

Funding CSIRO

The CSIRO has been a major source of wealth for Australia and Australians for decades.

Scientific research is essential to ensure the safety and well-being of Australians in an increasingly complex world.

I urge the Senate to identify all available evidence that will persuasively explain to the Government why it is essential to increase long term secure funding streams. This responsibility to future generations must not be abrogated.