strictly prohibits discrimination, harassment and bullying in all work and educational contexts, and has robust policies and procedures in place to take direct action when any form of discrimination is reported or observed. Under the auspices of the Safer Communities approach, a single point of contact for reports of unwanted behaviours is available through the UniSQ Wellbeing team which also provides advice and support to staff and students.

In specific response to the events of past weeks, the University has:

- Shared communications with all staff and students expressing the University's understanding of the potential for distress this incident may have on students, employees, their family members, friends or colleagues.
- Reminded staff of the free and confidential support available to them and their families through the University's Employee Assistance Program (EAP) and provided the direct contact details for this service.
- Reminded students of the free and confidential support available to them through the UniSQ Wellbeing team and provided direct contact details for this service.
- Sent a targeted email to students with connections in impacted areas of the Middle East, inviting them to a morning tea and vigil with Wellbeing staff and community.
- Re-stated the University's commitment to coming together as a community and supporting each other in times such as these.

Students are supported by the University through well-established support teams and University procedures which provide options for those students experiencing special circumstances that may impact their ability to undertake studies or assessment as planned.

Our campuses have a 24/7 security presence to ensure the safety and security of staff, students and visitors to our campuses. This service is supplemented by a mobile app that can be accessed to obtain assistance. Security staff are briefed and remain alert to the current environment, to ensure any incidents are managed quickly and effectively. At this stage there has been no reports of any security incidents related to the matter.

As always, the University welcomes any opportunity to engage in discussion with the Federal Government. Please contact my office if you have any further enquiries.

Kind regards

Dear Minister Clare,

Thank you for your letter dated Wednesday 11 October. Firstly, let me give my strongest assurance that ensuring the safety, health and wellbeing of the students and staff in our University of Sydney community – as well as visitors to campus – is always my highest priority as Vice-Chancellor and President. The University appreciates you letting us know that the recently created Working Group to enhance student and staff safety on campus now has an expanded role, and we warmly welcome this excellent initiative.

In my public statements and communications to all university staff and students since Monday 9 October, I've condemned the attacks in the Middle East. The University abhors terrorism, violence and all breaches of human rights and humanitarian law – and we are shocked and appalled by the atrocities that have been committed. I have repeatedly emphasised that the University does not tolerate any form of racism, hate speech, intimidation, threatening speech, bullying or unlawful harassment, including anti-Semitic or anti-Muslim language or behaviour.

We understand it is a very challenging and distressing time for many members of our community and countless other people across the wider Australian community and around the world. Last week the University communicated directly to students of Israeli and Palestinian citizenship or country of residence to offer additional support, including information about special consideration, wellbeing and counselling services, financial support, and our peer support advisors, who can help students access all these services (see attached). Our wellbeing team is also liaising with our Jewish residential college Mandelbaum House, the Australasian Union of Jewish Students, the Sydney University Muslim Students' Association and other student representative organisations as part of University efforts to best connect with and accommodate wider student communities of relevance with academic, psychological and other practical support. I have strongly encouraged staff to refer any distressed students to our Student Wellbeing Services team. Last Thursday night I spent time with some of our students at Mandelbaum House, listened to their experiences and passed on my deepest sympathies and condolences about the awful situation in the Middle East.

Our staff are also very well supported through an extensive suite of services to support their wellbeing, including a 24/7 support and counselling hotline for all colleagues and their families. Any colleagues who wish to anonymously report incidents of harm, abuse and racism on campus or online can do so through our reporting services.

In addition, we have increased our security profile across campus for the time being as a precautionary measure and also stood up an Incident Response Team with key staff to continually monitor developments and direct our resources to where they are needed. Our campus protective services team operates 24/7 – and has offered and provided personal support to students, staff and groups who have felt unsafe in such anxious times. All of these measures are under constant review and we will adjust and expand our support services as needed.

