MEDIA RELEASE
Senate Community Affairs References Committee

Senate inquiry into Newstart and related payments
Date for submissions extended to 30 September 2019

Issue date: 13 September 2019

The Senate Community Affairs References Committee has extended the date for submissions to its inquiry into Newstart and related payments to 30 September 2019.

'The committee is seeking submissions from a wide range of people, including recipients of Newstart and other income support payments,' said the Committee Chair, Senator Rachel Siewert.

'The committee wants to ensure that people have enough time to prepare their submissions so we have extended the date', Senator Siewert said. 'If you cannot get your submission to the committee by this date, please contact the secretariat,' Senator Siewert said.

Making a submission

The committee welcomes submissions from people receiving income support payments or others affected by the payments system, however, we would like to note that the committee does not have the ability to advise on, advocate for, or take action on individual cases.

If you would like to make a submission you may find it helpful to read the guide to making a submission available on the Senate website: Preparing a submission to an inquiry.

If you require any special arrangements to enable you to make a submission to the inquiry, or if you have questions, or need more time to write your submission, please contact the Community Affairs secretariat.

Further information about the inquiry, including published submissions and hearing programs, is available on the committee website: www.aph.gov.au/senate_ca.

Inquiry Terms of Reference

The adequacy of Newstart and related payments and alternative mechanisms to determine the level of income support payments in Australia, with specific reference to:

- (a) consideration of what constitutes an acceptable standard of living in Australia, including the cost of safe and secure housing;
- (b) the labour market, unemployment and under-employment in Australia, including the structural causes of long term unemployment and long term reliance on Newstart;
- (c) the changing nature of work and insecure work in Australia;
- (d) the appropriateness of current arrangements for supporting those experiencing insecure employment, inconsistent employment and precarious hours in the workforce;
- (e) the current approach to setting income support payments in Australia;
- (f) the impact of the current approach to setting income support payments on older unemployed workers, families, single parents, people with disability, jobseekers, students, First Nations peoples, people from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds, people living in regional and remote areas, and any others affected by the process;
- (g) the impact of geography, age and other characteristics on the number of people receiving payments, long term unemployment and poverty;
- (h) the adequacy of income support payments in Australia and whether they allow people to maintain an acceptable standard of living in line with community expectations and fulfil job search activities (where relevant) and secure employment and training;
- (i) the economic cost of long-term unemployment, underemployment, poverty, inequality and inadequate income support payments;
- (j) the economic benefits – including job creation, locally and nationally – of increasing and improving income support payments and supports, and decreasing poverty and inequality;
- (k) the relationship between income support payment levels, minimum wages and wage stagnation in Australia and other comparable economies;
- (l) the interactions with other payments and services, including the loss of any increased payments through higher rents and costs;
- (m) the cost and fiscal sustainability of any changes;
- (n) the relative merits of alternative investments in health, education, housing and other programs to improve outcomes;
- (o) other countries' approaches to setting income support payments, minimum wages and awards;
- (p) other bodies that set payments, minimum wages and awards in Australia;
- (q) the role of independent and expert decision-making in setting payments; and
- (r) any other related matters.
