Decree-Law 54/2013 of 17 April 2013
Administrative Rule n.º 154/2013 of 17 April

Ministry of Health
Decree-Law 54/2013 of 17 April 2013

It is with great concern that, in Portugal, as in other European countries, the opening of sites dedicated to the indiscriminate sale of psychoactive substances has been observed which, although seriously threatening public health, are not covered by criminal law, which affects the adoption of measures by the authorities, in particular those responsible for health, food and economic security. New psychoactive substances appear in the market at a pace of innovation that is beyond the means provided for in Decree-Law n.º 15/93, of 22 January.

The consumption of these substances, by ingestion, inhalation, aspiration, by application to the skin or by any other means of human absorption, is a real danger to the physical and mental integrity of persons and, therefore, a risk to public health. The degree of physical and psychological dependence caused by these substances is similar to and, in certain situations; it may exceed that which is caused by many illicit substances. Moreover, a causal link with psychiatric disorders has been clinically identified, including psychotic episodes with neurological disorders and severe cardiac complications. Furthermore, in this market substances are circulating whose effects on human physiology are not entirely known, which makes it very difficult the treatment of acute intoxications and long-term effects.

Marketed, not infrequently, at affordable prices, in the form of incense, bath salts, pills without other characterisation, herbs, fungi or fertilizers, the new psychoactive substances have seen growing demand, especially among teenagers.

Under various names, being the most common "smartshops", the local sales outlets advertise them as harmless to health, synthetic drugs, plants and fungi, which have been the object of alert by international bodies and the European Union, in particular the European Monitoring Centre for Drugs and Drug Addiction, as well as the Council, through the Council Decision 2005/387/JHA of 10 May 2005 on the information exchange, risk-assessment and control of new psychoactive substances. Distance selling, facilitated by orders and payments by electronic means, is particularly difficult to control and presents signs of expansion.

Health care is a duty set out in paragraph n.º 1 of article 64º of the Constitution of the Portuguese Republic, under which, with consensus formed around the danger of known new psychoactive substances and of susceptibility to foreseen new administrative sanctions, it was considered, still, essential, to establish sanitary measures for immediate effect against the production, distribution, sale, dispensation, import, export and advertisement of other new substances that are likely to arise in the market, given the serious and unpredictable threat of these substances.

Therefore, and in accordance with the provision of section b) of n.º 3 of - Basis XIX of Law n.º 48/90, of 24 August, as amended by Law n.º 27/2002, of 8 November, the present decree-law foresees the possibility of the health authorities that are territorially competent determine the closure of establishments or other places that are open to the public or the suspension of the activity for the purposes considered serious risks to public health.

The present decree-law was notified to the European Commission, in accordance with section a) of paragraph 1 of article 4 and paragraph 1 of article 7 of Decree-Law n.º 58/2000, of 18 April.

The governing bodies of the Autonomous Regions were heard.

Hearing with the National Consumer Council was promoted.

Thus:

Under the terms of section a) of paragraph 1 of article 198° of the Constitution, the Government decrees the following:

Article 1

Article 3

Classification

For the purposes of this decree-law, new psychoactive substances are considered as the substances defined in accordance with the provisions of the preceding article, included in a list to be approved by administrative rule of the Government member responsible for the area of health, as well as derivatives, isomers, and salts of those substances whenever their existence is possible, including all preparations in which they are associated with other compounds.

6. The General Inspector of ASAE is responsible for applying fines and other penalties provided for in this decree-law.

7. 8. The Forensic Science Laboratory of the Criminal Police, the National Institute of Forensic Medicine and INFARMED - National Authority of Medicines and Institute of Pharmacy and Medicines and Health Products, I.P., are the competent authorities to carry out the analysis and examinations foreseen in this decree-law, under the terms to be defined by administrative rule of the members of the Government responsible for the areas of internal affairs, justice and health.
