

I don't have personal experience working with indigenous people but do not agree with the concept of controlling other adults lives or punishing people who are struggling. The approach I favour is to enable and encourage others, providing assistance if requested. Listening to what is needed, respecting different cultures and ways of living out our lives.

It's just so unacceptable, what we've done and continue to do. Can't we learn!

Elizabeth Bodkin-Moore