

I would like to show my disagreement regarding the termination of existing visa applications. It is not fair for the existing visa holders whether they are on bridging visa or Temporary Residents. These people have been struggling from past 2 or 3 years investing everything they have to build a lucrative career. It would be a set back to them as this is the only time in the whole life where people concentrate on their future. By implementing this cap, their dream would be shattered as they would be left with no money at all in their hands. Please put yourself into their shoes and try to think from their perspective. Thankyou.