

The registration fee for recreational model aircraft should be kept as low as possible. Preferably nil.

Recreational registration could be subsidised by commercial fees.

Those of us who build and fly model aircraft have never caused any problem. Consumer standard drones will fall out of fashion leaving only enthusiasts and self builders. And we'll end up paying for a threat that doesn't exist.

Other countries charge-

UK - UKP9

USA - US$5

Canada - CAN$5

These fees are realistically low. If the fee is much higher, most will not pay it and the registration system will become even more of a farce.