In my communications to staff and students and subsequent statements I've made it very clear that while many members of our community have strongly-held views on this conflict, and we uphold the right to free speech, academic freedom, and freedom of expression, those rights must be exercised in a way that is consistent with our staff Code of Conduct our Student Charter (pdf, 221KB) and in a manner that considers the impact on other members of our community. Our campuses must remain safe and welcoming places for all members of our diverse community.

It is also worth noting in this context that the University will soon be releasing its first anti-racism statement, which was developed in close consultation with many staff and students and aims to cultivate a culture that promotes a deeper understanding of racism and its harmful impacts.

The University of Sydney is very grateful for your ongoing efforts to protect the safety, health and wellbeing of students and staff in the tertiary education sector and we are very happy to work closely with you and your colleagues to ensure we provide the best possible support, particularly during these very distressing and difficult times.

Kind regards,

Mark

Dear Minister Clare

Thank you for your letter of 11 October regarding student and staff safety at university campuses. We note the expanded focus of the Working Group you established in response to the recommendation on university governance in the Universities Accord Interim Report.

As you wrote, there is nothing more important than the safety of students and staff. In such a connected world, global events can have very real impacts on members of our community.

Ensuring people feel safe, secure and respected on our campuses is a priority for the University of Tasmania. It is a task we approach on a number of interrelated levels, starting with policies and procedures.

Our policies and procedures are underpinned by fundamental values of honesty, integrity, responsibility, trust and trustworthiness, respect and self-respect, and fairness and justice. Racism and discrimination are the antithesis of these values, and our policies make it explicitly clear they are unacceptable in our community.

The Safety and Wellbeing Policy sets out our commitment to ensuring a safe and healthy workplace and our Behaviour Policy outlines the University's expectations for appropriate behaviour, how we support members of our community, how reporting and disclosures work, as well as potential consequences. These policies are supported by detailed procedures, including the Behaviour Procedure, which provides examples of inappropriate and unacceptable behaviour including racism, vilification and victimisation.

Considering the role universities play as places of debate, discussion and the sharing and testing of ideas, policies regarding academic freedom and free speech are an important element of the governance framework when it comes to creating a safe and respectful community. We have a strong commitment to academic freedom and free speech at the University of Tasmania, as captured in our Academic Freedom and Free Speech Policy. We will actively protect members of our community exercising their rights to lawful speech, as we have done in the past.

A range of services and programs, and the people and teams who deliver them, give life to these principles, policies and procedures.

Staffed with experienced investigators and trauma-informed practitioners, our Safe and Fair Community Unit is the University's central point of contact for receiving and responding to complaints, concerns and notifications. This Unit's aim is to identify early and intervene when there may be concerning behaviour which could affect the safety and wellbeing of members of our community.

We have a network of staff trained as Behaviour Contact Officers throughout the University, as well as Mental Health First Aiders. Staff can also access the Employee Assistance Program and we provide dedicated counselling services for students, including an after-hours crisis line. As you would expect, we have dedicated campus security, available day and night. They can be contacted by phone, via help points around our campuses and at the touch of a button on the SafeZone app.

Our policies and procedures, and how we implement and support them, are regularly reviewed. As an example, following the Australian Human Rights Commission's survey and the Change the Course report, in 2018 we commissioned an independent review of sexual assault and sexual harassment prevention and response at the University of Tasmania. We implemented every recommendation in these reports, a process which helped shape the policies and measures I've outlined above. Now that we have had an opportunity to see how those recommendations are working in practice, and to ensure our approach reflects current best practice, we have engaged Lyn Walker, a highly regarded leader in this field, to conduct a new independent review of our governance, processes and procedures in preventing and responding to sexual assault and sexual harassment. We updated our students and staff about this new review on 10 October.

These are the ways we work to keep our community safe and our students and staff free from harassment and discrimination of any kind. This includes antisemitism and Islamophobia.

When there are major global events, like those we have seen in the Middle East in recent days, we actively monitor our community and brief key teams and contact people, ensuring we are ready to respond with the services and support our staff and students need.

