JOINT STANDING COMMITTEE ON FOREIGN AFFAIRS, DEFENCE AND TRADE

Inquiry into establishing a Modern Slavery Act in Australia

Hearings on modern slavery

The Foreign Affairs and Aid Sub-Committee of the Parliament's Joint Standing Committee on Foreign Affairs, Defence and Trade will hear from a range of organisations and experts over two days of public hearings in Melbourne on Tuesday 1 August and Wednesday 2 August 2017 for its inquiry into establishing a Modern Slavery Act in Australia, launched in February 2017.

The Sub-Committee is investigating measures to improve Australia's framework for combatting modern slavery. This includes examining whether provisions of the UK Modern Slavery Act 2015 could be improved and introduced in Australia, such as the requirement for businesses to report on measures to eradicate modern slavery from their global supply chains.

Chair of the Foreign Affairs and Aid Sub-Committee, Mr Chris Crewther MP, said the sub-committee welcomed the opportunity to meet with a range of organisations and experts over the two days of hearings, including Amnesty International, the Freedom Partnership, the Australian Chamber of Commerce and Industry and the Law Council of Australia.

"The Sub-Committee looks forward to hearing from the important work being undertaken by these organisations to combat modern slavery in Australia and around the world," Mr Crewther said. "The Sub-Committee will also hear from a number of organisations working to combat the exploitation of children overseas through orphanage tourism, including the Cambodian Children's Trust, Forget Me Not Foundation and Save the Children Australia."

"The Sub-Committee is particularly looking forward to hearing directly from survivors of modern slavery. The Sub-Committee welcomes the opportunity to meet with Hagar Australia's patron, Ms Rachel Griffiths, to discuss the important work they are doing supporting survivors of modern slavery around the world."
