

Question: Which states are asking for those self-assessments?

Background: What we have seen recently is states and territories bringing out ethical and explainable AI guidelines and best practice for government procurement, and, as we work in this state and territory space as well, we've filled in and completed a few of those self-assessments on behalf of those clients.

Response:

- In June 2024, the Federal government released the National Framework for the Assurance of Artificial Intelligence in Government
- The NSW AI Assessment Framework (AIAF) has been established to guide NSW Government agencies through the ethical development, deployment and use of artificial intelligence (AI) technologies and is linked to the National Framework.
- The AI Assessment Framework (AIAF) is mandatory for all NSW Government Agencies to use as part of vendor evaluation in procurement.