Yours sincerely

Dear Minister

I am writing in response to your letter received on 12 October 2023 regarding safety on university campuses in the wake of the attack by Hamas on Israel.

UWA is committed to ensuring all students and staff can work and study in a safe, respectful and inclusive environment. The University is a diverse community, with a commitment to the advancement of a safe community through an expectation of adherence to the standards of behaviour set out in the Code of Conduct and the many policies that support diversity, equity and inclusion. The University has many and varied services dedicated to the elimination of discrimination, bullying and racism and support for any member of our community who experiences the same. These services include on-campus security, the provision of support to all staff through employee assistance programs and support for all students through student safety and wellbeing programs, counselling services and academic support services.

In respect of the recent events in Israel, the University has:

- Contacted all international student visa holders who have Israel recorded as a home address or country of birth in our student records and providing individual, personalised support.
- Working to repatriate any students who may be currently in Israel to return to Australia.
- Liaising with the UWA Student Guild President and the University's cultural clubs to ensure students have any support that they need.
- The University's Social Media is being monitored by our Corporate Communications team, and any action will be taken as necessary.
- The distribution of any written flyers or posters is being monitored by UWA Security with the assistance of the UWA Student Guild.

Dear Minister

Thank you for your letter dated 11 October.

The University of Wollongong is deeply concerned about the escalating conflict in Israel and has moved quickly to ensure the safety and wellbeing of staff and students, both onshore and in the Middle East.

We have distributed communications to all staff and students to provide assurance and support. These communications reflected the Australian Government's advice and provided links to services and support. We have also directly contacted all students who are citizens of countries from the region to ensure their safety.

UOW has also stood up a Critical Incident Management Team to take a proactive approach to supporting staff and ensuring a safe and secure university community.

Equally, we have undertaken a number of proactive measures on campus, including:

- Frequent contact with the Wollongong Police District to establish a strong collaboration and sharing of intelligence.
- Monitoring social media and media websites for any signs of planned protest activity.
- Increased physical security patrols around campus providing a visible presence.
- Contact with local religious leaders.
- Monitoring of advice from authorities including ASIO, the Australian National Security website and the Association of University Chief Security Officers.

The safety and wellbeing of our students, staff and visitors is a priority, and we remain committed to ensuring a campus community that is free from racism, discrimination, and intimidation.

UOW's Safe and Respectful Communities Team is on campus to provide support to any student impacted by abuse, violence or harassment, including racial discrimination, harassment or vilification.

Dear Minister,

Thank you for your correspondence regarding student and staff safety on university campuses in the wake of the attack by Hamas on Israel.

As you have identified, there is nothing more important than the safety of students and staff on campus. It is our top priority, and we are constantly working to ensure that what we do at UNSW represents 'best practice', ensuring that our diverse student and staff population are able to have the best possible experience. We take very seriously our responsibility to create a campus where our staff and students can work, learn and live in a safe, respectful, open and tolerant environment.

The University has taken a number of actions, both in response to the current situation, as well as more broadly addressing concerns around antisemitism and other forms of racism, harassment, discrimination or intimidation.

Firstly, our anti-racism statement has been updated recently and it makes clear that there is no place for antisemitism and other forms of racism on campus.

We acknowledge that education and awareness measures are critical to accompany our policies. We have recently developed and implemented a SpeakUp education and awareness campaign which will be further ramped up across 2024 to encourage people to come forward where they have a complaint about students or staff at UNSW. This is designed to ensure that people know they will be supported if they come forward, and that antisemitic or other like behaviour is dealt with appropriately. The campaign will contain a Respectful Behaviours Pillar that will include a focus on the protection of religious belief.

In response to representations from Jewish students at UNSW and the Zionist Federation of Australia, we have also undertaken to further review our policies to ensure they make clear that there is no tolerance for antisemitism at UNSW. This includes our highest-level policy, the UNSW Code of Conduct. Once this has been redrafted, it will go out for UNSW-wide consultation before coming into operation later this year or in early 2024. This may also result in further practice steps we can take as we implement the reviewed policies.

