To voters in the Division of Braddon.

I strongly encourage you to vote in the Braddon by-election on Saturday. There will be 65 polling places open across the north-west and west coast of Tasmania from 8am until 6pm. If you have already cast an early vote, you do not need to vote again.

Voting is our right and responsibility. Participating in an electoral event is important and compulsory. Our collective choices during an election have an impact on the future of our nation.

The Australian Electoral Commission has been working hard to enhance the voting experience by increasing services and improving the way our polling places work. You will be able to stop into your local polling place and cast your vote on by-election day more quickly and smoothly than ever.

To make sure your vote counts, remember to number every box on the ballot paper from 1 to 8 in the order of your choice.

Visit www.aec.gov.au for more information on the location of polling places in your area, and to check the rules or practise voting to make sure your vote will count on by-election day.

Sincerely,

David Molnar
