Question

Ms Faithfull: The way in which the VET portion of the national planning level has been applied to the VET sector is to recognise that there are different types of providers. We've developed an approach based on four main provider classifications. Public providers including technical and further education, TAFE institutes—will be allocated indicative new overseas student commencement limits equal to their 2023 new overseas student commencement levels. Providers whose international students were less than 80 per cent of the total enrolments in 2023 will be allocated indicative new overseas student commencement limits that are equal to the department's projection of their 2024 new commencements. Providers whose international students were 80 per cent or more of total enrolments in 2023 will be allocated indicative new overseas student commencement limits that are a proportionate share of the remaining new commencements, so based on each provider's share of 2023 new overseas student commencements. Those that have entered the market in 2024—and there are about 87 providers—will be allocated a 2025 limit that is equal to the forecast of their new overseas student commencements for 2024. Those with no enrolments to date will be allocated a limit of 30 new commencements. This number is consistent with the historical average enrolment level for new providers in their first year of registration, which is around 24.

To your question around reduction, we're anticipating a reduction for those specialist international providers with 80 per cent or more international students. I'll check the data in terms of the other types of providers. It's probably worth me saying as well that we have just in the last couple of hours put those letters out to all of those providers, which gives them their indicative number based on that methodology. We needed to wait for the NCVER data that was under embargo until 9.30 this morning. Now we've started to push all of those letters out, so in terms of giving clarity to individual providers we're hoping now, with that communication and then with further engagement, they'll start to have that clarity around their numbers.

Senator HENDERSON: Could we have those letters tabled, please.

Ms Faithfull: Yes.

CHAIR: If you could, that'd be great—

Senator HENDERSON: Along with the private providers. Just as a housekeeping issue—sorry, Chair, to interrupt—the tabled document only had the public university student cap applications, not the private providers. Could we have that as well, please.

Ms Faithfull: I will need to check this question around the commercial privacy of those providers, but if we can find a way to provide that detailed number in terms of the implications for competitive advantage around their international student numbers—Senator HENDERSON: That's actually a matter for the committee, so we would ask for that, please.

CHAIR: It could be a public immunity claim, or we can keep it in camera and the reasons

why. There are those options, similar to what we spoke about before. With the newly approved education providers in the future, what are the contingency plans? Ms Faithfull: Essentially for 2025 the number of student commencements that we have for the VET sector is 94,500. If I take those categories: specialist international providers, 61,505 new commencements are being allocated to that type of classified provider; to the nonspecialist international providers, 18,953 new student commencements will be allocated; to the public providers, including TAFE—of which there are 27—5,482 commencements will be allocated; and to the new providers we're allocating 4,560. Those are the ones already registered. We're keeping a buffer of 4,000 commencements for those that are in the process of registration, based on the average that I mentioned before in terms of apportioning around 30 commencements to each of those providers that are coming through the registration process, based on the historical average of around 24, per year, international students for new providers coming into the system.

Answer

The Department of Employment and Workplace Relations notes that it was asked to table the letters sent to VET providers and the provider limits for private providers.

Letters sent to individual VET providers were unique to the provider only in terms of the addressee information and the indicative provider limit for 2025.

To assist the Committee, the department is providing the following documents in responding to the Committee's request:

- Attachment A Letter to provider
- Attachment B VET sector provider limits for 2025

Attachment A is the template used for the individual letters sent to the VET providers listed in Attachment B.

Attachment B provides the list of those VET providers registered on the Commonwealth Register of Institutions and Courses for Overseas Students (CRICOS) that the department wrote to advising of their indicative limits for 2025.

Salutation [PRINCIPAL NAME]

[ABC Training]

Dear [PRINCIPAL NAME]

On 27 August 2024, I wrote about the Government's announcement to implement an annual National Planning Level (NPL) for 2025 of 270,000 new overseas commencements. If you did not receive the earlier letter, I apologise, all information is available on the department's website. The NPL will commence from 1 January 2025 to manage growth in the international education sector. I am now writing to provide you with further information about the Government's approach to implementing the NPL in the VET sector, and your indicative provider limit for 2025.

The NPL will support a managed international education system that is designed to grow sustainably over time, by establishing the number of new international students able to commence their education onshore in Australia in any year. These arrangements are, of course, subject to the passage of the Education Services for Overseas Students Amendment (Quality and Integrity) Bill 2024 (ESOS Bill).

There are some exemptions; school students, higher degree by research students, standalone English-language courses (ELICOS) and other categories of students (listed at Attachment A), the VET component of the NPL is 94,500 new overseas student commencements (the definition of a new overseas student commencements is at Attachment A).

The Government will distribute the 94,500 new overseas student commencements within the VET sector in a way that encourages greater diversity in the sector and promotes a quality student experience.

Leveraging the latest NCVER and PRISMS data, provider limits in 2025 are based on three main provider classifications with the following approach applied:

- Public providers including Technical and Further Education (TAFE) institutes will be allocated indicative new overseas student commencement limits aligned to their 2023 new commencement levels.
- 2. Providers whose international students were less than 80 per cent of total enrolments in 2023 will be allocated indicative new overseas student commencement limits that are equal to the department's projection of their 2024 new commencements.
- 3. Providers whose international students were 80 per cent or more of total enrolments in 2023 will be allocated indicative new overseas student commencement limits that are a proportionate share of the remaining new commencements.

