

I also agreed to provide the Committee, following a question from Mr Leeser, more information regarding the difference between the term 'national' and citizen.

I explained that broadly the terms are interchangeable regarding full membership of a nation-state, but that in the USA there is a distinction,

A national who is not a citizen is set out in the US Code - § 1408.

"Nationals but not citizens of the United States at birth"

<https://www.law.cornell.edu/uscode/text/8/1408>

See also:

<https://travel.state.gov/content/travel/en/legal/travel-legal-considerations/us-citizenship/Certificates-Non-Citizen-Nationality.html>

And for Tax purposes see <https://www.irs.gov/individuals/international-taxpayers/immigration-terms-and-definitions-involving-aliens>

My reference to Puerto Rico as an example, while earlier the case, is no longer:

<https://www.immihelp.com/immigration/us-national.html>

Indeed, a 1934 Law Review article available on the web shows the intricacies of the historical situation:

<https://scholarship.law.berkeley.edu/cgi/viewcontent.cgi?referer=https://www.google.com/&httpsredir=1&article=3803&context=californialawreview>

I also referred to a data base on citizenship and nationality that has a lot of information.

That is the GlobalCit website <http://globalcit.eu/>

I hope this is of help to the Committee.

I'd be grateful if you could confirm receipt of this email.

Best,

Kim Rubenstein

Professor Kim Rubenstein FAAL, FASSA
ANU Law School
Public Policy Fellow
ANU College of Law
Australian National University