

Hello,

I'm not sure what sort of submissions you require but I just wanted to voice my opinion that ticket scalping should be policed, in particular on online auction websites such as eBay. It is rife throughout eBay and eBay themselves cannot do anything to police it.

I am a keen event/concert goer and I get extremely annoyed when I want to purchase tickets direct from the ticketing agency (eg ticketek) at the very start of the ticket sale, only to find that the good tickets have already been snapped up and are already on eBay for triple their price! That is extremely unfair and frustrating. A lot of the times you can see the exact seat number that is up for offer and I believe that one should be able to file a report with an agency and have the tickets confiscated from the seller along with a fine. The current laws need to be looked at and changed.

Hope this is what you were after.

Thanks
Mathew Kirk
