Answer:
The Commonwealth and all State and Territory governments, with the exception of Western Australia, agreed to sign the National Health and Hospitals Network (NHHN) Agreement on 20 April 2010.

Discussions relating to the NHHN Agreement are continuing between the Commonwealth and Western Australia governments, and Western Australian officials have been involved in multilateral discussions between the Commonwealth and all states and territories regarding implementation.

Clause C21 of the NHHN Agreement allows for a review of funding arrangements 5 years from the commencement of the new public hospital funding arrangements or earlier if agreed by COAG.
Senator Fierravanti-Wells asked:

When was the Prime Minister’s hospitals and health plan revealed to the states and territories?

Answer:

The Commonwealth and State and Territory governments have worked collaboratively on health reform since November 2007. In November 2008, COAG agreed to the first stage of health reform outlined in the National Healthcare Agreement and related National Partnership agreements.

Following the release of the final report of the National Health and Hospitals Reform Commission in July 2009, COAG commenced discussion of longer-term reform directions for the Australian health system at its meeting in December 2009.

Informal discussions occurred through 2009 and early 2010 before formal negotiations on the National Health and Hospitals Network (NHHN) commenced in February 2010 with the establishment of the COAG Health Reform Working Group. Substantial elements of the NHHN agenda were discussed by this Working Group from February 2010, before the Commonwealth’s comprehensive offer was publically released on 3 March 2010 and 12 April 2010 with the publication of the documents: “A National Health and Hospitals Network for Australia’s Future” and “A National Health and Hospitals Network for Australia’s Future: Further Investments in Australia’s Health.”
Senator Fierravanti-Wells asked:

11. Mr Rimmer stated on 25 May 2010 that there were four formal meetings of the health reform working group that he leads and that the first was held on the 5 February 2010. Please provide the dates of the remaining three meetings and who attended the meetings, include all agencies represented and State and Territory representatives?

12. Who from the Prime Minister’s office and the Minister for Health’s office attended some or all of these meetings?

29. How did the Commonwealth actively engage with the states on health reform and how many meetings were conducted and who attended, please provide by State and Territories? In respect of these meetings;
   • Were meetings held within the Prime Minister’s office and who was involved from the Prime Minister’s office?
   • Were the Department of Health and Ageing involved?
   • Were Treasury involved?
   • Was the Minister for Health involved?

Answer:

Following the release of the final report of the National Health and Hospitals Reform Commission in July 2009, COAG commenced discussion of longer-term reform direction for the Australian health system at its meeting in December 2009.

In early 2010, the Minister for Health and Ageing held bilateral discussions with state and territory First Ministers and Health Ministers. These meetings were attended by Minister Roxon’s staff, and Commonwealth and State or Territory officials from Health and First Minister’s departments.

Formal negotiations on the National Health and Hospitals Network (NHHN) commenced in February 2010 with the establishment of the COAG Health Reform Working Group. This working group comprised Commonwealth and state and territory officials from First Minister’s departments, health departments, and treasuries. The working group met on the following dates:

- 5 February 2010
- 5 March 2010
- 19 March 2010
- 29 March 2010

The COAG Health Reform Working Group established three subgroups (covering primary care, hospitals and financial impacts and costings) to progress specific elements of the NHHN agenda. These subgroups comprised Commonwealth and state and territory officials from First Minister’s departments, health departments, and treasuries. The subgroups met regularly by teleconference or telepresence in the months before the April COAG meeting.

The Heads of Treasuries and their deputies forum also met in parallel with the COAG Health Reform Working Group to consider aspects of the NHHN agenda relevant to federal financial relations.

Following the final COAG Health Reform Working Group meeting, the COAG Senior Officials group and their deputies forum (comprising Commonwealth and state and territory officials from First Minister’s departments) met on several occasions to finalise the NHHN Agreement and related material for COAG consideration.

No staff from the Prime Minister’s office or Health Minister’s office attended the officials meetings.

Finally in the lead up to the April COAG meeting a series of bilateral meetings and teleconferences were held as required. These meetings involved a combination of the Prime Minister, the Minister for Health and Ageing, state and territory First Ministers and Health Ministers. The face to face meetings were attended by ministerial staff and Commonwealth and state or territory officials from First Minister’s and health departments.
Senator Fierravanti-Wells asked:

13. Who within the Department of Prime Minister and Cabinet provided final sign off of the first and second versions of A National Health and Hospitals Network for Australia’s Future?

14. Who within the Department of Prime Minister and Cabinet provided final sign off of the National Health and Hospitals Network for Australia’s Future?

Answer:

Officials within the Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet did not provide final sign off of the three publications on the National Health and Hospitals Network. The Prime Minister, Minister for Health and Ageing and the Treasurer authorised the publication of all three documents:

- A National Health and Hospitals Network;
- A National Health and Hospitals Network: Further Investments in Australia’s Health; and

Senator Fierravanti-Wells asked:

What instructions did the Department of Prime Minister and Cabinet receive from the incoming government on health reform and the incoming government’s election commitments on health?

