

I strongly oppose this visa capping bill. I have waited for almost 2 years since I submitted my onshore 885 visa application. I bought a car, found a full-time job and paid a lot of tax to the government. I made contribution to the Australian and want stay here to make more contribution, because I already consider Australia my home now. But if the parliament pass the bill, I may be asked to leave Australia despite of the effort I made, that is extremely unfair and inhumane. I have stayed in Australia for about 4 years, completed my master's degree in Australia, made lots of friend here, I just don't understand why Immigration policies change so frequently and so dramatically just in order to refuse people who have passion about Australia and who want make contributions to Australia.