In response to the current situation, we:

- are in regular contact with representative student groups including Jewish student leaders and Shalom College
- are closely monitoring, by campus security, both online and campus-based activity

- are engaging closely and proactively with NSW Police in relation to understanding their threat assessment, and the requirement for any additional security measures
- have put campus security on high alert
- have increased the number of security officers on campus, particularly visible patrols, which will continue until the risk decreases
- are monitoring social media closely to provide crucial information for threat assessments.

We have also communicated clearly and widely with students and staff to ensure their understanding of our expectations of behaviour, whilst also acknowledging the challenging circumstances impacting many in our community. A key element of these communications has been ensuring our community is aware of how the University is supporting and can support them. We have increased the counselling available and other forms of support for staff and students in the days and weeks ahead. The University leadership has met with student groups to hear their specific concerns and address them.

Further, I welcome the expansion of the Working Group that is advising Education Ministers on student and staff safety to include specific areas of concern to Jewish students. UNSW looks forward to supporting the work of the Group and working towards the shared goal of ensuring a safe campus for all our students and staff.

This is a dynamic situation, and we are reaching out to other universities for best practice approaches, acknowledging we all have unique communities, as well as keeping in close contact with relevant law enforcement to ensure we are kept abreast of the current situation. We would of course welcome, at any time, any concrete assistance that the Federal Government could provide us in dealing with the current situation.

If you would like to discuss this issue further, please do not hesitate to contact me directly or our Head of Government Relations, Mr Robin Schuck, on 0411 124 258 or r.schuck@unsw.edu.au.

Dear Minister

I am writing in response to your correspondence seeking advice about the measures that the University has in place to ensure the safety of students on our campuses, particularly in response to the events unfolding in the Middle East.

I firstly want to assure you that the safety and wellbeing of our community is our key priority. It is unacceptable for staff or students to be harmed or harassed in the course of their work or study at UQ.

To support this commitment, the University has frameworks and policies in place that prohibit all forms of unlawful discrimination, harassment, vilification and victimisation and clearly set out the expectations of our community with regards to behaviour and conduct.

In response to the events unfolding since the weekend, the University wrote to impacted students and staff at the start of the week, offering our condolences and providing details of the support available to them.

This included access to free and confidential counselling, support with managing work and study commitments and financial hardship help.

Our support teams in HR, student services, security and health safety and wellness have been briefed and are monitoring their respective areas. Additional safety and security assessments have been factored in as part of regular evaluations of authorised events on our campuses.

The immediate safety of students on campus is assisted by a number of safety measures, including 24/7 security, the UQ SafeZone mobile application, safety buses and security escorts.

The University provides a range of student community-building activities and events and works closely with the UQ student union (UQU) to help foster a positive, safe, and diverse student community.

The University has previously met with Mr Jason Steinberg, President of the Queensland Jewish Board of Deputies to discuss his concerns about isolated behaviours of some student groups in late 2021 and 2022. The UQU was part of these discussions and actions were agreed to better manage incidents that may occur at future student events.

Please let me know if you have any queries about our response.

Best wishes

CANBERRA ACT 2600

Dear Minister,

RE: UTS's policies and procedures to support student and staff safety

Thank you for your letter of 11 October 2023 seeking urgent advice regarding student and staff safety on university campuses in the wake of the escalation of violence between Hamas and Israel. UTS is appalled at the violence taking place in the region and we share the concerns expressed by the international community.

UTS condemns all violence, particularly that perpetrated against innocent civilians.

UTS has a long history of initiatives designed to combat racism. We know our schools and universities are not immune from racial discrimination and we are deeply committed to ensuring our university community – both on campus and online – is safe, inclusive and respectful for everyone.