Answer:

Prior to the 2007 Federal election, the Australia Labor Party made a range of election commitments in relation to health including the establishment of a National Health and Hospitals Reform Commission to develop a long term health reform plan. The Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet provided advice to the incoming government on a range of election commitment matters including health reform. Further advice was provided in the lead up to the Council of Australian Governments meeting in December 2007.
Senator Fierravanti-Wells asked:

22. When did the Department of Prime Minister and Cabinet first commence work on the establishment of the National Health and Hospitals Commission?

23. Within the Department of Prime Minister and Cabinet who was responsible for the work on the National Health and Hospitals Commission?

24. Who was the key driver on the National Health and Hospitals Commission, the Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet or the Department of Health and Ageing?

26. When did the Department of Prime Minister and Cabinet start that interaction with the Department of Health and Ageing in relation to the reform commission’s work?

Answer:

The establishment of the National Health and Hospitals Reform Commission (NHHRC) was announced in Australian Labor Party 2007 election commitment documentation.

The Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet (PM&C) provided advice to the incoming government on a range of election commitment matters including the NHHRC. Further advice was provided in the lead up to the Council of Australian Governments meeting in December 2007. Social Policy Division within PM&C had responsibility for providing advice on this issue.

The Department of Health and Ageing (DoHA) was responsible for the establishment of the National Health and Hospitals Reform Commission, including providing secretariat services.
Following the formation of the Government in late 2007 PM&C and DoHA worked closely on the issues relating to the NHHRC.
Senator Fierravanti-Wells asked:

27. What was the Department of Prime Minister and Cabinet’s role in the 21 visits undertaken by the Prime Minister as part of the health reform consultation process?

28. Were the number and location of the visits selected by the Prime Minister or Minister for Health and Ageing and their advisers?

Answer:

The health reform consultations were agreed between the offices of the Prime Minister and the Minister for Health in consultation with the Department of Health to ensure a broad sample of hospitals and health services to meet the Prime Minister’s commitment in his speech on 27 July 2009:

“The Minister and I will now engage directly with the nation’s major hospitals in each of our capital cities.

This will begin tomorrow when the Minister and I visit Royal North Shore Hospital in Sydney, the first of a series of consultations with around 25 major metropolitan teaching hospitals around the country.

The Minister and I believe that we need to hear first-hand from those in the front-line of health and hospital care – warts and all. I’m sure a lot of what we hear won’t be pretty.

And I’m sure we’ll also hear many of the good things our health and hospital systems are doing as well. We want to hear directly their response to the various recommendations contained in this report.

In addition, the Government will be consulting directly with a representative group of rural, regional and private hospitals as well our health professionals, community health services and other critical parties to the debate.”
The Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet provided briefing for the Prime Minister for these meetings.
Senator Fierravanti-Wells asked:
Did the State and Territories request that clinicians not be included specifically in the wording of the agreement in relation to governing councils and Local Hospital Networks?

Answer:
The Commonwealth and all states and territories, excluding Western Australia, agreed to the establishment of the National Health and Hospitals Network (NHHN), at the COAG meeting of 19 and 20 April 2010.

As outlined in the NHHN Agreement (Clause A10 b ii.), COAG agreed that Governing Councils will comprise members with an appropriate mix of skills and expertise, including clinical expertise.

Senator Fierravanti-Wells asked:

The IGA includes agreement that there will be no net increase in bureaucracy across Commonwealth and state governments as a proportion of the ongoing health workforce – how will this be monitored? What is the penalty for the States and Territories not complying with this agreement?

Answer:

The Commonwealth will ensure that there is no net increase in Commonwealth bureaucracy as a proportion of the ongoing health workforce.

State and territory governments have committed under the National Health and Hospitals Network Agreement to implement reforms with no net increase in bureaucracy across state and territory governments as a proportion of the ongoing health workforce. There will be further discussions between the Commonwealth and states and territories on this matter.
Senator Fierravanti-Wells asked:
When did the Commonwealth government agree to allow state governments to have full responsibility for appointments to the LHN governing councils? Will state and territory governments call for nominees from relevant professional and consumer bodies?

Answer:

The Commonwealth government announced on 3 March 2010 in the document A National Health and Hospitals Network for Australia’s Future (pg 63) that “Council Members will be appointed under state legislation.”

The Commonwealth has not changed its position.

The nomination process for governing council members is still being finalised. On 28 May 2010 the Prime Minister announced that Lead Clinician Groups (groups of local health professionals - doctors, nurses and allied health professionals – who will advise Local Hospital Networks on improving safety and quality and the implementation of national best practice) will be approached to nominate clinicians to sit on the Governing Council of their Local Hospital Network.
Senator Fierravanti-Wells asked:
I understand that the National Funding Authority falls under the Financial Management and Accountability Act 1997, in this respect will the staff be employees of the Australian Public Service and if so how many staff will be employed?

Answer:
Following further discussions between the Commonwealth and States and Territories it has been agreed that the National Funding Authority is not required and will not be established.

Payments from the National Health and Hospital Network (NHHN) Fund to State NHHN Funding Authorities, and through them to Local Hospital Networks, will be reported transparently in Commonwealth Budget documentation.
