Detention Population

Question: A list of all locations that have been designated places of detention being used by the Department for the purpose of accommodating IMAs since November 2007, including:

- i) the date at which each centre commenced operations;
- ii) the capital and fit-out cost prior to occupancy;
- iii) the accommodation capacity of each centre, and any subsequent change to that capacity, and the relevant dates to which that change in capacity applied
- iv) A break down of accommodation capacity, and any changes to that capacity, including the relevant dates for those changes as follows:
  - (1) single room accommodation for single persons,
  - (2) shared room accommodation for single persons,
  - (3) shared accommodation for families,
  - (4) dormitory room accommodation for single persons in permanent or demountable buildings,
  - (5) dormitory room accommodation in marquees for single persons,
  - (6) other (please specify);

Answer:

- i) The table below provides details of all facilities used to accommodate Irregular Maritime Arrivals (IMAs) since November 2007, including the date IMAs were first accommodated there.

* Some of the facilities used to accommodate Irregular Maritime Arrivals since November 2007 were operational well before that date (e.g. Villawood IDC was established in Sydney in 1976). Therefore, in the above table, "date facility commenced operations" means the date Irregular Maritime Arrivals were first accommodated in this facility since November 2007.

The Alternative Places of Detention listed in the above table do not include hospital accommodation used for medical treatment, schools used to educate school-aged children and short-term accommodation used to house Irregular Maritime Arrivals in exceptional circumstances (e.g. overnight hotel accommodation used during transfer between facilities where flight schedules have changed).

** Virginia Palms was used to accommodate a small number of IMAs from 15 March 2010 however full operation of the facility did not commence until 17 September 2010

The following pie chart shows that as at 22 August 2008 there were 217 people (about 77 per cent of the total immigration detention population) who had arrived in Australia lawfully and were then taken into immigration detention for either overstaying their visa or breaching their visa conditions, resulting in a visa cancellation. The number of people in immigration detention who had arrived unlawfully by air or boat as at 22 August 2008 was 47, representing about 17 per cent of the total immigration detention population.

The following pie chart shows that as at 22 August 2008 there were 129 people who had not applied for a protection visa while in immigration detention and 88 people who had their protection visa application refused. A further 34 were seeking a merits-based or judicial review of a negative decision on their initial application for a protection visa or on an application remitted for decision by the RRT or the courts, and 32 were awaiting a decision from the Department on their protection visa application. These 32 had applied for protection after having been taken into immigration detention. This compares with some 2,100 people who in recent years have applied for protection while living in the community and who remain lawfully in the community on a bridging visa as they await a decision on their visa application.

DETENTION STATISTICS SUMMARY

Detention and Offshore Services Division, DIAC - As at 29 February 2008

As at 29 February 2008, there were 475 people in immigration detention, including 44 in community detention. Of these 475 people, 21 were illegal foreign fishers (IFFs); 16 illegal foreign fishers were in the Northern Immigration Detention Centre, four were in prison serving custodial sentences, and one illegal foreign fisher minor was accommodated in a private apartment. Most of the IFFs remain in immigration detention for only a short period of time, pending their removal from Australia.

Of the 475 people in immigration detention, 7 were unauthorised boat arrivals and 46 were unauthorised air arrivals.

There were 33 ships' crew who arrived without a valid visa and were restricted on board (a form of immigration detention) while their vessel is in port.

In immigration detention 80 people are seeking asylum or a merits or judicial review of a decision in relation to their application for a protection visa. Of these, 20 people were waiting for DIAC to decide a protection visa application outcome. The majority of asylum seekers arrive in Australia with a valid visa and live in the community while they pursue their claims.
