

Dear sir/madam: I am writtin to express my opinion on the Migration amendment (Visa Capping) bill 2010. I am a student in Australia but I think the bill is not acceptable. Those persons who have waited a long time have already settled down in Australia, and they have made a lot of contribution to Australia and will continue to make in the future. Capping will make them miserable, leading to loss of workfore for Australia, and even harm the credibility of Autralian government. Australian government is maintaining a healthy impression internationally, so I don't think such a bill is a good way to show Autralian government as responsilble goverment. Thanks very much! Best regards Dennis
