

How many commercial trucks are registered in New Zealand?

144,148 registered heavy trucks (over 3.5 tonnes). This data may include vehicles for non-commercial use.

What is the average age of vehicles in the New Zealand fleet (broken down by vehicle class)?

Please see the below graphs and classifications

Figure 2.4 : Light fleet average age

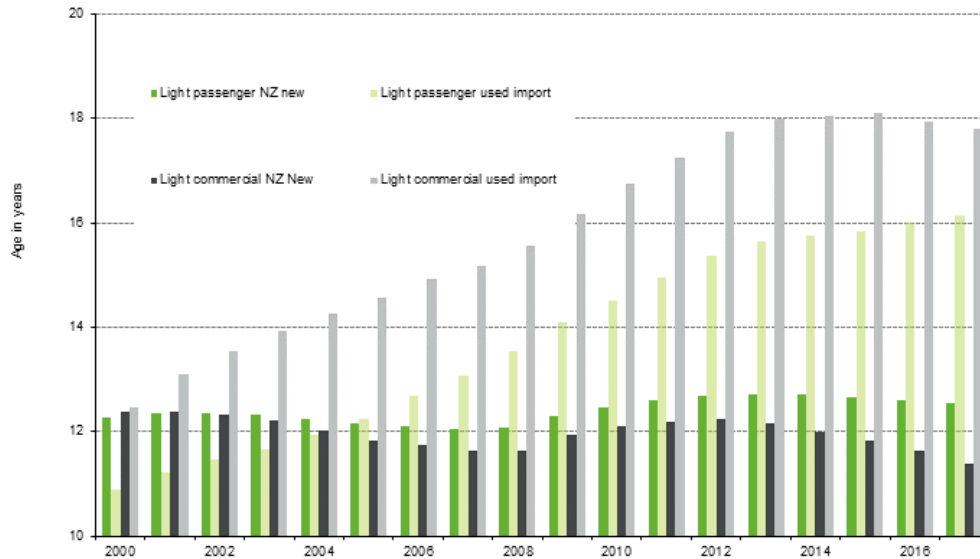

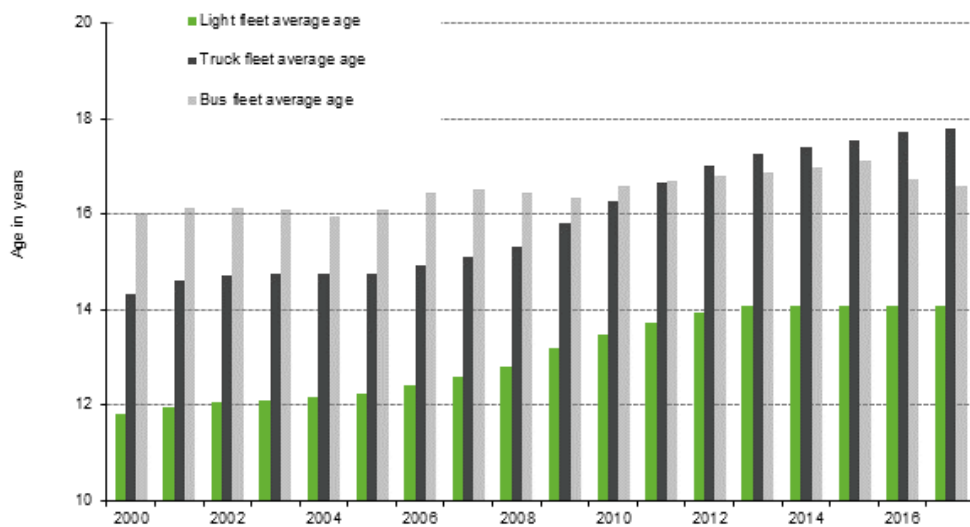

Figure 2.3 : Fleet average age

Please take a look at <https://www.transport.govt.nz/assets/Uploads/Vehicle-Type-Categorisation-20180725.pdf> to find out our vehicle type categorisation.

The key points to note:

- (1) our vehicle categorisation is based on vehicle body type, rather than on their actual use or ownership.
- (2) There is no clear cut about household and commercial use of vehicles.

For more information please see The NZ Ministry of Transport's 2017 annual fleet stats (<https://www.transport.govt.nz/assets/Uploads/Research/Documents/Fleet-reports/NZ-Vehicle-Fleet-Graphs-2017-WEB.xlsx>)

What types of warranties and statutory protections exist for owners of imported second hand vehicles in New Zealand?

The Consumer Guarantees Act (CGA) means the vehicle should be:

- of acceptable quality – reasonable in look and finish, durable and safe
- fit for purpose – either generally or to meet a specific purpose you told the dealer before you bought the vehicle
- as described – match the description in advertising or anything the dealer said at the time.

You can seek a repair, replacement or refund if the dealer doesn't comply with their legal obligations, or the car doesn't meet one of the CGA guarantees.

For more information see: <https://www.consumerprotection.govt.nz/help-product-service/cars/finding-the-right-car/buying-car-from-dealer/>