

Hi,

Palm oil cropping and production continues to be one of the greatest environmental threats in Asia.

More and more Australians are asking that they are informed before making a purchasing choice.

To have a label that is clear in naming Palm Oil as an ingredient or highlighting that the Palm Oil is from a sustainable farm would allow Australian consumers a choice. That choice could or may limit the damage currently being made in Sth East Asia forests and environs which support species such as Orangutans.

Thanks
