

It is concerning to me that in the face of climate change where we are now experiences more and more record topping high temperature conditions, that our government will persist in supporting the coal industry. I am opposed to the increased mining of coal for export. I do not believe this aids in the global preparedness to tackle extreme weather conditions or climate change.

Jo-Anne Seater