

On the recent 43°C day, our power failed, and within an hour my carefully-cooled house heated to a near unbearable level ... I am extremely concerned at the effects of extreme heat or cold on elderly, newborns and health-vulnerable individuals, and wonder whether for predicted 'at risk' days, a local voluntary register can be created, and local 'muster' spaces with reliable cooling/heating could be set up for these people?

Tracey Baglin