To whom it may concern,

I would like to express a strongly concerned opinion over the new bill you are considering accepting.

How is it that the government want to keep the abuse thousands if not millions of animals suffering everyday a secret?!

Animal cruelty should not only be taken seriously, it should be punishable with stricter penalties and jail time.

There is nothing worse in this world than preying on a defenceless creature. Whether it's for enjoyment, to make a buck or to satisfy your sadistic tendencies, it's wrong and the people educating the public should not be penalised whilst the criminal gets away scotch free.

Take a good look at yourselves and stop thinking about the money.

Regards,

Casey
