Dear Committee Secretary and Senators,

The Australian manufacturing industry

I am a concerned Australian citizen that has been watching our country struggle to source a variety of goods that maintain our standard of living due to the disruptions in the global supply chain. It is obvious that Australia's capacity to locally supply goods that aren't derived from primary industry is basically non-existent. Both major parties have a history of introducing policy that has stymied this country's manufacturing that is now costing our people and destabilising the economy.

We have an opportunity to learn from the past 18 months and start reversing some of the policy that has led to countless jobs and businesses being lost over the past four decades. Australia ranks embarrassingly low in diversity of economy, focussing only on primary industry; we could be using our access to local resources to further our nations interests and at the same time provide economic and material security to our citizens.

With strong leadership we have the opportunity to bring great wealth to this nation by encouraging local engineers, producers, entrepreneurs to build a manufacturing capability from within.

Do the right thing for Australia's future, support a great expansion of our economy by encouraging diverse manufacturing ventures that will lead the world in innovation. We have everything we need to do this. It just takes the courage to break from the decades of globalist thinking that is slowly strangling the Lucky Country.

All will prosper, there is no down-side.

Kind Regards,

Adam Kommer
