

Dear Sir/Madam

Since when do we allow object terms in our legal system permission's and rights when they have not been official recognised here in Australia and Internationally?

Even the UN has not officially accepted "international human rights standards apply to people of all sexual orientations and gender identities". Yes there is an increasing number of counties in the UN that are pushing (ie. "Supporting") for the recognition of "sexual orientations and gender identities", BUT IT HAS NOT BEEN RATIFIED BY THE UN COUNCIL.

This inclusion of "sexual orientations and gender identities" in our legal documents without a public mandate (ie. a referendum) would make a mockery of our legal system.

Note that "sexual orientations and gender identities" are not genetic (other than Man or Woman) and are man made philosophies of life style, and should not be included in legal discrimination acts .

Stephen Hatton