

Subject: Urgent Need for Action: Pass the Climate Crisis Impact Bill

Dear Minister,

I am writing to strongly urge your support for the Climate Crisis Impact Bill. Despite not being a parent, my concern for the future of our world, particularly for my nieces, nephews, and children worldwide, compels me to reach out in support this bill and emphasise the crucial need for this government to take immediate action.

Our beautiful landscapes, diverse cultures, and precious ecosystems are at risk of irreparable damage and even disappearance and extinction due to ignorance, delay and inaction. It is heartbreaking to imagine facing our future generations and admitting that we knew about these threats yet did nothing to protect their future and their access to a safe and stable world as we know it.

While prioritising the interests of fossil fuel corporations and their stakeholders, we risk sacrificing our environment and society. Can we really look back and say we knew about this but we let this happen? It is imperative to act now. Earth has surpassed the critical 2-degree mark just this week, and the alarming rise in ocean temperatures that are literally off the charts poses threats scientists don't even understand. Genuine tipping points loom, threatening our very existence.

I implore you to recognise this moment's significance. Passing this bill is not just a legislative action but a moral obligation. A government and its ministers who are genuinely concerned about climate change must support this bill.

I urge you to be on the right side of history. The decisions made now will be judged by future generations and in the history books. Let your government, who claim to support climate action, not be remembered for greenwashing or inaction but for your genuine commitment to safeguarding a safe and secure and thriving future for generations to come.

Sincerely,
