Parliamentary inquiry into a better family law system to support and protect those affected by family violence

Issue date: 17 October 2017

Family violence inquiry hears from Professor Patrick Parkinson AM

The Parliamentary Inquiry into a better family law system to support and protect those affected by family violence will return to Canberra to hear from Professor Patrick Parkinson AM on Tuesday 17 October. Professor Parkinson has been the author of numerous reports to government on the family law system and developed recommendations for its reform.

The Chair of the Committee, Sarah Henderson MP, said “Professor Parkinson is an eminent Australian with a wealth of experience in family law. He has made a number of recommendations for the reform of the family law system, including avenues to reduce the adversarial nature of family law proceedings. The hearing is an opportunity for the Committee to take expert evidence on the family law system and how it might be reformed to ensure the safety of families experiencing family violence.”

The Committee will also hear from the Attorney-General’s Department and the Department of Social Services at the public hearing. A detailed program for the hearing is available from the Inquiry website.

Public hearing details:

4.45pm (approx) to 6.30 pm, Tuesday 17 October
Committee Room 2R1, Parliament House, Canberra

4.45 pm Professor Patrick Parkinson AM

5.30 pm Attorney-General’s Department; Department of Social Services

Audio and video footage of the hearing will be streamed live at aph.gov.au/live and will also be made available from the inquiry website at a later date.

Members of the public are welcome to attend the hearing however there will be limited seating available.
