

I received this email which I think meets the definition of misleading material.

The statement,

"We are voting 'no' to forcing individuals to act against their conscience, voting 'no' to exposing our kids to sexualised content from a young age, and to surrendering our freedoms of speech, religion, expression, and more."

is misleading.

Individuals are not being forced to do anything, not even complete the survey.

A 'no' vote will not expose children to sexualised content (their statement is deliberately leading people to believe that same sex marriage and the state's Safe Schools programs are linked).

There is no way legalising same sex marriage could affect freedom of speech and religious expression. To say this in campaign material is deliberate false information to scare people into voting 'no'.

A Message from Sophie York

Dear Doreen,

What a week! This vote is not solely on the issue of 'same-sex marriage' – it's about making marriage

Burying this in deceptive language, our opponents try to sell their campaign as one of equality, safety,

In truth, it is the 'no' campaign that actually stands for equality, that wants to make schools safe, and

We are voting 'no' to forcing individuals to act against their conscience, voting 'no' to exposing our kids and to surrendering our freedoms of speech, religion, expression, and more.

On that note, don't forget: over the next week, all donations will be matched by a generous donor, will contribute anything you can – every amount counts double!

I am so grateful for all your tremendous support, past, present and future. Keep holding these important
