

Hello, Mr/Ms

This letter is from a international student who is caring about the changes in migration all these days.

I have been here only a year, and I start to like this country. The blue sky makes me feel very comfortable. And the price of house is more reasonable. I even intend to get my drive licence here and buy a car in the near vacation. This is a brand new place to start fighting for my life. I want to work here.

Besides, I am studying accounting in Monash University. As you may notice, accounting system differs from Australia and China, which indicates that if I choose to work in China, the education here would be meaningless.

Thus, I am very frustrated to see all the tightening policies these days. If the visa capping is passed, I would be very pessimistic about the future that I have planned in my head, as the minister of migration would have the power to fail me even do not need to explain the reasons to me. And I sincerely hope the regulations for migration would not bring more significant changes in future!

In the end, I would like to highlight it again that I do not want Migration Amendment (Visa Capping) to be passed.

Kind regard,