For many years now we have worked hard with the student body on a range of awareness campaigns utilising videos, digital screens in prominent locations and news stories, that strongly reinforce UTS's no tolerance approach to racism within the student community. Produced as part of the 'Racism. It Stops With Me' campaign, these initiatives have been extremely well received by staff and students.

UTS are also partners with Addi Road's Racism Not Welcome campaign - with four signs around campus with the words: Racism Not Welcome as visible signs of UTS' commitment to anti-racism. We are the first university to install these signs on campus.

These very public campaigns are underpinned by a comprehensive system of policies and processes developed in consultation with our staff and students. The policy framework sets out the behaviours expected of our entire student body, including an emphasis on tolerance and respect, provides education on the cultural, legal and political settings we enjoy in Australia (including freedom of speech) and provides opportunities for students to report to us any concerns or issues. For example, at orientation sessions, all students (including international students) are informed of the processes for confidentially reporting threats or harassment.

We also work closely with our international students as soon as possible after they arrive at UTS, to make clear our expectations of them and their fellow students in a democratic, multicultural society. This training covers their ability to speak out in class on topics that may be controversial in their home country and their right and obligations regarding respecting fellow students and staff regardless of their background. UTS also delivers regular, tailored training sessions for students from countries whose governments are likely to be monitoring their activities, designed to help those students with their own security in cyberspace.

In terms of our staff, we offer bespoke as well as more general training which covers anti-racism/race literacy, cultural diversity and unconscious bias. Again, we make clear through a range of mechanisms including our policies and procedures that UTS has zero tolerance for racism and any incidents will be acted on quickly and firmly.

With reference to the current conflict, we recognise that members of our community who have family and friends in the region are likely to be dealing with acute stress and fear. In acknowledgement of this heightened awareness, staff have been enabled to extend grace periods or make alternative arrangements on assessments for students. We have also encouraged our staff and students who need support to seek help via our available support services. These include:

- Employee Assistance Program: we encourage staff impacted by the situation to connect with our confidential employee assistance program, TELUS Health. The service can also be used by immediate family members and is available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.
- UTS Counselling: Staff can refer domestic and international students to the UTS Counselling Service, and UTS Counselling has extended its hours to accommodate any increase in requests.
- TalkCampus: a 24/7 Crisis Support line. Students can access this by using the app, and the app will help them connect with a clinician on the phone. Students can choose the language they feel most comfortable with using and it is anonymous.
- UTS Multi-faith Chaplaincy: provides faith-based support to UTS students
- UTS security: available 24 hours, and Counselling liaise closely with them. Referrals received by Security after hours are triaged by them and if needed, they will consult with the Head of Counselling/Senior Clinical Psychologist.

We understand that people have strong and differing views about the conflict. UTS supports public discourse even around contentious matters, and we recognise that our staff and students have the right to express their opinions. We have reminded our community that any discussions be conducted in a respectful manner, free from discrimination.

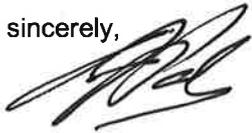

Given heightened global tensions, UTS is conducting extra security officer patrols to ensure a highly visible presence in university spaces and our security officers are supported by CCTV monitoring from a 24/7 operational control room.

The safety, health and wellbeing of our community are paramount, and UTS will continue to encourage our students and staff to access and engage with the supports we have in place if they need it.

You mention your recent meeting with the Australian Union of Jewish Students. I am advised that they have written to our Pro Vice Chancellor Social Justice and Inclusion who is in the process of working with them to respond to any specific concerns here at UTS. I am confident that we are doing everything we can to make sure our Jewish students feel safe and supported, as well as of course our Muslim students. I have also been pleased to see that so far, we have not seen an increase in unacceptable behaviour on our campuses. This does not mean we are complacent but it does suggest that the work we have done over many years to make clear the standards of behaviour we expect is having an impact.

Thank you for your interest in this important issue. If you require any further information then please do not hesitate to contact me on 0408 164 432.