Providers that did not have any enrolment data in 2023, but have for 2024, will receive an indicative limit based on an estimate of the provider's 2024 new commencements. Newly registered providers that have not had any international activity in 2024 to date would receive a standard new provider limit of 30 new commencements, based on the historical average enrolment level of providers in their first year of delivery to international students.

Your indicative limit is provided at Attachment B. Note that your final limit is subject to passage of the ESOS Bill, and will be confirmed with the issuance of the final determination by the Minister for Education. This limit only applies to new overseas commencing students and does not restrict you from enrolling domestic students or continuing to teach and train international students studying at your institution (subject to visa requirements).

The NPL is intended to safeguard the quality of Australia's international education offerings and support a positive student experience for all students which in turn supports a long-term strategic and sustainable future for our international education sector.

Further information about the NPL is provided at Attachment A. Updates on the Government's approach to managing the international VET sector will be announced on the Department's website. Enquiries related to your 2025 limit can be directed to Department of Employment and Workplace Relations by email to StrategicFramework@dewr.gov.au.

Yours sincerely

Natalie James

Attachment A

The National Planning Level and indicative limits

The National Planning Level (NPL) is the number of new overseas student commencements for a year. It will be set annually as a decision of Government and announced in the Budget. The NPL will be divided between the higher education and VET sectors. From these sector levels the Department of Education (using a Sector Planning Level for the higher education sector) and the Department of Employment and Workplace Relations (using a Sector Planning Level for the VET sector) will manage provider limits.

For the VET sector, the overall planning level will be divided between public providers and other VET providers. The allocation for each VET provider is an individual limit, with this allocation equivalent to the 'total enrolment limit' under the Education Services for Overseas Students Amendment (Quality and Integrity) Bill 2024 (ESOS Bill).

The limit is the number of new overseas student commencements for a provider in a calendar year. A student will count as a new commencement when they are onshore and start their first non-exempt course at their first provider, and each time a student changes to a non-exempt course at a different provider. Students who move between non-exempt courses at a provider, or commence a subsequent course at the same provider, will not be counted as a new overseas student commencement.

The Government will exempt certain categories of courses and students from the NPL, including:

- School courses (primary and secondary)
- Standalone English-language courses (ELICOS)
- Higher degrees by research
- Non-award courses
- All Australian Government sponsored scholars and visa holders, and key partner foreign government scholarship holders
- Students sponsored by the Departments of Foreign Affairs and Trade, and Defence
- Students in an Australian transnational education twinning arrangement
- Students from the Pacific and Timor Leste.

Implementation of limits

To develop indicative limits for 2025, the Department of Employment and Workplace Relations considered your and the sector's circumstances. The indicative limit has been developed using data from the Provider Registration and International Student Management System (PRISMS) and the National Centre for Vocational Education Research (NCVER). The determination of final limits is subject to passage of the ESOS Bill, and the issuance of the final determination by the Minister for Education.

The Department of Education is making changes to PRISMS so that it is ready to support providers to monitor and manage their limits and avoid non-compliance. Providers will have access to webinars and factsheets to support administrative staff using the updated system.

New Overseas Student Commencements

- International commencements and new overseas student commencements count different things.
  - o A commencement is recorded every time a student starts a new course.
  - A new overseas student commencement is recorded when an international student is onshore and starts their first non-exempt course at their first provider and each time a student changes to a non-exempt course at a different provider.
- A new overseas student commencement will count towards the limit from the actual date of commencement on the Confirmation of Enrolment (CoE).
- It is proposed that CoEs that are cancelled before the actual commencement date, or report non-commencement within the legislated reporting period, will not count towards the limit.
  - PRISMS will provide a running count of the commenced CoE limit, and CoEs expected to add to the limit within the relevant calendar year, to assist providers in managing their limit.

Indicative new overseas student commencement limit for 2025

In 2025, the indicative limit for << Organisation>> will be << provider limit>>.

In determining this indicative limit, the department has taken into account whether your organisation is a public provider, and, if not, the department's assessment of your international student concentration in 2023, as well as your new overseas student commencements in 2023. For providers with zero new overseas student commencements in 2023, your proposed limit instead takes into account the department's internal indicative estimate of your 2024 new overseas student commencements. Where the 2023 and estimated 2024 values are both zero, the indicative limit is 30 new overseas student commencements.

The Department of Employment and Workplace Relations has determined international and domestic student concentrations using National Centre for Vocational Education Research calendar year individual student data for 2023 (program enrolments only).

As previously advised, organisations that also deliver higher education courses to international students under the same Commonwealth Register of Institutions and Courses for Overseas (CRICOS) registration would have a total enrolment limit equal to the sum of allocations for VET and higher education. The Department of Education has written to dual sector providers separately with advice on these allocations.
