

Dear sir/madam,

I just want to know what the plans to do this are. In my opinion that if you going to send the international students back to their countries while they have applied for temporary residency or permanent residency then do you think that you will have more international students for their further studies? As i know there are 43000 in Victoria students applied for TR or PR. It'll really effect the Australian economy and labour.

As I consider, in next year s the resession in Australia will be begin and i think you never want that in Australia. Then why you want to send the workers out of Australia. They work and pay taxes, then 30% population of Australia get pension and centre pay.
