The Australian Border Force (ABF) does not hold data on:

- The number of travellers that arrived into Australia and entered mandatory quarantine under state and territory health arrangements.
- The immediate family members that may have returned to Australia with Australian citizens, permanent residents and New Zealand Citizens that usually reside in Australia.
- The number of diplomats accredited to Australia (holding a subclass 966 visa). The Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade are the responsible agency for accrediting foreign diplomats in Australia. The figures in table 1 represent travellers who entered Australia on a Diplomatic (International Relations) (subclass 955) visa.

It is not possible to provide detailed data in response to part E, K and L without a manual examination of individual records which would involve an unreasonable diversion of resources. The ABF however provides the following available data to assist the Committee:

- In response to part E, the number of travellers who entered Australia on a Business Innovations and Investment (subclass 188) visa.
- In response to part K, the number of military personnel who arrived via a Special Purpose Military Travel Authority.
- In response to part L, the number travellers who entered Australia on student visas and were aged between 16 to 20 years.

In response to part I, to provide the number of people who arrived and were non-citizens sponsored by an employer to work in Australia in an occupation on the Priority Migrant Skilled Occupation List would require manual examination of individual records which would involve an unreasonable diversion of resources

In response to part M the data available to the ABF does not differentiate the travelers that arrived into Australia for compassionate and compelling reasons.

In response to part F, G, H and J the ABF does not hold data that meets this request.
