

Dear Sir/Madam

I wish to express my concern with regard to the proposed anti discrimination bill 2012.

This proposal - in it's dignified political package sounds effective.

However, I feel it's blind-folding the foundation that has always celebrated and embraced "the Australian way" - a kindred Christian mateship, always encouraging a freedom of speech, to express our feelings and opinions in a dignified manner.

The proposed amendment also holds the grave possibility of compromising our Christian heritage - eventually blurring the lines as to the solid Christian foundation this country has been proudly founded upon.

Raewyn Borlase