

This bill would, among other things, make it illegal merely to offend someone else in at work on the ground of their religious (or political) beliefs. I find this greatly offensive. Look what happens when Muslims are even slightly offended-murder and mayhem. Yet Christians are being slandered all the time. For example, Jesus holy name is being used as a swear or curse words. Some students I have taught over the years only know Jesus as the swear word, rather than as Jesus sent by God to save the world (as Christians believe). Several people have spoken out in the media against this extreme proposal – but unless they make a submission to the Senate committee, their concerns will be ignored. We, Graham and Lois Mitchell of
are very upset about this.
