

Hai , My this view is Regarding Migration Amendment (visa capping) bill 2010

Please for God sake be fair with people who are already in Australia waiting for decisions of their application. Don't force these applicants to commit suicide by sending them back. Try to understand feeling of those thousand people who are dreaming for better life in Australia, and considering Australia as their home. Consider yourself in those applicant's situation, may be then we can understand this truth that how hard it is for them. Respect their precious time and money which they spent in Australia and think about all scarifies they have done. Now try to be fair and consider these applicants as human beings and understand their situations. Don't let them commit suicide by passing this bill

Kind Regards
