

To the Senate Enquiry

Please acknowledge that we need to transition to renewable, non CO2 producing sources of energy. Wind farms are a proven technology that can play a significant role in the mix of renewable options.

Wind farms are set up in many places in Europe without major disruption to communities. Australia already has controls in place for where wind farms can be located and these do not need to be extended.

We need to do more to encourage renewables to play a larger part in our power generation.

Yours faithfully
Gabriella Hont