

Ladies & Gentlemen:

Congratulations on your decision to look carefully at the true costs and benefits of wind energy. In the US, much has been learned about wind energy during the past 3 years. This new information demonstrates that the wind industry and its supporters have greatly overstated the environmental, energy, and economic benefits of wind energy and greatly understated the its adverse impacts. They have misled the public, media and government officials.

I'm attaching one of many papers that have been produced during the past three years that have helped expose the facts about the true costs and benefits of wind energy. This one deals with the high cost and low value of electricity from wind. I hope it will be useful to you.

Clearly, wind energy has been greatly "oversold," resulting in great damage, misdirection of capital investments, transfer of wealth from ordinary taxpayers and electric customers to a few "wind farm" owners. Hopefully, you will be able to avoid making the same mistakes in your beautiful country.

Glenn R. Schleede