Yours sincerely,

Dear Minister Clare

Thank you for your letter of 11 October regarding student and staff safety on university campuses in the wake of the attack by Hamas on Israel.

On Monday 9 October, the Chancellor, The Hon. Dr Steve Bracks AC and I wrote to the Victoria University (VU) community expressing support and compassion for any colleagues, students and extended family members who are impacted by the recent devastation. Ensuring their safety is of our utmost concern.

In particular, students and staff impacted were strongly encouraged to reach out to our Student Wellbeing Services and Employee Assistance Program, and students were reminded to download the VU Safe App.

VU Safer Community Program

Safer Community is a central point of enquiry, response, and support for concerning, threatening or inappropriate behaviour. They provide reporting support for complex and sensitive situations, including:

- Reporting portal: this enables impacted staff and students, whether victims or witnesses, to report incidents of bullying, harassment, sexual assault and harassment, discrimination, domestic violence, physical violence, threatening behaviours, and racism.
- VU Safe Mobile App: this includes access to services such as Emergency Alert (locate individual on a map in real-time); Safety Notifications; Request a Security Escort (to and from university buildings, public transport or to their vehicle); and Report a Concern (alert Campus Security and Safer Community of a safety issue).

To date, there have been no reports of any antisemitism or Islamophobia behaviour on any of our campuses in the past week.

We continue to closely monitor the situation and our Critical Incident Team is on alert to respond should any incidents occur. We are aware of some international students who have been impacted by this horrific event and we are ensuring they are being provided the necessary support.

VU has a deep and unwavering commitment to progressive inclusivity, to respectful relationships, and to diversity. As an institution based in Melbourne's West, one of the most culturally diverse regions in Victoria, we have students from 108 countries studying with us and a similar diversity reflected in our staff profile. It is a priority for VU that our students and staff feel welcomed and safe at VU, where they can thrive to study and work, and feel supported to realise their potential and aspirations.

This week's communications have cascaded to our students and staff to remind our VU Community that we do not tolerate racism, harassment, discrimination, or intimidation and directing them to our support services to assure and respond to personal safety matters, including how to report any of these behaviours.

Our Equality, Inclusion and Belonging team, who work closely with our Islamic Student Society have reached out to them to provide support and check on their wellbeing.

At VU we pursue safety, cultural inclusion and are actively anti-racist through the following plans, programs, and actions:

- The Cultural Inclusion Network of staff and students work together to identify and provide advice to the University about actions and planning.
- Brilliant Together: VU's Cultural Inclusion and Racial Equality Plan (to be launched 24 October) was co-created by the Cultural Inclusion Network and impacts every area of university life.
- VU is a pilot organisation in the Welcoming Universities national benchmark, setting a standard for cultural inclusion and anti-racism for the university sector.
- VU has created the innovative learning module, Together Against Racism, which all students and staff are required to complete. This was co-created by people of colour, First Nations and culturally diverse staff and students and has been shortlisted for a 2023 LearnX Award.

You are probably aware of the great work of VU's Sir Zelman Cowen Centre (SZCC), who works closely with the Muslim community, Jewish community and with leaders across other faiths. They recently hosted your colleague, the Attorney-General Mark Dreyfus, who spoke of Lawyers as Changemakers. The SZCC has several Adjunct Professors and Fellows who are Jewish and a staff profile that is primarily Muslim and we are ensuring they are feeling supported during this difficult time.

A Strong Policy Framework Committed to Assuring Inclusivity and Safety

At VU we have a strong policy framework that supports our commitment to inclusivity and the prevention of inappropriate behaviours relating to racism, harassment, discrimination, and intimidation, including:

- Anti-racism Policy
- Diversity, Inclusion and Equal Opportunity Policy
- Student Equity and Social Inclusion Policy.

These are further supported by our:

- Bullying Prevention and Management Policy
- Discrimination and Harassment Prevention and Management Policy
- Student Charter Policy.

With such diversity we recognise it is important to respect and accommodate the religious and spiritual beliefs of VU's community and this is supported by our Religious and Spiritual Observance Policy.

