

Truth in food labelling is important to me as a consumer, especially when the labels alert me to a product that is causing damage to habitats.

I fully support the labelling of palm oil on food products as I have a right to know how my consumption habits are affecting the environment. Ultimately, I would like to see packaging labelled with 'sustainably sourced palm oil' or 'unsustainably sourced palm oil' so rather than not purchasing anything with palm oil in it, I am able to see where the ingredients are sourced from.

Thank you.
