

Australia must move to nuclear power and embrace research into thorium salt nuclear energy.
Wind power is not cost effective and cannot provide the energy we need for future economic and social development.
To ignore nuclear energy is to doom Australia to becoming a third world nation in the longer term.

John Michelmores