The situation in Israel and the Gaza Strip is deeply troubling. Many thousands of innocent people are suffering. More than ever, we need compassion and concern for those affected.

Victoria University remains committed to supporting our students and staff during this incredibly challenging period.

Yours sincerely,

Professor Adam Shoemaker
Vice-Chancellor

Dear Minister Clare,

I write in response to your letter dated 11 October 2023 (Ref: MC23-004764) requesting details on measures that are currently being taken by Western Sydney University to protect the safety of staff and students on our campuses in the wake of the current conflict in the Middle East.

Western Sydney University is proudly multicultural, with students and staff reflecting the extraordinary racial, ethnic, and religious diversity of the region we serve. Both in our written statements of value and purpose, and in our everyday actions, we actively promote an environment of mutual respect for others, no matter what their background. We stand firmly against prejudice, discrimination, or unconscious bias in our teaching, research, and community engagement.

Our strategic plan, Sustaining Success 2021 – 2026, strongly articulates the principle of equity, which underpins and drives our provision of support to students and staff from all backgrounds to ensure personal, academic and professional growth and success.

Western Sydney University supports the academic freedom of staff and students, and this extends to commentary on international affairs, geopolitics and the policies and actions of governments. This is consistent with the University's Charter of Academic Freedom, based on the French Model Code, which protects principled and informed open debate on all aspects of knowledge and society. Western Sydney University's Charter mandates that freedoms and rights be exercised responsibly and with civility and tolerance.

The University's Freedom of Speech Policy makes clear that these freedoms are not unfettered and that hate speech and other forms of vilification are not protected, and allows the University to proscribe access to facilities, and the hosting of visitors where there is a risk of hate speech or vilification. Any hate speech which vilifies or incites violence against a cultural or religious group is seen as particularly egregious by Western Sydney University.

In this context, we stand firmly against any expression of hateful antisemitism or Islamophobia.

In addition to our stance and policy on Freedom of Speech, Western Sydney University has implemented a number of measures specifically in response to the situation in Israel and Gaza:

- Communications from the Vice-Chancellor to staff and students expressing our deep concern on the conflict; providing advice on support services available; and reinforcing the University's values on freedom of speech and respectful discussion together with our non-tolerance for violence, racism, hate speech or intimidation.
- There has been a proactive outreach to Western Sydney Students. The University's Equity, Safety and Wellbeing Unit, which includes a multi-faith Chaplain team, counselling services, and inclusive community coordinators, are engaging with students, in particular the University's Palestinian students and small number of Israeli students, to ensure they are appropriately supported.
- The University's Campus Safety and Security (CSS) team have engaged with Crime Prevention and Multicultural Community Liaison Officers at our Local Area Police Commands, to establish clear lines of communication and support channels should safety concerns associated with the Israel-Gaza conflict arise on at any of our campuses.
- The University has increased security patrols across our campuses, including our student residences.
- A daily security report has been introduced to identify and report problematic behaviour or incidents of concern and is reviewed by both the Director of Campus Safety and senior executive.
- The University's CCS team and Office of General Counsel have conducted a workshop to discuss and test various scenarios which may arise and to identify strategies on how and when to approach an individual or group of people where there is potential for a safety concern. A key focus of this approach is balancing and managing liberties to freedom of speech with the need for appropriate intervention should a matter escalate and pose a risk to safety or adversely impact the study, teaching and learning activities of the University.
- The University has proactively been reviewing and guiding events proposed to be held on our campuses, ensuring that: (i) appropriate risk assessments are conducted based on the nature of the event, including consultation with Local Area Police Commands; (ii) due diligence is undertaken on invited speakers before an event is allowed to proceed. For example, the University's Muslim Students' Association has planned a community stall at our Campbelltown Campus on Thursday 19 October 2023 and will host a prayer meeting there on the afternoon of Friday 20 October 2023. Western Sydney University has proactively engaged with Muslim Community leaders and the Australian Muslim Association and are liaising with the Muslim Students' Association to ensure speakers support the event's peaceful intent. We will continue to review this and similar events to ensure the safety of our students and the community.
- To date, we have had one incident where a student was asked to leave campus due to disruptive behaviour relating to the conflict.

