

We are already over regulated. It is absurd to think that all society problems can be solved by making new laws. This simply cause more problems great for the legal eagles wallets but a waste of time for the rest of humanity. The real problem lies in our moral and ethical desitagrations. Which can only be turned around by humanity turning back to their Lord and maker. Simply no Jesus no hope. We have a perfectly good manual for this in fact the Westminster system was fashioned on it. The Bible perhaps the politition should be the first to make a public example, read gods word and rely less on mans. Peoples hidden agendas should be called what they are sin. And laws that contradict the Bible are simply that sin. These bills if they become laws will not help but hinder society that is already in moral decline.
