

RE: Migration Amendment (Visa Capping) Bill 2010

Dear Sir or Madam,

Beer is Australia's one greatest legacy to the world. However more importantly, cultural diversities that make Australia the most attractive country that offers a "Fair Go" to difference ethnics of people who come to hunt their dreams and make it happened. As a migrant myself, I have always believed in those values and proud of them.

I have heard about people being dishonest and using bogus documentation in order to obtain their residential status to stay in Australia. Those people are fake, will not add any values what so ever to the nation and do not deserve to call Australia as their home.

I am currently sponsoring my brother along with his wife and two little kids to give them the same opportunity and to have a bright future that they would not have otherwise. They have fallen in love with the country for the past couple of years. Especially the kids, they are accustomed and enjoy Australian soil as much as other Australia kids. For them Australia is their home. They are genuine migrants who solely try to raise their family in this great land.

I believe they are more families and individual applicants out there who are waiting patiently for their residential status to be granted, but instead their applications have been held pending due to some irresponsible applicants who have tried to find a short cut and corrupted the system to their own benefits in order to obtain the residential status.

In line with Australian value, "Fair Go" I would like to the following there points to be considered:

- Genuine applicants who have abide the law and lived to the Australian values should not be disqualified without any consideration, just because of many idiots decided to illegally breach the systems and disadvantage Australia in many ways.
- The Kids who have lived in Australia as the result of pending visa status. Many of these kids are the futures of Australia. They have mingled, and emotionally attached to their OZ friends. Can the Minister please close your eyes for two seconds and consider how much emotional distress it would be for them if they have to pack their suit case and start all over again from the bottom. Do these kids deserve this harsh punishment like those who are corrupting the systems?
- Real workers who are working day to night, to food to the table while at the same time waiting to hear a good news regarding their residential visa application. These people have faith in Australian systems and willing to genuinely work and follow every lawful procedure in obtaining their visa.

I do not believe that we are Australians should punish the entire group of people without any considerations just because few people within the group disregard the laws and principles that we held high. Fair go Australians, fair go....