Western Sydney University will continue to monitor the situation in the Middle East and as required, will introduce additional response measures to protect our staff and students.

Yours sincerely

Professor Clare Pollock
Acting Vice-Chancellor and President

8. The number of applications received, granted and rejected for educators for professional development and paid practicums; the total amount granted to date, the details of centres provided with funding, the amount paid to each centre and the number of staff at each centre funded

Responses

1. There have been 2,520,609 total visits to the Starting Blocks website between the website's launch in February 2022 and 29 May 2024.
2. Costs for the work to upgrade Starting Blocks were absorbed within existing funding, allocated for ongoing maintenance and enhancements of the website under the Better Child Care Regulation package, being $467,496 for 2023-24.
3. In the 2022-23, the department issued 6 infringement notices to providers who had not reported fees. In 2023-24 (as at 31 March 2024), the department had issued 13 infringement notices to providers who had not reported fees.
4. In Home Care data by state, 1 July – 31 December 2023

State	Children	Families	Services	Total subsidy
NSW	490	270	11	$3,867,000
VIC	780	450	7	$7,511,000
QLD	500	270	8	$4,656,000
SA	80	50	<5	$484,000
WA	130	70	<5	$843,000
TAS	0	0	0	$0
ACT	<5	<5	<5	$29,000
Australia	1,970	1,090	34	$17,390,000

- a) The analysis is based on the location of the head office of the In Home Care (IHC) service, rather than where the care was delivered. This is why there is no data outlined for TAS or NT, although there is likely to be families using IHC in these regions. Usage for these jurisdictions will be counted in other states. Similarly, data for the remaining states may include usage from multiple jurisdictions, as IHC services can operate in more than one jurisdiction.
- b) Due to rounding the sum of component parts may not equal the Total.

- c) The department has provided counts of IHC services rather than providers as this aligns with departmental reporting.
 - d) The number of children, families and services in the ACT are less than 5, so these have been marked <5 to ensure privacy for individuals.
5. See In Home Care data table at Response to Question 4 for number of services. Data for the number of educators was not available within the timeframe provided.
 6. See In Home Care data table at Response to Question 4.
 7. The IHC funding is $5 million each year (over the forward estimates), which funds five IHC Support Agencies to assess families' eligibility for IHC, manage the delivery of IHC, and recommend the allocation of places to approved services. CCS, based on a family's entitlement, is paid to the approved IHC service providing care.
 8. Applications and Rejections for paid practicum and professional development funding:
 - 1,327 applications were received by the department
 - 752 applications have been funded to date
 - 42 applications are being considered under Quarter 4 2023-24
 - 533 applications received did not receive funding due to reasons including:
 - Application was withdrawn by provider;
 - Provider or relevant service's CCS was cancelled between point of application completion and consideration of application.

Total amount granted to-date (up to and incl Quarter 3 2023-24) under the program

2023-24	Paid Practicum Funding	Professional Development Funding	Total Funding

- The department has partnered with First Languages Australia (FLA), the peak body for First Nations languages, to support the design and implementation of this measure. FLA undertook an expression of interest process, which closed on 28 February 2024. From this, FLA is working with respondents to develop community language plans and organisations will be invited to apply for grant funding. The department is assessing grant applications as received.

Source: Data sourced from latest available provider progress reports (July 2023 – January 2024).

Notes: The number of scholarships awarded may differ from the original allocation to particular providers, for example, where an original awardee is no longer eligible, or where providers request variations to meet changing demand in their region or due to factors beyond their control (such as the COVID-19 pandemic).

Destination Australia: Scholarship funding awarded by the Minister, Rounds 1-5
